Prevette Speaks Out

Power to the SGA shall be our cry. After the last student week-end, I can safely say we the students at W.C.C. have embarked on a new era of campus involvement.

It is only right to thank Rick Hall and his committee for the cookout and the rock concert. Also, Sigma Tau Sigma and Delta Chi Omega for the work they did for the student activity committee, in helping prepare food.

We had asked for your cooperation in participation in S.G.A. functions and you gave it to us. We now have a leg to stand on. We can now support new ideas with your actions.

You have shown the administration you are and can behave like adults. Thank you for your help in the past and we implore you to help us make the future great for W.C.C. and you.

Why Student Unrest

To what can student unrest and disorder be attributed?

In Reader's Digest, S. T. Hayakawa puts it this way "In seeking the cause of student unrest, I believe that we have not paid enough attention to the degree to which many young men and women are involuntary and restless captives of the educational system."

Many young people are forced into "higher

Mercy-Killing

Mercy-killing — is it right or wrong?

This practice is formally called euthanasia which means "the act of killing individuals that are hopelessly sick or injured, for reasons of mercy."

When a person is alive but not really living, isn't it better to go ahead and end his life? People dying from cancer or other terminal diseases suffer unnecessarily. In this way, killing them would be the fair thing to do.

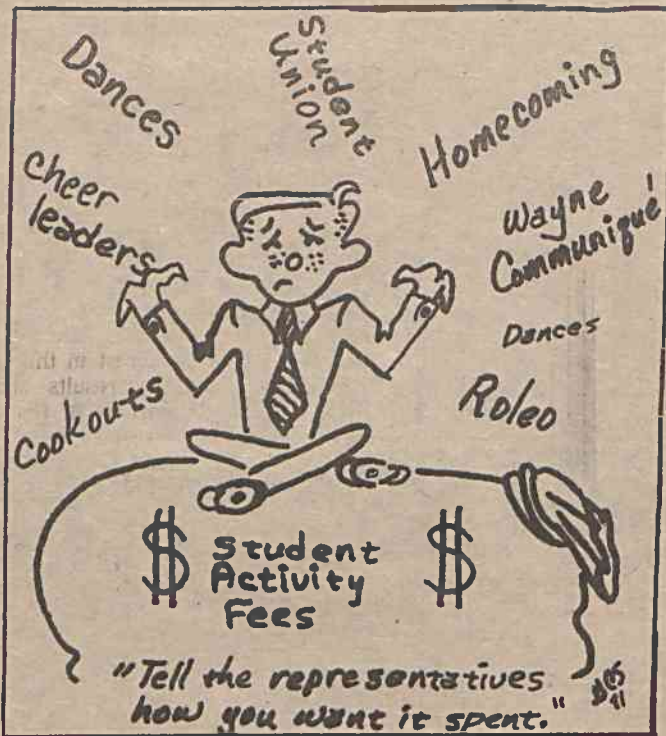

On the other hand, maybe by a "miracle" they could really live again. If their lives had been ended, the chance would have been taken from them.

Is living worth the prolongation, the pain, and the suffering? Miracles do not happen often.

If the person can think for himself, he should be given the opportunity to decide. If the person is nothing more than a "vegetable" and never will be anything else, what is the point of keeping him alive?

Some people view mercy killing as murder, but is it not the humane thing to do? BB

Mechanics Displays Tools

The mechanical vocations class instructed by Mr. Paul Bright and Mrs. Manley Outlaw have designed a display containing tools and other articles completed by the class. These tools are mounted on a large plaque covered with red velvet. Also, made by the students is a large black frame that adds finishing touches to the fine pieces of work.

Students first receive a sheet containing directions, and then they are turned loose to get to work. Contrary to having pre-cut steel bars, they start from scratch, and work their way up. Beautiful work has come from these students, including everything from solid steel hammers to sturdy combs.

The display board can be seen in the mechanical Vocations Department.

On Man

By BERNIE HOUCINS

A man fears only those who have feared him. His likeness to those he adores yet bitterly detests.

People have given him a reason but robbed his dreams. The platform from which to spring is built, yet now he's afraid to make the leap.

His life molded on pettiness and pity, neither of which were ever known to him. Love and hate, government and rule if there is such. But he goes on, acting the part which is expected.

His loneliness and mind are known only to him. He yearns for distant unknowns never to be reached. He knows his plight but has lost his willingness to fight.

The challenge is sought but never to be feared. Life is but living death with limits and bounds. He can no longer be but must survive.

Society has ruled, yet offered an escape. To him its death, to, others a new life. Surrounded by fraud and deceit, he tries to carry on but only in actor's clothes.

Washing Police Cars

Wash Police Cars

Friday, October 29, Sigma Tau Sigma took on a task that was different from any other project completed this quarter. The fraternity washed the Goldsboro Police Cars. The action took place behind the student union. The cars were cleaned not only on the outside but on the inside also. The following men helped in washing the cars. They are Eddie Lane, Gary Dozier, Steve Meadows, Dennis Holloman, Jimmy Whitehurst, Mike Hairr, Al Newman, Bill Hommond, Gene Harrelson, Jerry Raper, Darryl Kilpatrick, Andy Massengill, Ricky Sanderson, Gerald Renfrow, and Harold Tyson.

