You can learn more than just writing at The Writing Center.

Just ask Andi Miller, Writing Center consultant, who talks about the advantages of the center.

It is located on the second floor in the library in the WLC building, and is free to all Wayne Community College students.

The Writing Center staff is available to help with not only English papers but with every subject offered here at WCC.

This includes specialized documents, such as proposals, reviews, and annotated bibliographies.

The Writing Center is open Monday through Friday from 9 a.m. until 3 p.m.

Students can use the computers to print writing assignments, academic papers, and to do research on the Internet. However, printing research papers off the Internet is prohibited.

provides quiet study areas, sitting areas, and study rooms which are available for groups or individuals.

Appointments can be made to receive help from one of the writing center consultants one or two days ahead of time. Doing so assures students they get the time that works best for their schedule.

Walk-in appointments are available as well.

Some instructors may give extra credit for their students who go to the writing center for help.

In addition to one-on-one help, The Writing Center also offers help for groups.

Andi Miller, Kathie Brown and Tara Bass are the consultants of The Writing Center. They are all English instructors.
