

Did you know....

Many former Goldmasquers built the sets for "The Shepherd's Song."

Jack Kannan searched for a copy of the script for three years.

The original production lasted two and a half hours on top of the Terrace Room in Goldsboro.

Mr. B directed such legends as Andy Griffith, NPR newscaster Carl Kasell, and Broadway and television actress Betty Jinnette.

The original Goldmasquers will have a reunion before the show; some are coming as far as Venezuela!

Mr. B. altered the parts of the play every year, making some parts bigger one year and smaller the next.

The dates and times for the show are Dec. 2 at 8 p.m. and Dec. 3 at 3 p.m. at Moffatt Auditorium. Tickets are $10 in advance and $15 at the door.

Page design, recent photos, and copy by TAMARA BALTAZAR.

Working on the production are: Top left: Margaret Baddour, left, and Tessa Brannon; second left: Julian Shelton; second right: Tessa Brannon, left, and Hallie Hulse; third left, Julian Shelton, middle, Cassie Broach, right, and John Clifton; third right: Reynold Meraz, left, and Jeremy Sanders; bottom left, Bert Allen; bottom right, Reynold Meraz, left, and Hallie Hulse.