Get Involved

By ROSEMARY McCULLEN

Feel like you want to do something? Then get out and support an issue or project. There is a tendency to take a back seat when there is a task to be done. Don't let this be you! We often hear, "I don't have time." Maybe you are a busy person but somewhere in your crowded life you should be able to find an hour to make your school a better place.

We often hear someone say "Let them do it, they control the campus." This statement wouldn't be true if you would help out. Sure there are a few that take most of the credit, but the fact is that we have a job to do and there is no one to do it. If you don't like to see a few take the credit, then contribute your time and be in the "spotlight".

WCC will be to you what you make it. If there is no student involvement, there isn't much of a school. Of course it takes an administration and a faculty, but the most important part of WCC is the students. So Students, make your contribution and give a portion of your time.

Honor Council

Recognizing that students in vocational, technical, and college areas of study should be treated as adults, the Wayne Community College and The Student Government Association have the duty to set forth certain areas of prohibited conduct and student rights. The college does not undertake to punish for violations of state, federal, or local law, but will make all efforts to protect the rights of all students to pursue their study. Any infringement of these rights will not be condoned.

The following acts are prohibited. They are plagiarism, lying, stealing, abusive, obscene, and excessively noisy conduct, malicious or unwarranted destruction of property.

Others include: idle threats, violation of parking rules, hazing of any kind, interference with activities of the College, failing to appear before the Honor Council, the possession of or use of alcoholic beverages, narcotics, or hallucinogenic drugs, knowingly passing a worthless check.

If these acts are broken a student may be expelled from school for varying periods of time with the information put on your college transcripts.

These procedures may be open to the student body or closed upon the individual students request.

Buses At W. C. C.

Representatives from W.C.C., Donna Bolinski and Jerry Kornegay, upon the request and invitation of the Goldsboro area Chamber of Commerce, have been meeting with the Chamber in order to establish a better line of communication between young people in Goldsboro and the city business. At the meetings, city business as well as topics of interest to W.C.C. students are discussed.

To better serve W.C.C. students, it was suggested that the city buses servicing the college make their stop back of A building instead of in front of it. This was suggested so that students can become aware that the service exists and can familiarize themselves with the bus schedule. In the near future, students on campus should be able to see the buses stopping behind the administration building. These buses will be labeled with their destination rather than just their route number, another suggestion put forth by W.C.C. representatives.

Also, to curb the extensive shoplifting problem here in the city, a program, coordinated by a committee of Phi Theta Kappa members in conjunction with a committee of Chamber members, is in the process of being initiated.

Through such meetings and programs, the Chamber of Commerce hopes to establish an interrelationship with young Goldsboro citizens, serve the college students in anyway possible, and consequently, involve young people in community affairs.

Jesus Christ Alive And Well In Goldsboro

By GARY SMITH

Can it be? The following wanted posters appeared in Time magazine June, 1971.

"WANTED" Jesus Christ ALIAS: THE MESSIAH, THE SON OF GOD, KING OF KINGS, LORD OF LORDS, PRINCE OF PEACE, ETC.

Notorious leader of an underground liberation movement.

Wanted for the following charges: practicing medicine, winemaking, and food distribution without a license.

Interfering with businessmen in the temple.

Associating with known criminals, radicals, subversive prostitutes and street people.

Claiming to have authority, to make people into God's children.

APPEARANCE: Typical hippie type-long hair, beard, robe, sandals.

Hangs around slum areas: few rich friends, often sneaks out into the desert.

BEWARE: this man is extremely dangerous, his insidiously inflammatory message is particularly dangerous to young people who haven't been taught to ignore him yet. He changes people and claims to set them free."

In New York City, at Manhattan's Mark Hellinger Theatre, Jesus Christ Superstar opened in a Holocaust of disapproval, critics say, "Superstar closes with Christ's death, Christianity opens with Christ's resurrection from the dead."

From mass baptisms on the beaches of California, to bewildered parents all over the east coast whose children are starting to study the Bible, it's plain to see that something strange is happening. Jesus is living up to what the Bible says about him. The great liberator is setting people free. And most exciting of all is that he wants to know each of us personally.

You've got a lot to live, Jesus has a lot to give. Each of us has to make a personal decision one way or the other. Think about it and live.

Class Goes To Tarboro

(Monday, October 25,) mechanical vocations combined with the welding class went on a field trip. After waiting twenty minutes to get across the highway, the bus was finally on its way. Their destination was BLACK and DECKER tool company, in Tarboro. None of the travelers knew what was going to be in store for them that day. While coming to an immediate halt, smoke began to smother the entire area. After everyone hurriedly scampered from the bus, they were to soon find out it was only leaky brake fluid.

After the excitement ended the bus safely arrived at BLACK and DECKER MANUFACTURING COMPANY one hour late! Mr. Doug Taylor, personnel supervisor, introduced the classes to the company in a training room and afterwards, took them on a grand tour of the entire company. After a brief question-answer period, the students were on their way to lunch at Hardees'. After Levi Hicks finished his lunch the group returned to WCC.
