Parking at WCC Continues To Be a Menace

I am sure that we are all aware of the problems presented to WCC students because of our shortage of parking facilities. Because of this students are asked to observe the following rules:

1. Park in designated areas only;
2. Head all vehicles into spaces;
3. Park inside yellow lines (where marked);
4. Do not park on grass at any time;
5. Park all motorcycles in designated areas only;
6. All vehicles are to be registered on campus;
7. All vehicles are to display stickers;
8. Visitors may pick up parking permits from the receptionist if they are on campus for a period of time;
9. Only visitors are to park in area marked for visitors;
10. Observe one-way signs;
11. Only staff are to park in area designated for staff;
12. Towing law enforced on campus at owner's expense. Please observe these rules. They will be enforced.

Have You Heard?

There are ways to stretch that dollar, and here are a few of those ways to do just that.

Ladies, soak new nylon stockings in ice-cold salt water in your refrigerator overnight. They will last for many more wearings—even double the usual number.

Save those cracked dishes. Boil those china dishes and cups. Boil slowly in milk for an hour and many cracks disappear.

Cakes of soap last longer if you will unwrap them and let them dry out a few weeks before using. Surprised, well don't be. There are more, just look around you.

A Notable Cause

Wayne Community College's S. G. A. became involved in the project launched in Goldsboro for the Amputees at Walter Reed hospital by contributing many books toward this worthy cause. The staff of the Wayne Communique wishes to express their pride in those students who helped make this a successful adventure for our S. G. A.

Study of a Fraternity

Greencastle, Ind. -- (I. P.)-- National scholarship commissioner of his own social fraternity, Delta Sigma Phi, Associate Dean of Students Paul McQuilken of DePauw University has completed a study to find out what makes the difference between strong-medioocre and weak fraternities, academically.

His data and conclusions came from a 10-week study of 935 freshmen in 31 pledge classes at Iowa State University, where he recently completed his doctorate. The project had financial support from ISU and educational foundations of five national fraternities.

Dr. McQuilken set out to find out why freshmen pledge fraternities, how freshmen evaluated fraternities before and after 10 weeks, how the pledge spent his time for 70 consecutive days, and how the fraternity experience affected the pledge classes' grades.

Dr. McQuilken says he thinks and hopes fraternities will flourish. He pointed out that since 1940 the number of chapters has more than doubled. Over 400 institutions have invited fraternities and sororities to establish chapters on their campuses in the last six years. From 1962 to 1967 an average of 80 new chapters has been started per year.

The research that required some 100,000 IBM cards revealed these significant signposts about the health of the fraternity system:

1. After 10 weeks pledges did not feel their chapter was as concerned about grades as they initially thought they were.

2. Fraternities do not seem to extract undue amounts of time to fulfill pledge obligations.

3. Pledges in general seemed to be more dissatisfied with their physical study environment than with the total academic atmosphere in the fraternity.

4. Rushes asked more penetrating questions about fraternities than ever before and were unwilling to be hurried into pledging decisions.

5. To be a maximum appeal fraternities may have to give strong consideration to developing programs for small interest groups.

6. A large majority of pledges felt there was a need to narrow the gap between what a fraternity ideally says it is and what it actually is.

7. Freshman pledges want to interact with people who are friendly, interested, loyal, and intelligent and who do not create artificial barriers based solely on years in school.

"Strong leadership within the chapter, the adequacy, maturity and absence of abuse in the

A Letter

1515 Prisoner's Row, Textile Valley, Juvember 42, 2956.

Dear Friendless Friend: Because Monday comes on Friday instead of Tuesday, you are invited to a Christmas Eve party on the afternoon of Easter morning, October 39.

The party will begin at 13 degrees below zero provided the sun is shining brightly that night. The boat leaves the airport at 14 p. m. If you miss the boat, swim to the train, as we do not charge for intermission. When you come to the corner, you will know you have come the wrong way, so jump on the little red boat painted green and paddle down the street. My address is above, although I do not live there anymore. I now live at 200th Street in the house on the vacant lot.

Please be there on time, although I do not expect you, but if you insist on coming, it will be quite alright for I will not be there. -- Never yours, I. M. Nuts.

pledge training program, good internal organization, a place where broadened interests can be developed, esteem for one's peers, their prerogatives and knowledge -- the presence of these correlated highly with academic achievement," according to Dr. McQuilken's findings.

"If fraternities are to survive and be relevant they must contribute to the educational purposes of the institution," he concluded.

Forestry Club News

The Forestry Club has lost some of its members not to mention its officers through graduation. Larry Stump and Stewart Dudley have all finished the program.

Notice the activities listed elsewhere in this paper concerning the Forestry Club Rolleo, April 22. If by any chance the weather should be bad that day an alternate day the following week will be announced. We want to see everyone out eating that barbecue from Griffin's served for lunch the day of the Rolleo.

The green and gray emblems seen on shirts around school belong to the Forestry Club. We are proud of this club and want our members to be seen. All new members will be given a patch when they pay their entrance fees.

The Society of American Forestry Technicians is asking our help. They need our contributions to get started. We feel this organization will benefit those who will be Forest Technicians. There will be Club members asking for your donation for SAFT.

Does anyone know when the Pizza Inn across from WCC will open?
