

TYSON, cont. from p.15

In fact, Mike use to be a nerdy looking kid - that's right! He wore glasses. His wearing glasses made him an easy target for assaults from bullies who terrorized him to no end. Soon they started calling him "faggy boy" and "sissy" as the other kids continued to make fun of his spectacles and unwillingness to defend himself (believe it or not).

As Mike recalls, "I was simply too fu___ afraid to fight." Later Mike began retaliating and "...he kicked the sh___ out of them." From then on he became the provoker of fights. That was the origin of a legendary criminal career that included Mike being called the "world's greatest pickpocket" and a police record as long as one of Wilt Chamberlain's arms.

Later, after becoming a successful professional boxer, Mike was quoted by author, former light-heavyweight champion and friend (maybe ex-friend) Jose' Torres as saying "I like to hurt women when I make love to them. I like to hear them scream with pain, to see them bleed. It gives me pleasure." As Tyson's list of female sexual exploits became quite lengthy, he and his friend, Rory Holloway, claimed to have sexual relations with at least 24 women from five in the afternoon until one in the morning. According to Holloway, Tyson used commands like "Come here, it's your turn" and "Next!". Iron Mike even back-handed his ex-wife Robin Givens while they were dating. Tyson claims he found her in one of his friends apartment; he has been heard saying that was the best punch he'd ever thrown in his life.

However, in absolute converse, Iron Mike loves pigeons, and in fact he raised quite a few in his past. Even now, he can be seen taking a break from his running workout to watch a group of pigeons milling about on the ground. It seems there is a strange paradox when it comes to Iron Mike. He can be tranquil and gentle on one hand and insane and abusive on the other. Maybe it's not that he is psychotic but that his personality deals only in the extremes. There is no gray area for Mike.

As anyone can see, Mike has a less than spotless record (at the least) in relation to women. I am sure all the things I have mentioned and more will be used against him in his upcoming rape trial. However, the Tyson defense lawyers will only have to use one question to throw doubt on the young lady's accusations -- "What was she doing in his hotel room at 2 a.m.?" I don't think she was there to buy Girl Scout cookies. That may not be fair, but every body and their grandmother knows that. Life isn't always fair. As rap group N.W.A. might say, Tyson's "been to the mountain top and seen through the eyes of the real 'niggers'." Regardless of these recent problems ol' Michael Gerard Tyson takes a lickin' and keeps on tickin'.

Anton Brown, the Fresh Prince of FSU by Timothy Jessie

Black Society, Inc. by Timothy Jessie

BRONCOS' ARE SLAMMIN' IN B-BALL!
More in January 1992!

One more thing, I think a very angry Tyson will make short work of the defending heavyweight champion. Evander, you'd better beware!

It's better to take one minute out of your life, than to take your life out in one minute.
USE CONDOMS
Prevent the spread of HIV and AIDS