

THE FORESTRY CLUB

Although the Forestry Club began only a few months ago, it is the largest and one of the most active clubs at Wayne Community College. It is the service club of the forestry department, and any student enrolled in this curricula is eligible to join.

The Student finds many opportunities in this organization. Among them are practicing forest principles studied in class, learning to operate and maintain department equipment, performing various services for the improvement of the school, and becoming better acquainted with the instructors in the department.

Last year was a year of growth for the club as the membership almost tripled. Members were busy in such activities as planting the holly trees in the parking lot, holding a Christmas dinner party, a party at which Mr. Floyd Arnold became the club's first honorary member, fielding the football team, and sponsoring the annual event.

The Rolleo is the school's biggest outdoor event. It consists of several competitive events such as log rolling, axe throwing, pole climbing, cammando, tug of war, greased pig contest, tractor driving contest, and several other events. This year, believe it or not, the boys got in on the show. There was a log pan throw, rolling pin throw, and a log contest. The girls also got in on the greased pig chase, tractor driving, and even won a trophy in the tug of war contest. It was quite a day for everyone at the college.

The Forestry Club meets twice a month. During the business portion of the meeting, many times there is a guest speaker invited to talk on forestry-related subjects. After the meeting the members and instructors have a good chance to "talk it over" with refreshments of coffee and doughnuts.

Membership in the forestry club is usually $2.00 and then 50¢ monthly dues. Students in the department are invited to attend a meeting and see what the club is like before joining.

This year's officers are President, John Hurdle; Vice President, Larry Stump; Secretary, Allen Matthews; Treasurer, Jay Corum; and Representatives-at-Large, Billy Callow and Pat Loving. Two additional representatives will be chosen from new memberships this fall. Advisors for the club are Mr. Sam Moore, Mr. Robert Goodman, and Mr. William Ball.

New students wishing to join the club or attend a meeting should see an advisor or member of the club. Forestry club members are looking forward to meeting new students and introducing them into the forestry department and into the forestry club.

Paul Brown, treasurer; and Ronald Wertheim, pledge master. On that day these members will be prepared to answer any and all questions concerning membership in Delta Chi Omega. All who wish to inquire about membership are cordially invited to do so either on registration day or during the first week of classes.

Several school and fraternal social activities are planned for the following school year. Activities including a road rally, dances and interval fraternity functions.

Your inquiries are welcomed and we are hoping for many new and interested brothers to help carry on the traditions and style of Delta Chi Omega.
