

MONDAY

By: Bernie Houchins

The drone of social machinery is grinding
to a painful start.
Soon the cogs and wheels will be spinning
at a blinding pace.
Back they are to the things they despise
yet love in a special way.
The bodies are bound to conformity yet the mind wanders back to contentment.
The day of escape was only two golden moons ago, yet, it seems a lifetime.
Back they go to golden words spoken on candid lips neath a glittering sky.
The warm embrace of a soft body; the touch of silken hair spun like gold.
The wild excitement of a fast ride, laughter
ringing like bells.
The velvet soft touch of a goodnight kiss,
a slight dizziness.
Bright sunshine sparkling on blue, sending reflections of splendor.
The toil of a hard day's work brings beads
of health trickling down.
The social custom for services rendered is exchanged.
The grime is cleansed from the body, then drapped in the finest adornment.
Anxiety is the force driving them onward
in headlong flight.
Back to contentment, to things they all love to hear.
The weary end of yet another episode to be filed in place.
The rays of sunlight reach down from heaven
to bathe the earth.
Each is alone with himself and his God.
The solitude is sweet, nothing seems to disturb its beauty.
The crash and thunder totally shatter its peace.
The clang of tools, shouting voices
whistles - the noise of society.
Shaken, scared, lost in terror, suddenly they recover and realize it's only Monday and the weekend is over.

NEWS FROM THE DENTAL
DEPT.

By: Sally Peacoc!

On May 11th-13th, the North Carolina Dental Assistants' annual meeting will be held in Pinehurst in conjunction with the general Dentists' and Dental Assistants' meeting. Many students from the Dental Occupations department are planning displays in the Carolina Inn to depict the education of their dental department. All Dental Occupation students are asked to attend the displays.

Among the designs will be a special session for the Dental Assistants in which selected Dental Assistants will present clinics and special student activities.

On Sunday, April 27th from 2:00 to 5:00 p.m., the Wayne County Dental Society, Dental Hygiene Clinic and the American Cancer Society sponsored a free Oral Cancer Detection Clinic. The Clinic was held at Wayne Community College and everyone was invited to attend.

On April 14th the Senior Hygienists took the National Boards.
