BATTLE OF BEAUTY

When these two lovely co-eds tossed their hats into the ring recently, as candidates for "Miss Homecoming of 1951," it was immediately labeled a "battle of beauty." And that it was. They are (left to right), Miss Ruby Lee Jones, of Lynchburg, Va., candidate from the Senior Class, and Miss Geraldine Bullock of Norlina, competitor from the Junior Class. In a case like this, "anything can happen."

HOMECOMING

The thrill of homecoming has settled upon the campus with a thud. It is the same old story of a vast assortment of floats provided by various alumni and student groups, of cheerleaders dressed to

GERALDINE BULLOCK HOMECOMING QUEEN

"The Broncos will win the homecoming game," declared attractive, popular Miss Geraldine Bullock, a junior of Norlina, and the newly-elected 1951 Homecoming Queen. This "first young woman of the campus," says her hobby is working with the Y.W.C.A.

For the third consecutive year the juniors have outvoted the seniors to crown a junior as queen. Attendants are: freshman, Miss Valeen Smith, of Lillington; sophomore, Miss Hilda Drew of Jackson; and Miss Ruby L. Jones, senior of Lynchburg, Va.

Dr. Frierson Conducts Summer Workshop

At the request of Morris College, Friendship College and the South Carolina State Department of Education, Dr. Marguerite S. Frierson, Chairman of the area of Education, conducted during the past summer quarter a five-weeks workshop for the elementary school teachers from Lancaster, Chester, Rock Hill, York and surrounding counties. The work was carried on at Friendship Junior College in Rock Hill, South Carolina, and Dr. Frierson is enthusiastic over the response she had from the teachers in attendance.

In response to the totality of her work with President O. R. Reuhen of Morris College, with the teachers pursuing the course, and with those who in one way or another shared the work, Dr. Frierson has concluded, "I really had fun."

Liberian Student Near Graduation

After nearly thirty months of study at the Fayetteville State Teachers College where she is scheduled to receive the Bachelor's degree in December, Mrs. Beatrice G. Williams sticks to a statement she made during the first three weeks of her stay, "Everybody here is nice; the students and the teachers are very friendly. I had always heard that Americans were friendly." A former teacher in the College of West Africa

Popular Instructor Passes Away

Miss Edna L. Jefferson, for two years an instructor in household arts at Fayetteville State Teachers College, died on August 12, at a New York hospital, where she had gone for medical treatment. She was an effective and a popular teacher who was active in many aspects of the college program. Born and reared in Cordele, Georgia, she attended the public schools of that city and from thence she

Prexy Pushes Building Program

With work incident to the building program calling for his time, with an ever-increasing number of public addresses on his calendar, and with the duties of college administration crowding into the fall session, Dr. James W. Seabrook remains now as always a busy man. High up on his agenda just now is the extension of the physical plant.

The opening of the fall session found segments of his extensive building and renovation program nearing completion. At the cost of $40,000 the dining hall has been completely renovated and a new refrigeration outfit and facilities for cafeteria service installed. Bickett Hall for women students has been renovated and modernized throughout at the cost of $100,000 and will be ready for occupancy in the near future. Under construction also are a new $227,000 dormitory for women and an auditorium that will run to $285,000. Recently, contracts were let for the enlargement of the library and for conversion of the present

MR. PRESIDENT

President James Ward Seabrook, known far and wide for his famous "three C's", is spearheading another huge building program at "State". Some call him Mr. President; some, "The Builder."
