

HerCurlz R Badd

By Dalecia Carr

One of the most notorious myths about natural hair is that it doesn't need to be combed. Unless loc's are the look you desire, some form of grooming is highly recommended.

When preparing to detangle your hair make sure that you have enough time and that the hair is damp. If you rush through the detangling process, it will just create more tangles.

Sectioning your hair into smaller parts will help cut combing time in half.

Using tools like a paddle brush, wide tooth comb, or your fingers will help make your experience easy.

Detangling agents such as leave-in conditioners also help combs glide right through hair. Start at the ends of hair to avoid unnecessary unwanted breakage.

After you have finished detangling a section braid it up and then move on to another section. To complete the detangling session use an essential oil to seal in the moisture from the leave-in conditioner.

For more tips on detangling search "HerCurlzrbadd" on Youtube™ for step by step videos.

Classification: Junior

Major: Psychology

Big Chop: She big chopped for the second time November 2012

Favorite Products: Cantu™ Leave in Conditioning Repair Cream, Jojoba, olive and tea tree oil.

Signature Hairstyle: Retro updo or in a

This Week's Feature

Adeebaylaw Isreal

turban for a quick on-the-go style

Detangle method?: I use Cantu™ Leave in and water. Depending on what style I'm doing I use my fingers or a wide toothcomb. It only takes me about 10-15 to detangle.

Advice?: Take your time and get to know your hair. Hydrate and moisturize your hair to prevent your hair from drying out.

For more tips or to be featured Contact: www.fsuvoice.com
Dcarr1@broncos.uncfsu.edu
Instagram: HERCURLZBADD

TAILORED TO STYLE

A Dapper Word from Elgin Marsh

BRIGHT COLORS IN THE MIX

Gentlemen, let's take this opportunity to spring into style! One important thing to make sure you accomplish this Spring is to purchase clothes & sneakers that have very vibrant colors, such as reds, blues, greens, yellows, etc. It's not going to hurt you to step out of your comfort zone and put color combinations together that you wouldn't normally arrange for yourself. For instance you could put a vibrant royal blue button down shirt with a pair of yellow or red pants, or maybe a yellow shirt with a pair of green pants. When putting color combinations you have to let your mind run free, that way it fits your personality and style. And who said you can't wear a sneaker and still maintain a neat and tailored look? It seems like Michael Jordan, Kobe Bryant, and Kevin Durant are making millions off of the shoe craze that has hit the world today. Be on the lookout on March 29th for the Nike Kobe VIII System's (fiberglass purple), the Nike KD V's (photo blue/orange), & the Jordan Spizike's (stealth/green). These will be great choices to complement your spring look. So do what fits you this Spring, & be a Suitable Pleasant Representable Intelligent Neat Gentleman!

