Students' efforts made "Plant-In" worthwhile.

Sociology Project Is Success

By NANCY DAVIS

Plans to continue the Sadie Hawkins Park area between F building and the student union were undertaken by Mrs. N. Powell's fall quarter sociology students about the fifth week of classes. These plans were to add trees and shrubbery to the park in an organized manner and to install a suitable sprinkler system.

The first plans of having a "plant-in" to improve the landscape were discussed the sixth of October, 1971. The initial act in preparing for the "plant-in" was to inform the students and find their opinions and to get their support for the project. It was decided that the most effective way of getting the best and widest idea of the students' opinions would be to take a poll which would be headed by a public relations committee. Doreann Smith headed this committee and together they drew up a questionnaire to pass out to everyone possible for them to fill out. This poll was effective in giving the class an idea of the school's support.

Statistics acquired by the survey were based upon four hundred forty five participants. Ninety-three per cent agreed that further landscaping the area would be an improvement and ninety-two per cent believed it could be accomplished through student effort.

After the school's agreement, as shown by the survey, that the project was worthwhile, the different steps to be done were established and a date for the official "plant-in" was set for November 6, 1971. Several committees were organized to systematically carry out these steps. A sprinkler system had to be arranged to water the plants. Fred Simmons drew up a plan for this system and it was accepted by the class. The other steps to be done were: to dig holes, to get sawdust and peat moss, to locate dogwoods, and to plant the trees. These steps were carried out effectively and in an organized manner.

A couple of week-ends before the "plant-in" was to take place, some members of the class met to dig holes and prepare for the final and climatic step. Jan Stewart arranged for food to be brought for those who helped and several girls helped by bringing food and fixing it for the workers.

On October 21, several people helped in staking for the dogwoods. Among these were: Greg Wilder, Tommy Allen, Fred Simmons, Ron Jones, Robert Perry, and Robert Stephens. The following Saturday the "hole-diggers" included Allan Johnson, Tommy Allen, Fred Simmons, Howard Michaels, Don Cameron, and Jan Stewart. Ed Holt and Tony Tart brought in sawdust October 28th, and Clarence Williams saw about the topsoil.

Some of the heavy work preceeding the actual "plant-in", like unloading the dirt from the dump truck, was taken care of by John Barden, Thomas Kilpatrick, and Robert Perry. Along with all this work, Doreann Smith and Thomas Kilpatrick arranged to get a large sign up to promote the project and to stir interest for the project.

The final step, "plant-in day," was a big success. To highlight all the hard work and make it all seem even more worthwhile, a party was held the evening following the afternoon of sincere work. The females handled the food, while the males furnished the drinks. Donations to the project came from McDonald's, Sears, B. B. Glasscock, Roy Woodard and the SGA.

Young Democrats Organize

On Thursday, December 2 at two o'clock, a group of politically interested students met with local attorneys, Mr. Phillip Baddour and Mr. Tommy Jarrett.

Items discussed included student apathy towards politics in general, registration, and most important organizing a campus Young Democrat Club.

The purpose of this club will be to get more students involved in both registering and voting. The club will carry out different activities during the year to gather more students attention and will help candidates during camping season.

The club held a "RUSH" session during the week of December 8. Any student interested in this organization should contact Mr. Homer Pike, advisor.

YEAR BOOK REMINDER

Jean Edgerton, editor of "Insight", reminds organizations who wish to be represented in the year book that it is their responsibility to turn in all pictures and material to the staff.

DEAR GABBY:

Having problems? Is everything going wrong? Is your love life at a standstill? Write to "Dear Gabby:" and she will offer solutions and advice. Write to Dear Gabby and put your letters in the News Box in the Student Union. Your answer will be in the following issues.

EXCHANGE STUDENT

Martha Garcia, Charles B. Aycock's Colombian exchange student two years ago, has returned to the United States where she has enrolled at Wayne Community College in the executive secretary curriculum. She is living with the family of Dr. and Mrs. Cecil Johnson. Mrs. Johnson is an instructor in the Associate Degree in Nursing program.

Students Enrolled

As of December 2, 1400 students have paid for the winter quarter. According to Mr. Parker, between 1500-1600 students are expected to register before the end of the period.

The registrar would like to express their thanks to students for their co-operation during registration. Things could have been "hectic" but went smoothly because of the students' help.

Editor Selected

In accordance with a new SGA policy, the Communication Committee selected John Barden as Editor of the Wayne Communique for the winter and spring quarter 1971-1972.

John is a native of Goldsboro and a graduate of Charles B. Aycock, class of '70. He is presently enrolled in the college transfer program. Upon graduation he hopes to attend NCSU and major in Landscape Architecture.

John has appointed Peggy Deese as assistant editor. The other positions are as yet unfilled. Anyone interested in working on the staff should see John Barden or Peggy Deese.

Campbell College Accepts Graduates

Campbell College is accepting graduates of Wayne Community College by direct transfer, Colonel William S. Terrell, the college registrar has announced.

Under this arrangement the graduate receives credit at Campbell for all work done at Wayne Community College to an upper limit of sixty-eight college hours.

To finish his college degree, the student will add to his work at Wayne Community College Campbell's requirements for the major he has chosen. Normally he will be able to do this, Colonel Terrell said, within the 128 hours customarily required for graduation from a four-year college, although some major areas may require

New Counselor Employed

Mr. Mark V. Pettine has recently joined the Wayne Community staff as a counselor. He will be working directly with Dean Waller in a counseling, coordinating capacity.

As a counselor, Pettine will assist in advising students regarding curriculum changes as well as personal problems. He will also serve as advisor to the Student Government Association, the Interclub Council, and aid in coordinating other student sponsored events.

Mr. Pettine, who is not from North Carolina would like to express thanks to everyone at the college for their warm hospitality. Pettine is from the west coast where he grew up in San Jose, California. He attended the University of California at Santa Barbara where he graduated last June.

Mr. Pettine is looking forward to being at W.C.C. "I am delighted to be working at Wayne Community College and look forward to meeting all of the students." Pettine's office is located in the Dean of Students' office.

WCC Bleed-In

Wayne Community College was given the opportunity to sponsor the Blood Mobile December 8 from 10:00 a.m. to 3:30 p.m. in the Student Union.

Each Christmas the Blood Mobile seeks blood donors. During the holidays many lives are lost because they are sometimes unable to receive blood of their own type. When one gives one pint of his own blood, he knows that he is saving somebody's life.

This year Wayne Community College set up a new method for blood donors. Each blood donor chose a club on campus that he wanted to represent. The club that had the most blood donors received a prize. Also, the blood donors can now be 18 years of age or over to give blood without parental permission.
