

Freshman Week

Freshman Orientation Week got started on September 12 and extended through September 18. The first program was a "get-together meeting" held in Smith Auditorium where the newcomers were taught the college song, the school yells, and the meaning of school bells. Too, a brief discussion of the history of the college went forward.

The second day, September 13, spent in registration, in tours, and in a study of the library, was concluded at 8:00 p. m. by an informal party in the gymnasium with Dr. James W. Seabrook as speaker.

On Thursday, September 12 the freshman, along with the other students, began their trek to classes. Standard tests were administered on Saturday, September 17, and on Sunday the members of the two Christian organizations accompanied the freshman to various churches. The vesper program at 4:00 p. m., with the Reverend E. N. Mattison of Fayetteville as speaker, concluded the exercises for freshmen. Mr. Lafayette Parker of the Department of Education was in charge of the program.

Remember

Students will wish to send during the Thanksgiving season a card to "Mother Jackson" — veteran teacher at the College for many years. Address your card to:

Miss Leonora T. Jackson 45 Grail Street
Asheville, North Carolina.

Homecoming Directors

Much of the success of this year's homecoming festivities will be due to the push of the "student committee" on homecoming. Students pictured here represent several classes and several student organizations. William Hill (front row, fifth from left) represents the student council.

grads — yes, hometown friends marching to the tune of several crack bands and to the fancy prancing of an assortment of high-stepping majorettes.

The celebration really gets going on Friday evening, November 18 when the local drama guild, directed by Miss Lois P. Turner, gives Irvin Shaw's "Bury The Dead" for the entertainment of the visitors. And you won't forget that for the past several years, Miss Turner and her players have touched off the homecoming festivities in a big way.

Rain or shine, a mammoth parade will get under way Saturday morning at 11:00 a. m., parade downtown and return in time to add zest to the kick off at 2:00 p. m. sharp. The homecoming game will be played this year with our sister institution, Elizabeth City Teachers College. That, too, thinks Charles Black, one Kentucky contribution to this year's Bronco machine, "will come out all right", when "State" opens up her bag of tricks and begins marching razzle dazzle down the field. Her majesty, Eunice George, this year's homecoming queen will reign with becoming dignity.

The evening dance will be great too; don't miss it. Everybody will be there — everybody.

THE DAVIS WAY

The staff of the "Voice" expresses here thanks to Mrs.
Veatrice Davis, Secretary to the Dean, for the manner in which she pushed through the major part of the clerical work for the present issue of the "Voice."

Others who lent valuable assistance include:

Dean Joseph H. Douglass, Miss Lenna Means, Mr. James E. Cop-page, and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Smith.

Campus Sweetheart

Little Miss Mae Louise Seabrook, sweetheart of the campus, takes advantage of State's grassy lawns and winding walks. Why not? Her dad is the school's president.
