GRAMMAR RULES FOR THE UNENLIGHTENED OR HOW TO WRITE GOOD

Don't use no double negatives.

Don't never use no triple negatives.

No sentence fragments

Corollary: Complete sentences: important.

Stamp out and eliminate redundancy.

Avoid cliches like the plague.

All generalizations are bad.

Corollary: All statements must be specific.

Take care that your verb and subject is in agreement.

A preposition is a bad thing to end a sentence with.

Down with categorical imperatives.

Avoid those run-on sentences that just go on, and on, and on, they never stop, they just keep rambling, and you really wish the person would just shut up, but no, they just keep going, they're worse than the Energizer Bunny, they babble incessantly, and these sentences, they just never stop, they go on forever...if you get my drift...

Never contradict yourself always.

When dangling, watch your participles.

Never go off on tangents, which are lines that intersect a curve at only one point and were discovered by Euclid, who lived in the sixth century, which was an era dominated by the Goths, who lived in what we now know as Poland...

Excessive use of exclamation points can be disastrous!!!!

Remember to end each sentence with a period

Don't use commas, which aren't necessary.

Don't use question marks inappropriately?

Don't obfuscate your theses with extraneous verbiage.

Never use that totally cool, radically groovy out-of-date slang. Avoid tumbling off the cliff of triteness into the black abyss of overused metaphors.

Avoid any awful anachronistic aggravating antediluvian alliterations.
