

F. S. C. Artist

Recently, we observed FINE ARTS WEEK here at Fayetteville State. Among the many entertaining features presented were the paintings of Alvin Burney, which were on display in the Chesnut Library. Mr. Harvey C. Jenkins of the Fine Arts Department points up the following facts concerning Burney.

Burney, a senior, and an elementary education major will graduate with a minor in art. One other student, Joyce Holmes, will also be eligible for an art minor. Burney, a 1959 graduate of E. E. Smith Senior High, studied art there under the supervision of Mr. J. F. Drake. He attended one year at Coppin State College in Baltimore, Maryland, and returned to Fayetteville to enroll in our new art program at Fayetteville State College.

On our campus, Burney readily became quite popular as an artist. He has gained the distinction of designing the cover of the Student Handbook — the only student to have done so. He designed and completed the school scrapbook which is on display in the Public Relations Office. He has entered a nation-wide designing contest sponsored by the St. Regis Paper Company of Chicago, Illinois.

His work has been displayed at Eutaw Shopping Center where he received many offers from interested buyers. He last entered a showing there on May 15.

Under the present supervision of Mrs. Helen T. Chick and Mr. Jenkins, Burney has produced works of superior calibre in charcoal, water colors, pastels, sculpture and oil paints.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. James W. Burney of Fayetteville are both self-styled artists. Like them, we here at Fayetteville State are very proud of Burney's achievements.

Fine Arts

JUANITA McRAE

Fayetteville State had a rather full schedule of more than just interesting programs in observance of Fine Arts Week. The schedule consisted of a movie on Monday, a play on Tuesday, an a recital on Wednesday, and choral singing on Thursday evening.

The complete student body turned out on Monday night to see the highly acclaimed movie production, The St. Louis Blues. The life of W. C. Handy with his many trials and hardship was welded into the hearts of many through the splendid performance of Nat King Cole. Everyone thoroughly enjoyed the movie as could be detected from the many tear-stained faces afterward.

To continue the trend of thought produced by the movie, the college family was treated to a marvelous production of the Taming of the Shrew on the following evening. This production was by the National Players of Washington, D. C. This Shakespearean comedy added a light-hearted atmosphere to the otherwise monotonous routine of an audience. There was high rate

F. S. C. Edges Norfolk

ROBERT MELVIN

Behind the superb relief pitching of southpaw James Whitted, Fayetteville broke into the victory column with a win against Norfolk State.

The Broncos scored 3 runs in the first inning with two outs. James Whitted and Marlyn Walker walked, Robert Parks, Mel Ott Battle, and Wyatt Jackson followed with successive singles.

Norfolk tied the game in the second with the aid of 3 bases on balls, 2 errors and a single.

The contest continued to be topsy-turvy, with the Broncos eeking out a 7-5 victory.

Parks, freshman left fielder, was the hitting star with 3 for 4 at the plate. Walker and Jackson were superlative defensively.

Fay. Bombed By Shaw

ROBERT MELVIN

A loose Bronco defense and erratic pitching led to 19 hits and 25 runs by Shaw University. Shaw scored 8 runs in the first and fifth innings.

Fayetteville's only bright spot was All-CIAA catcher Marlyn (Marly) Walker, a stupendous power hitter to all fields and standout defensive player, hit a two run homer in the first and a triple in the third. He was 2 for 5 at the plate and batted in 3 runs. State's "Mr. Basketball" also had numerous occasions to display his rifle arm.

of interest as students leaned forward slightly in order to grasp every word with full meaning as it was given in the play.

The general tone of events changed on Wednesday night as people arrived at the auditorium anxious to behold what wonders could be produced on an artist's canvas with nothing to aid his vision but a black light. Students' minds were left in a complete state of awe and bewilderment as Mr. Jack Jordan so deftly produced generous pieces of art with his black lamp and soft music. He not only satisfied our curiosity but gave us much material for thought as well.

The week was majestically drawn to a close on Thursday evening by the splendid music of the Winston-Salem College Choir. There was dreamy music, peaceful music, thoughtful music, beautiful music; but, most of all, wonderful music by which to conclude an equally wonderful week of extraordinary fine art.

Athletic Banquet

MARLYN WALKER

All athletes of the college enjoyed an evening of good eating and sports lingo on April 23, at the Annual Athletic Banquet held in the H. L. Cook Dining Hall. Mr. W. A. Bryant, former football and basketball coach at Fayetteville State College, was the guest speaker. At the present he is head coach at Paisley High School, Winston-Salem, North Carolina. In his address, Mr. Bryant emphasized the fact that a desire to win is the all-important factor in any sport.

Jack Johnson was awarded the most improved football player trophy. Fred Bibby, who won All-CIAA honors, was awarded the most outstanding basketball player trophy. And Jesse Williams was awarded the most outstanding tennis trophy. All presentations were made by Dr. Rudolph Jones, President of the college.

Letters were also awarded for these three sports. The track and baseball trophies and letters will be presented at the end of the respective seasons.

The menu for the evening consisted of Orange and grapefruit cocktail, roast chicken with dressing, broccoli with cream sauce, paprika — buttered potatoes, tomato and lettuce cup salad, pickle chips, rolls and butter, iced tea with lemon, and strawberry shortcake.

Tennis

MARLYN WALKER

Although the tennis team was unable to win a match this season, Jesse Williams proved that he is one of the best players in the Conference by winning five matches and losing only two. Jesse sports a well executed serve and returns the ball with either hand with superb marksmanship. He was awarded the most outstanding tennis player tennis trophy for the second year in a row.

Other members of the squad who were awarded letters are Marvin Stokes, Wilbur Wilson, Ray Baker, James Winters and Wesley Allen.

The team, accompanied by Coach Page Saunders, participated in the Central Intercollegiate Athletic Association tournament held at Hampton Institute, Hampton, Virginia, on May 14-16.
