By JOSEPH HOLDEN

Terecia Melvin, a 20 year old rising senior from Roseboro, captured the top post in elections held last Monday when she was named "Miss Fayetteville State University," 1972-73. The other winners in the election were Patricia Spinks, Siler City rising junior, "Miss Homecoming," and Billie Williams, rising junior from Clayton, who was named "Miss Student Center," the first for the new million dollar office.

In all there were 16 candidates running for the three offices, but students, as they did in the earlier voting for Student Government Association officers failed to turn up at the polls. Only 495 votes of a potential 1500 were cast.

Miss Melvin won in the Miss FSU race with 283 votes, the highest total garnered by a candidate for any office, Emma McLaurin drew 145, with Patricia Gooding trailing with 67.

Miss Spinks' winning total was 138 in the Miss Homecoming race, but had close opposition from several other candidates. Barbara McNair tallied 91, and Valinda Ray, 82. Others trailing in order were Wandafa Boone and Jacqueline Gill, 70 each, and Jacqueline Tyler, 41.

Those trailing Miss Williams' winning 142 total for Miss Student Center were Lettie Williams, 95, Mary Canty, 70, Valinda Carter, 54, Willie Dudley, 35, and Pamela Raye, 29.

All three winners expressed some surprise at winning and thanked their supporters. Miss Melvin said her election will "give me a chance to become better acquainted with the student body, and I hope to serve FSU in every way I can."

Miss Spinks said that "I don't just intend to hold the position, I intend to support the Broncos in every way possible. I am very proud to have been selected homecoming queen."

Miss Williams said she was very proud to be Miss Student Center because "being the first makes it most beautiful."
