

It's odd to think that this year has come and gone so quickly, especially for those of you graduating in just a matter of weeks. It's impossible to realize now what is ahead of you in the near future, but I know you will accomplish much and make Elon proud. For four seniors profiled in this edition of The Edge, their dreams span past the confines of the United States — their jobs will bring them to places such as Egypt, Japan, Italy and Moldova.

But for some of us, we will return to Elon next year after a summer full of adventures — whether it's through work, play or an internship. I hope this edition of The Edge helps you make the most of your summer, whether through how to dress for your internship or for a day on the beach. Make this summer count by keeping up with national and international issues and watching the 2012 Summer Olympics in London.

I hope you find this a break to the daily stresses during exams — just take a moment to relax every once in a while. And to all the seniors, good luck after graduation. We are all looking forward to hearing about your amazing adventures and successes!

Kate Riley | Editor of The Edge

table of contents

Page 5 "Hunger Games" tourism	Page 6 Best places to live after graduation	Page 8 Album and movie reviews	Page 10 Life lessons from Disney	Page 26 Summer 2012 Olympics
Page 14 Cover: Elon seniors get international jobs	Page 18 Summer staples	Page 20 How to look your best for your internship	Page 22 Coast to coast drama in sports	Page 28 Opinion: Bill O'Reilly