Miss FSU 1985

By Wesley Person

The candidates seeking election for Miss Fayetteville State University 1985-86 are Dianne Cooper, Kim Jeffries, Ruth King, and Patrena Sawyer. The candidate chosen to reign as the queen will be representing the university not only for beauty, but also for poise, personality, character, and communicative skills.

Why would you like to be Miss FSU?

Cooper: I would like to be Miss FSU not for the honor that being Miss FSU would bring to me, but my bringing honor to Miss FSU.

Jeffries: I would like to be Miss FSU because I think I could represent the university in a positive light, plus I think it is an office most females would love to hold.

King: I would like to be Miss FSU so I can be a positive role model for students to follow. I want them to be proud of FSU and carry that bronco spirit to those in their community.

Sawyer: I feel like I could better support my school as Miss FSU.

What advice would you give an incoming freshman on how to succeed at FSU?

Cooper: First of all, I would say academics come first, do not let anyone tell you differently. Also, I would tell them to keep their priorities intact.

Jeffries: My advice to them would be to set their priorities, putting academics first and other things second.

King: I would advise freshmen to think before they act. Be a leader not a follower and most importantly do the best they can do. This opportunity to obtain a higher education may not be here tomorrow.

Sawyer: I would advise them to take the time to get to know the system, so that if something goes wrong they would know where to go, and who to go to for advice.

SGA Vice-President Candidate 1985

By Wesley Person

The candidate in the election for Vice-President of the Student Government Association is Eugene Johnson. Although there is only one candidate, this does not mean that his views should be ignored. "The Voice" interviewed Johnson with the following questions:

Why did you choose to run for SGA Vice-President?

Johnson: I chose to run for the office of Vice-President because as a student, I am greatly concerned about the needs of students. I believe I could enhance the total student body by representing them. Also, I have been actively involved in leadership roles since high school. During my junior and senior years, I was afforded the opportunity of having served in various capacities to include, president, vice-president, treasurer, and representative of various clubs and organizations.

What makes you qualified for the job?

Johnson: The experience gained has served as an inspiration to want to reach for higher heights through participation in collegiate activities. I believe that I can represent the student body effectively for the 1985-86 academic year.

As Vice-President, what do you view as the main priorities?

Johnson: My future for this office will include supporting the president and staff of the SGA, representing students on campus matters that affect them, attending meetings that will be meaningful for student awareness, participate in yearly activities that affect students, and serving as liaison person to enhance or develop a more meaningful relationship between the administration, faculty, and students.

What will be your primary objective to fulfill?

Johnson: I believe that the position of Vice-President of SGA is challenging, yet a rewarding experience. If elected, I will attempt to continue the tradition of "quality" representation for the life blood of this institution--THE STUDENTS!

Miss Rudolph Jones Student Center 1985

By Larry Hilton

Since the past few elections, the candidates running for Miss Rudolph Jones Student Center (RJSC) have been missed in the "Voice" for unknown reasons, but this issue will hopefully bring a new change and respect to all running candidates, especially Miss RJSC. The candidates in the election for position as Miss RJSC are Michele Ballard, Sandra D. Miller, and Vickie Kai Watson. Unfortunately "The Voice" was only able to interview Ballard and Watson.

Why do you want to be Miss RJSC?

Watson: I would like to be Miss RJSC because it would give me the opportunity to serve the student body. It would give me the opportunity to get to know the student body and for them to get to know me, and to broaden my horizons of the university itself. My main reason for wanting to be Miss RJSC is to represent FSU proudly in any possible productive way.

Ballard: I feel that I can be an asset to the Student Body as well as the RJSC because I am well aware of the activities, and I have volunteered my services for two years with such activities in planning them. Also the center needs to be recognized more and I feel that with my input, the center will have more recognition.

What would your relationship between you and the students be like?

Watson: My relationship between myself and the students would be much more meaningful. I would dedicate myself to the betterment of the university by maintaining pride and respect for FSU.

Ballard: My relationship should be one of leadership. To let the students come to me with any problems, and I would do my best to help correct them by working with the SGA.

What input or improvement can you make in the student center?

Watson: The positive attributes that I would like to share with the students at FSU are my positive attitudes towards life and my spirit for FSU, all which comes naturally. Most of all I would like to contribute my dedication in a more positive way making myself available to assist the students in the best way that I possibly can.

Ballard: I could improve things such as having some kind of activity to make the students want to stay on campus more on the weekends, and most of all make the students proud of FSU by uplifting spirit and activities.

Business Manager 1985

By Wesley Person

To give students a better perspective on the candidate of Business Manager, The Vocie questioned this year's candidate, Kevin Evans.

Person: Why do you want to become Business Manager?

Evans: I want to become Business Manager because it will enable me to become more aware of the use of the student activity money, and with this knowledge I can relay it to my fellow students.

Person: What is your primary objective?

Evans: My primary objective is to help create a network of communication between students and administration. Secondly, I want to assist in creating an atmosphere which is not only conducive to academic excellence but to moral and social acceptability.
