

To Corina: My life is better because of you and I thank god for having you there when times are tough. Happy Valentines Day Angel!

-Love, Matt

To Heather: We hate to see you go, but we love to watch you leave.

-The Boys

To Jason W: Same old song, with the same eye catching moment.

-Anon

To Chris D: I will always remember you and you're 'drive'. Happy "V" Day.

-Anon

Ode To My Doughnut: Happiness is a lemon filled doughnut fresh from the bakery, slightly warmed with a cold glass of milk. Who needs a woman?

-Graham

VALENTINES FROM THE STAFF OF THE COUGAR CRY

To all my friends and teachers in the Technical Arts Bldg., Janet G, Nancy, Larry, Bobby, my true love David, and my little girl Morri-gan. Have a happy Heart Day.

-Heather Dean

To the love of my life, Alex: You have made the last five years of my life the happiest I have ever known. I can't wait to see what the next five hold for us. I love you and Happy Valentines Day!

—Kimberly Nelson

To Mrs. Anita M. Triplett Thank you for a wonderful ten years. Thank you for believing in me. Redeem your coupon!

— Robert Triplett

To RGG Sr. Thanks for the last 18 years.

— Love Babe

Ray :
If the seas were created for you, they would be the color of your eyes. If the wind were created for you it would be the sound of my voice flowing through your mind. Love was created for you and I. All my love, Happy Valentines Day!

— Lisa

To Scott C:
From your ladies, Love ya babe!

Brooke,
Happy Valentine's Day from you're your boys! Lots of Love.

— Mule & Chewy

To Angie:
CIC babe. Shveety you're my star.

— Kisses, Tracy

Tracy,
I love you baby. Happy 2nd Anniversary!

— Angie

Happy Valentine's Day 1035!!

What Makes Lovebirds Sing?
-Heather Dean

A new study has found that the mating habits of female birds and women are not all that different. Apparently, how birds and women pick their mate largely depends on where they live. Women in crowded areas look for a mate who can provide financial stability. In smaller towns money was not an issue- they wanted mates with more emotional trait such as honesty, compassion and good listening skills. So how are we like birds? Boiologists have found that in crowded settings female birds prefer a mate that can build good nests and find food, whereas in less dense settings, female birds are content with a good singing voice and sharing in the workload.