Father, Daughter Elected To Office

By Darlene Foye

A father and daughter ran for and won Student Government Association positions at Fayetteville State University, a first in the school's history, according to Dr. C. C. Hatcher, Vice Chancellor for Student Development.

Marion Crowe, the father, ran for the office of Vice President, of the Student Government Association; his daughter, Wrenn LaDell Crowe, elected to seek the Miss Fayetteville State University title. Marion, who is called "Doolittle" by most of the student body, said, "I told her that her chances of winning

Women Of America

The Board of Advisors for the Outstanding Young Women of America selected for inclusion in the 1982 edition of Outstanding Young Women Mrs. Glenn Sexton, counselor of the Center for Enhancement of Educational Development (CEED) at FSU.

The Outstanding Young Women of America program is designed to honor and encourage exceptional young women between the ages of 21 and 36 who have distinguished themselves in their homes, their professions and their communities. Accomplishments such as these are the result of dedication, service and leadership - qualities which deserve to be recognized and remembered.

This is the goal of the many leading women's organizations, college alumni associates and public officials who nominate deserving young women to participate in the program. Serving as Chairman of the Program's Advisory Board is Mrs. Dexter Otis Arnold, honorary president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs.

The women listed, along with approximately 23,000 fellow Outstanding Young Women of America from across the United States, will be presented in the prestigious annual awards volume. In addition, they are now being considered for one of the fifty-one state awards to be presented to those women who have made the most noteworthy contributions in their individual states. From these fifty-one state winners, the Ten Outstanding Young Women of America will be chosen. The ten national winners will be honored at the annual awards luncheon held in Washington, D.C.

were pretty good and explained the task she had to prepare herself for. She saw it as a challenge and an opportunity to present her views concerning campus improvement and student involvement."

Students on campus who know that they are father and daughter, occasionally "ribbed" the two about it. Wrenn is often asked how she feels about some students referring to her father as the "campus flirt", replied, "It's nice. Everyone knows he does so in fun. I think it's a tribute to him and to me that he is able to relate to the students who still respect him as their elder. There are many students on campus the same age as my father, however; most of the students see them as parents or being too old to be a part of what the younger students are doing. This is not the case with my father."

Charm Comes To FSU!

By Lenita Freeman

What is charm? Webster defines charm as: a trait that fascinates, allures, or delights or as: compelling attractiveness and appeal dispelling any possible reserved or antagonistic feelings. Are you charming? You could be had you participated in the Charm Clinic that was held second semester.

Mrs. Theola Swinson, Instructor in the Division of General Studies conducted a Charm Clinic in which young ladies were taught, among other things, how to walk, how to dress, personal hygiene and etiquette. The Clinic was conducted during the second semester with the group meeting in the Multi-Purpose Room of the Rudolph Jones Student Center each Sunday from 4:00 to 5:00 p.m.

Participants were shown the proper way to apply make-up, ways to cleanse the skin without the use of expensive toiletries, etc.

When asked how the idea evolved Mrs. Swinson said "several students approached me about it, both male and female, and after careful deliberation I decided to give it a try. I was a little leary about how many students would actually show up but it turned out that the Clinic had over 50 participants."

Mrs. Swinson talked of the need for young ladies to learn how to dress for success and how important the appropriate attire is to ones success. She says she's not sure if she will be here to conduct the Clinic next semester because of her plans to attend graduate school, however, she would like to see it continued. "Perhaps, a program could be designed for the young men on campus."

Wrenn, call "Lady" by her father, was also asked her feelings concerning her father living on campus with her (Student Government Association officials are offered on campus living arrangements) explained, "Everybody asks me that question when they realize we are related. I enjoy having him on the "yard" with me. Whenever I have a problem, he is right here. I don't have to go home or try to telephone him. It's more like a brother and sister relationship than father and daughter." She added jokingly, "Besides with him on the "yard" I can keep a watchful eye on him."

Both are active in Bronco affairs in their own rights. Marion is Vice President of the Physical Education Majors (PEM) Club, Treasurer of the Day Student Association student director and production manager for the Drama Guild's Production "When You Comin Back Red Ryder" a graduate of Fayetteville Technical

Yearbook Editor Appointed

Mr. Marion Crowe, SGA Vice President (83-84), was appointed the position as Editor-In-Chief of the Fayettevillian (Yearbook) for 1983-84 academic year.

According to Dr. Irving Veazie, Director of Student Activities, Crowe was appointed to the position because of his demonstrated excellent performance in other university publications; Crowe is also Sports Editor for the "Voice".

Crowe's office as Editor of the Fayettevillian will be located in the Yearbook Room of the Rudolph Jones Student Center. Mrs. Rosemary Byrd, one of two advisors to the Fayettevillian says she is "looking forward to working with Crowe because he is a hard worker."

Crowe's position as Editor of the Fayettevillian was effective May 8, 1983.

Institute with an Associate Degree in Recreation and is presently Sports Editor for The Voice. Wrenn is a member of the Collegiate Fellowship, a member of the Social Life and Recreation Council, a member of the Student Center Activities Program Advisory Board, treasurer of the Delta Sigma Theta, Inc. and a graduate of Pine Forest Senior High where she was a cheerleader and a member of the Trojan's track team.

Although both state they try to keep family relationships separate from school activities, during elections Wrenn had her mother, her younger sister Delia Kathleen and her nephew campaigning for them.

FSU Holds First Annual Service Awards Program

By Jimmy Gibbs

The First Annual Service Awards Program was observed April 14 in the Butler Little Theater located on the campus of Fayetteville State University. The program was presided by Miss FSU Lydia Day. ## WANT INSTANT RESPONSIBILITY?

Being a missile launch officer in the Air Force is an awesome responsibility. But it's an exciting job with leadership opportunity from the word "go".

Air Force ROTC can help you prepare for this exciting field by granting two, three or four-year scholarships. These will pay for tuition, books, and lab fees, and give you $100 a month for some of your other college expenses.

Then, if you can qualify for the missile field, you can work on an advanced degree through special graduate education programs, and the Air Force will help with the expenses.

If you're the type who's looking for an exciting future, a future of commitment and pride, look into this one. See if you qualify to be an Air Force missile launch officer... and help perpetuate the traditions that have made our country great.

Get the details right away. You'll be glad you did.
