Over 2000 Students Enroll for Fall Term

Fayetteville State University has enrolled over 2000 students for the first semester.

According to Donald LaHuffman, Director of Admissions at Fayetteville State, this marks a big increase over last year.

"This increase of 153 students over last year's figures," LaHuffman said, "with the majority of the students being listed as in-state."

LaHuffman said counties in North Carolina with the highest representation are Cumberland, Bladen, Sampson, Robeson, Onslow, Anson, Craven, Scotland, Halifax, Harnett, Pitt, Wayne, and Edgecombe.

There was also an increase in the representation from out-of-state, with most of the students coming from Illinois, Florida, Virginia, South Carolina, Pennsylvania, New York and Washington, D.C.

There has been considerable growth in enrollment over the past five years, LaHuffman said, with rapid enrollment over the past two years.

LaHuffman also said that an effort is being made to recruit more non-black students.

Olin Little, a white, was recently appointed as a recruiter to the Office of Admissions to help "generate interest and increase the non-black applications at FSU."

Another Big Year

It looks like it might be tough for CIAA defending football champs Norfolk State College this year after barely easing by Fayetteville State University, 9-7.

After the first two weeks of the CIAA season, a lot of big surprises have emerged from the football ranks.

Hampton Institute has won its first two games defeating Winston-Salem State at home and dropping Shaw University on the road for a 2-0 league mark.

Of course Norfolk State is also undefeated in two outings having won over non-conference for Elon College on the road and FSU with a 1-0 CIAA mark and a 2-0 overall record.

During the week of September 20, the winners were VA. Union J. C. Smith 17-16; Central over Winston-Salem State 27-10; Livingstone over Federal City 21-8; Elizabeth City State over Virginia State 15-14.

The Voice Sports Department makes its predictions for the upcoming CIAA games:

The week of October 4

Fayetteville State University 14, Morehouse College, 12 Winston-Salem State 24, Norfolk State, 20 Elizabeth City 14, Hampton 13 Livingstone 28, Virginia State, 15

The week of October 11

Fayetteville State University 48, St. Paul's College, 0 Winston-Salem State 20, Livingstone College, 15 Va. Union 28, Elizabeth City, 20

Honorable Mention

A special tribute is paid George Ellis, an FSU senior and history major. Ellis proved to be an asset to the FSU baseball team this past spring. He was chosen as all CIAA shortstop and Conference Most Valuable Player for the 1975 baseball season. George has proclaimed the season a success in more ways than one. "We won more games and there was such good sportsmanship among the players," he said.

George is a native of Fayetteville and says he can't think of a place he'd rather be. He possesses a universal belief in people, enjoys meeting them, and conversing on various subjects. In his opinion, the women at FSU are friendly as well as charming.

George credits a large portion of his success to his high school coach, W. J. Carver at E. E. Smith High School. His main goal is cited as being able to play professional baseball. To him, this would come close to producing that same joy he expressed when he watched Hank Aaron hit his seven-hundred third homerun.

How does he spend his time now that baseball season is over? He plays in the FSU marching band, does a lot of "rapping", and visits his favorite haunts-Seabrook Park and of course, FSU campus.
