The program started the first semester of the 1974-75 academic school year and is in the department of biological and physical sciences.

The department, headed by Dr. J.L. Knuckles, acting chairman, Division of Science and Mathematics at Fayetteville State University, consists of two phases of study.

The first phase, according to Dr. Knuckles, will be the collegiate phase wherein the student will spend three years of study at FSU. In the second phase, the student will spend a 12 month study period at a school of medical technology which has been approved by the American Medical Association (AMA). According to Knuckles, this is usually a hospital.

Upon completion of both phases of the program, the medical technologist will be conferred the Bachelor of Medical Technology degree by the university.

DELTAS SPONSOR A FOOD DRIVE FOR THANKSGIVING

As a service to the public, the members of the Delta Xi Chapter of Delta Sigma Theta, decided to sponsor a Food Drive for Thanksgiving. The purpose of the project was to provide a needy family with a Thanksgiving dinner. We realized that everyone would not be as fortunate as we were during the Thanksgiving Holiday. The project enabled us to feel that we could, successfully, be of service to the community. In other words, by sponsoring this project, we were able to make a family's Thanksgiving one of delight.

In preparation for this project, we contacted Social Service and the Salvation Army, for their aid. They found a family for us to assist. We decided to ask students for their assistance. In addition to making posters, that announced our need for can or dried foods, we expressed our need, verbally to students and faculty members. We provided containers so that the foods could be safely stored.

As previously stated, the drive was successful. Thanks to your kindness, thoughtfulness, and consideration, we were able to bring happiness to a family in need.
