Semesters Are Coming...

Spring Quarter 1997 marks the end of the quarter system at Wilkes Community College. Beginning this summer, the college will award credits toward graduation based on a semester system.

WCC students completing graduation requirements by the end of spring quarter will not be affected by this change. Those graduating after this summer will have their credits transferred to the new semester program requirements and complete their studies under the new system. To facilitate this process, students are encouraged to finish course sequences now in progress and make up any incompletes they might have. For more information contact your advisor or a counselor in Student Development.
