Students have opportunity for dinner theater experience in 'Love Letters'

On Saturday, February 15, 1997, nearly 50 students and instructors had the opportunity to attend a free dinner and play sponsored by the Mount Olive Chamber of Commerce at Southern Wayne Country Club.

The play, 'Love Letters,' starred 2 WCC instructors, Rosalyn Lomax performing as Melissa Gardner and Dr. Ed Hogan as Andy Ladd. The 2-character play details the 50-year correspondence that traces the friendship and eventual love affair between Gardner and Ladd.

Because the Liberal Arts Division has a mission to increase students' cultural opportunities, instructors saw the dinner theater as a way to fulfill 2 goals: enhance the study of drama for ENG 152 students and respond to a short-range goal expressed in planning documents, according to Ann Spicer, English Department head.

Diane Price, Liz Meador, and Marian Westbrook, Liberal Arts instructors, transported some of the students in school vans.

Jo Ann Bruce, Executive Director of the Foundation of WCC and Chamber of Commerce member, coordinated ticket distribution.

In Memorium

By RIANNE DISCH

The end of 1996 was marked by tragedy 3 times over because of the deaths of students, 2 who had been currently enrolled and 1 graduate.

Stephen J. Minshew in the Poultry and Livestock program died in a shooting incident.

William "Michael" C. Berry, a graduate, and D. J. Reynolds, a college transfer student, both died after automobile accidents.

We, the staff of the WCC Campus Voice, dedicate this issue to the loving memory of Stephen, Michael, and D.J. Our thoughts are with their families as they continue to cope with these losses.

'Indian Silk Is Like Love Forever and Always'

After careful research of hair care products currently in the market and the needs of black hair care professionals and their customers, INDIAN SILK was introduced in 1989 at the National Beauty Culture League in Louisville, Kentucky. Since that time, the full line of hair care products has received glowing reviews from hair care professionals and their customers all over the United States.

INDIAN SILK is an "All In One Conditioning Dry Curl System" from Body Wave to a Curl or Relaxed Look which allows the texture of the hair to feel natural, bouncy, fluffy, and full-bodied to the touch without looking as if it is chemically treated.

INDIAN SILK is almost maintenance free with no build-up of chemicals in the hair and keeps the hair from being messy and greasy to the touch which allows a person to retire to bed or lounge around without worrying about unnecessary soiling of pillows, linen, or furniture.

Using the full line of INDIAN SILK products makes one feel that it was impossible ever to live without INDIAN SILK. No other black hair care products SOLD TODAY can come close to matching the INDIAN SILK line of products.

A special bonus in using INDIAN SILK products is that sweethearts and other loved ones will be excited by the look, beauty, and feel of INDIAN SILK hair.
