

and culminates in the broadening of the focus to determine the influence and impact of the accumulated knowledge on the original base of information being taught to undergraduate students. Throughout this process, new information is gathered, analyzed, and categorized for the raising of the quality of the base of information from which new students are taught and educated. The entire process is one of continual growth and development as well as the raising of the standard of living and quality of life for everyone involved. In that respect, the undergraduate degree program should be a broadening and a narrowing of the endeavors of the students involved.

Dr. Davis is proud and excited to be here at such a critical point in the growth of the SBE and FSU in general, and the FSU family is just as proud and excited to have him here with us. The staff of The Bronco's Voice hope we speak for the entire university in welcoming Dr. Davis into the family and wishing him well in his endeavors to improve, enhance, and solidify the image and reputation of the SBE.

Student Participates in Cultural Exchange

One of our young students is spending her fall semester as a visiting student at a state university with a foreign address. In February of this year Betty Morrison, the daughter of Barbara and John Morrison of Fayetteville, was selected by the Baltic Studies Consortium to study at Tartu State University.

The university is located in Tartu, Estonia, a former republic of the Soviet Union. Estonia borders the Baltic Sea in Northern Europe, and has an estimated population of 1,357,000. Betty lived in West Germany while her father was in the Army, so she has experienced a similar climate. While the geological climates of Germany and Estonia are similar, the cultural change from a Democratic to a socialist society will be dramatic.

Betty, a 17-year-old sophomore with a GPA of 3.20, was nominated by the College of Arts and Science to participate in one of the first groups of American students to travel to Estonia. She will be studying Sociology, Philosophy, Ecology, which will be taught in English, and the Russian language.

Betty was assisted by Dr. Hackley, Dr. Young, Mr. Scurry, and Dr. Fouquet. Dr. Fouquet is a member of the Baltic Studies

Consortium Steering Committee. Congresswoman Eva Clayton's efforts got her financial assistance with a $1,000 scholarship from the Congressional Black Caucus Spouses Foundation. Other donation assistance came from FSU's Youth Motivation Task Force and several campus administrators.

Miss Morrison left Fayetteville August 23 and is scheduled to return December 15. It is expected that she will have many interesting stories to tell.

As a majorette in FSU's marching band, Betty indicated she would miss the football and Basketball games. While this trip is the chance of a lifetime, she would likely enjoy hearing news from the homefront. The Voice has included her address for those interested in writing.

FSU Security Handled by Campus Police

by Kathleen Barron

In an interview with Chief Bell, he informed me that campus security is now handled by a full-fledged police agency with the ability to make arrests. The force has a staff of twenty-one personnel, which includes four dispatchers and four certified telecommunicators who use terminals with direct access to city and county facilities. The terminals have the ability to access information on any driver's license or criminal record in the world. The thirteen sworn officers work twelve-hour shifts. Four hours of each shift consist of a foot patrol assignment, with the officers checking dormitories and their parameters. The officers are equipped with 40 caliber Barretta weapons.

One of the responsibilities of the department is traffic and parking control. Legal parking is in designated areas between the white lines on landscaped areas or in driveways. By now, students have no doubt found that it is wiser to arrive early to find a parking space and to get to class on time. For those who find the little brown envelope on their windshields, there is a twenty-four hour drop box for checks and money orders (no cash please) inside the door of the police office to pay those fines.

In addition to avoiding fines, there are other benefits of owning a parking sticker such as calling the campus police to unlock cars, where in our haste to get to class, we have safely locked the keys inside. Another benefit is having access to police jumper cables to get the car jump started on those rainy days when we have neglected to turn off the lights. These services are available provided that one has a currently validated I.D.

Captain Moore is the investigating officer. He reviews all crimes that have been reported to the department. For instance, he encourages students to be responsible about leaving their books unattended because in college areas, textbooks have monetary value and can be stolen and sold at used bookstores.

Lieutenant Flannigan is the crime prevention officer.

It is his responsibility to conduct seminars to alert students to crime prevention, which is everyone's responsibility. If anything of a suspicious nature is observed, call the department. The department is interested in starting a student patrol along the lines of a neighborhood watch. Students can be the eyes and ears of the police.

Chief Bell says that the agency has an open door policy. Complaints cannot be investigated if they are reported to friends and neighbors instead of being reported to the police.

The number for the campus law enforcement agency is 486-1341. In case of emergency call 486-1296.
