

SPOTLIGHT:

DR. CARY ADKINSON

"NOT EVERYONE IS MEANT TO MAKE A DIFFERENCE. BUT FOR ME, THE CHOICE TO LEAD AN ORDINARY LIFE IS NO LONGER AN OPTION." ~PETER PARKER

Some would think that Peter Parker himself worked in our Criminal Justice department if they were to walk into the office of Dr. Adkinson or as most of his students call him Dr. A.

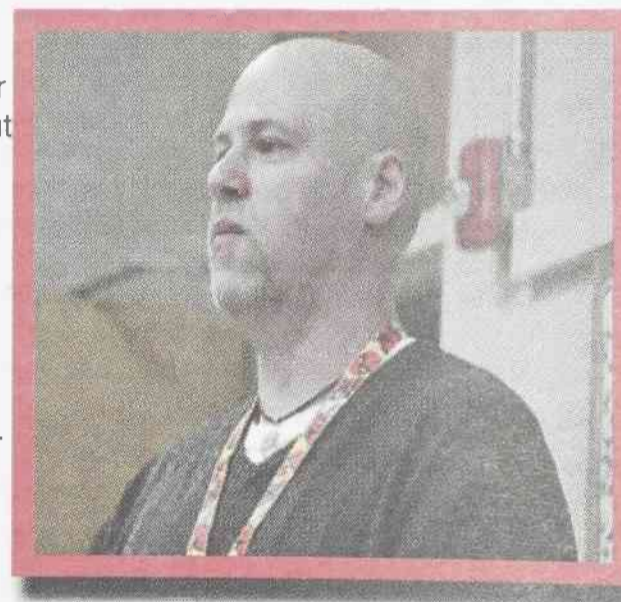

Dr. Adkinson has been a Criminal Justice professor for eight years and out of those eight, six of them have been spent at Fayetteville State University. When asked about how he became interested in the criminal justice program, he explained that his passion for the subject started when he saw the 1980's film "Silence of the Lamb".

Dr. Adkinson is a huge Marvel Comics fan with his favorite being Spider-man of course. He is so hooked on comics that he in fact wrote his dissertation on the topic of "The link between superheroes and criminal justice".

Like his hero, Dr. Adkinson believes that "with great power comes great responsibility." Not abusing your power is one of the main ways to be successful not just in criminal justice but life in general.

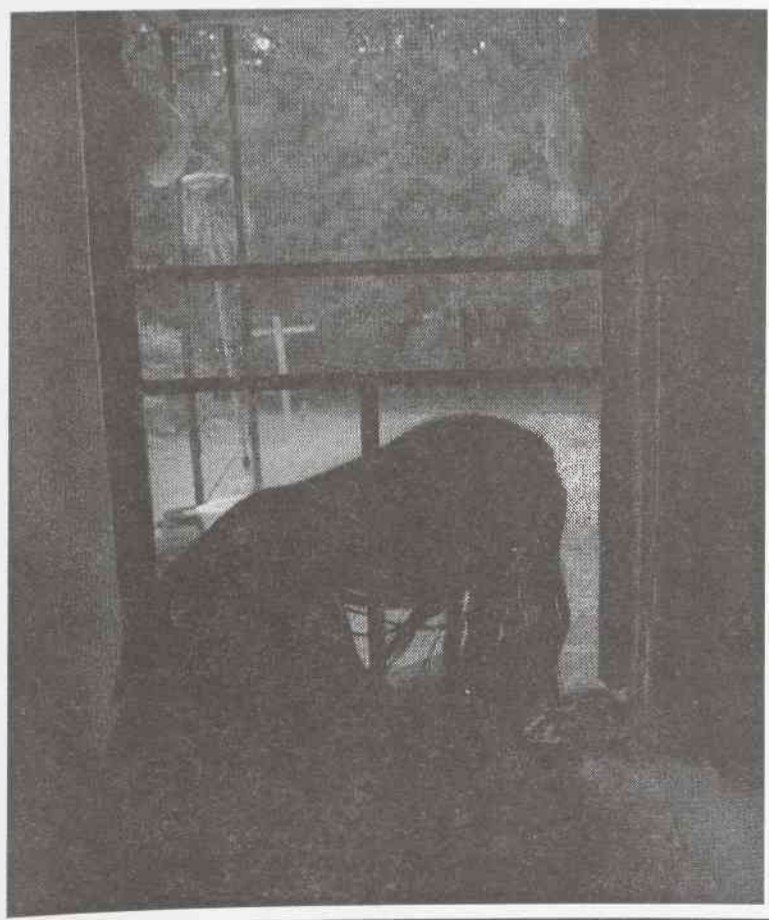

"Here at Fayetteville State our CJ professionals are 100 percent dedicated to our students, we try and help them to succeed by providing internships at the state and federal level. We have one of if not the best criminal justice programs in the state of North Carolina," said Dr. Adkinson.

"Even if you think no one is paying attention, you should always care for others. It takes a lot of courage to lend your heart," he added.

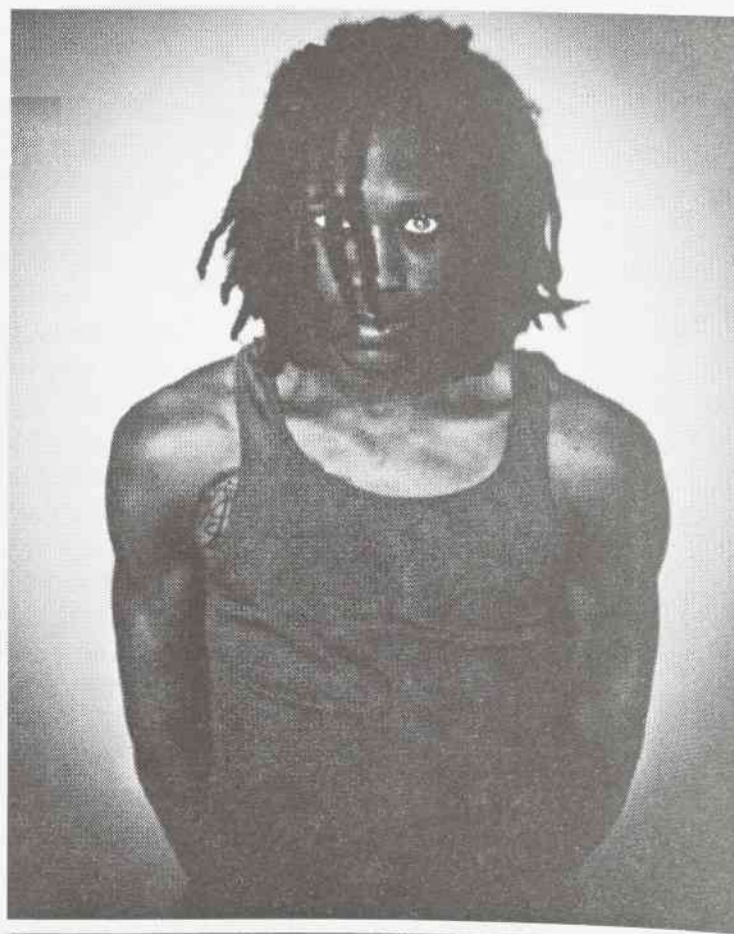

A picture is worth a thousand words...

Submissions from Shane Booth's Digital Photography course

self portrait Photographer: Alisha Murphy

self portrait Photographer: Akeem Savage