

Spring semester intramurals called 'successful'

By MICHAEL WALTERS

During spring semester 2001 the Student Government Association sponsored several tournaments: pool in January, Ping-Pong in February, bowling in March, and basketball and golf in April.

According to Wayne Parson, Director of Student Activities, Sergio Sanchez, a college transfer student in the Associate of Arts program, won the pool table tournament.

Second place was awarded to John McLawhorn, a business major in his second semester.

The ping pong tournament was held the following week, starting with 14 students and ending up with 2 winners.

First place was awarded to Daniel Davis, in the Cisco Certification program, with only two semesters to finish.

Second place was awarded to Marc Langston, majoring in physical education, in his second semester at WCC.

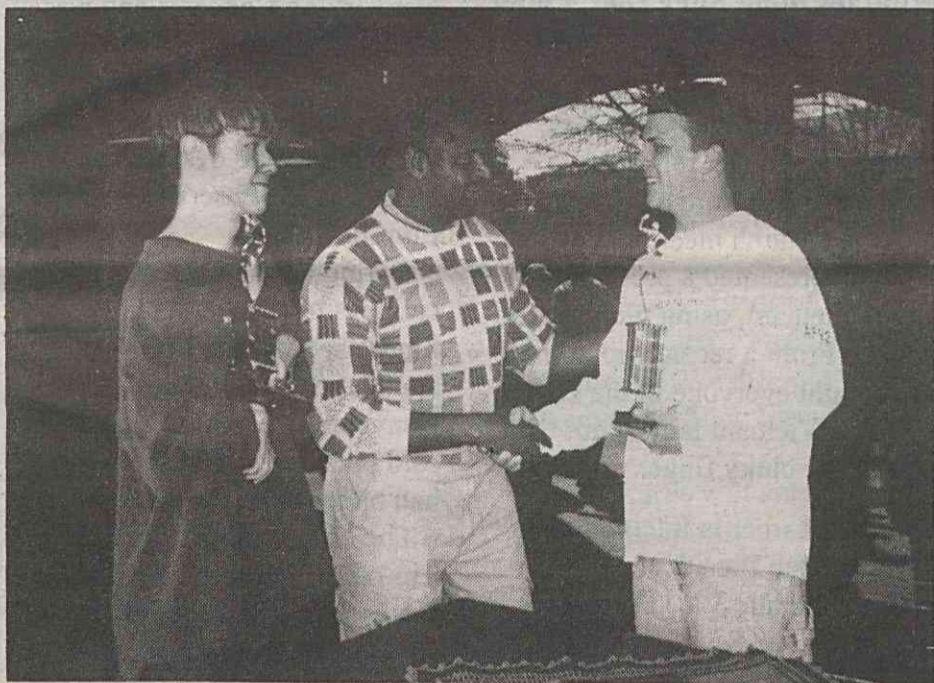

The Golf Tournament was held April 9, 2001 at 1:00 pm held at Walnut Creek Country Club.

First flight, first place was Nick Bellemy, turf grass management major. Jeremy Williams, agriculture business major, was first flight, second place while second flight winners in first and second place were Daniel Davis, Cisco Program major and Donald Benton, music major.

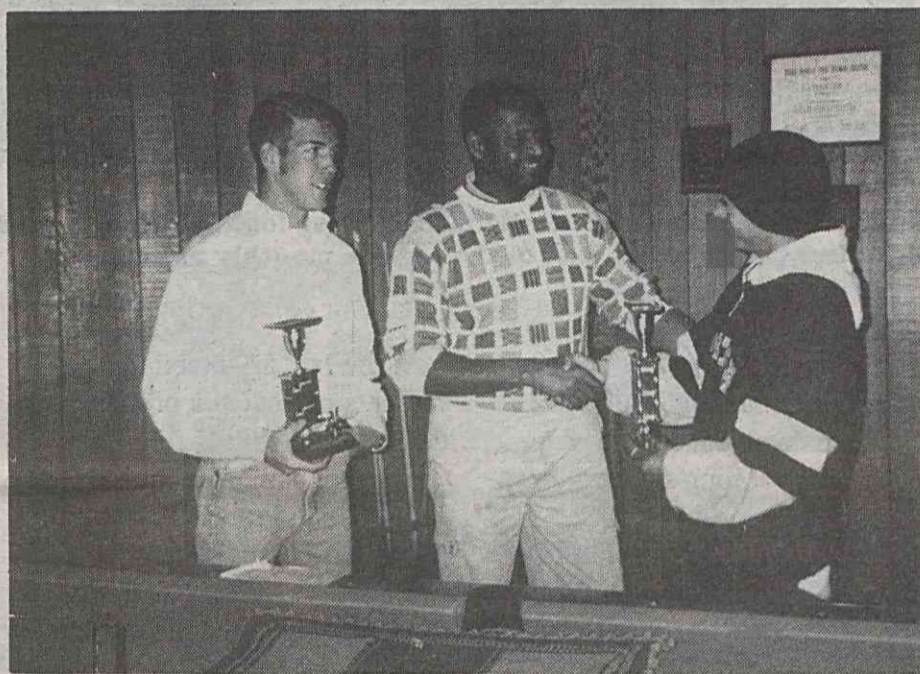

Wayne Parson said that 17 players participated in the tournament. He said, "I am really pleased with the response to intramurals this semester, and I thank all those who participated."
