ATHLETICS

FOOTBALL.

The game that was to have been played last Saturday morning was canceled at a very late hour by High Point. Consequently another week has passed and the club has not played its first game yet. It might be well to note here that the line men are of a very uniform weight, although not heavy, but splendid men in their places. The last week has seen many changes in the whole line up. Garner has been put in as full back. McGee has also been shifted to the left guard. There has been a continuous alternation between Redding and John Hollowell for the center and left tackle. Ralph Davis, one of the fastest men on the hill, has at last been brought out and placed in the back field. Short, the fast right end man, who has a presence of mind throughout the game, has developed great ability to receiving the forward pass.

There has been circulated far and wide an impression that the football interests here are more than the Guilford Football Club. This is a false impression because of the fact that football is not a regular department of the Athletic Association initiated and backed by the College. The faculty athletic committee simply gave the boys leave to initiate the fall sport on their own resources and responsibilities. Owing to the fact too that there has been circulated a statement to the effect that we have been piling up tremendous big scores against other aggregations, there has been some hesitancy on the part of secondary and scrub teams in accepting our challenges. Such a statement is unfounded because of the simple fact that we have not had a game with any team so far this season. But we are confident at this time that we will have a game with the Carolina Freshmen next Saturday afternoon at 3 o'clock on our own ground.

Tennis.

On last Tuesday afternoon Masten and Fitzgerald meandered down to Elon where they sustained a severe defeat at the hands of Harcastle and Holland, the Elon team, to the tune of 6-0, 6-1, and 6-2. Notwithstanding the fact that the score indicates that the Guilford boys were far outclassed, it remains to say that they had the speed and serve, but for lack of practice they were not able to display any real head work.

SCIENCE CLUB

The third regular meeting of the Joseph Moore Science Club was held in Memorial Hall on Wednesday evening, October 20th. At a previous meeting the following officers had been elected to serve this year:

President—Prof. Brinton.
Vice-President—Roy Blaylock.
Secretary—Laura Davis.
Treasurer—Jesse Garner.
Ausscher—Prof. Downing.

New members voted into the club are: Hazel Armstrong, Oma Gray, Callie Lewis, Sara Richardson, Floy Lassiter, Josephine Coble, Clarice Newlin, Phoebe Worth, Carrie Yates, Ellen Raiford, Jones Smith, Robert Thayer, Henry Beeson, Fowell Mendenhall, Warren Mitchell, J. T. Valentine, Milton Mason.

The general subject of Public Health has been chosen by the club for this year's study. At the meeting last Wednesday, Prof. Downing spoke on "Public Health and the Water Supply." He took up the quantity, sources and quality of water supplies and performed several experiments showing the methods by which chlorine and nitrogen are determined in the chemical examination of water samples.

PERSONALS.

Dr. Newlin and Professor Peele have been attending the Friends Conference at Richmond, Va.

Miss Evelyn Briggs and Miss Lucy Richardson were at the college Sunday afternoon.

Misses Beatrice Crouch and Mina Freeman visited Miss Clara Blaire Sunday.

Miss Marguerite Tuthill spent the week end with Miss Grace Taylor.

Mr. Harris Johnson was here Saturday to see his niece, Miss Alice Thompson.

Miss Ellen White spent the week end in Greensboro with her sister.

Messrs. Roy Hodgkin and Edison Hicks, who were students here last year, were seen on the campus Saturday.

Mr. Neece Williard, of James town, visited his brother, Hernie, Sunday afternoon.

Mr. Ernest Store, '14, who won fame as a pitcher with the Boston Red Sox and played an important part in the world series this year, stopped by Thursday while on his way home.

GIRLS' ATHLETICS

The faculty has decided upon a new ruling which is an attempt to fill a gap in the all-roundness of the young women's college course. The ruling is a modified form of systematic gymnasium work. On Tuesday and Thursday afternoons every woman, except Juniors and Seniors, is required to report at 4:15. The work until the middle of November will be out of doors entirely and will consist of tennis, basket-ball, volley-ball or walking; the indoor work will consist of calisthenics and games. It is the intention of the faculty committee in charge of physical culture for the young women to collaborate in whatever way it can with the Y. W. C. A.

BROWNING'S "ABT VOGLER."

The remaining five stanzas embody Browning's spiritual philosophy on the seeming failure and disappointment of this life. In the eighth, the sadness and regret caused by the vanishing of the magic palace are replaced by the thought that "what was, shall be," and this hope leads to the perfect submission and confidence implied in the ninth stanza:

"Therefore to whom turn I but to thee,
the ineffable Name?
Builder and Maker, Thou, of houses
not made of hands!
What, have fear of change from Thee
who art ever the same?
Doubt that Thy power can fill the heart that Thy power expands?
There shall never be one lost good!
What was, shall live as before:
The evil is null, is rought, is silence
implying sound;
What was good, shall be good, with,
for evil, so much good more;
On the earth the broken arcs: in the heaven, a perfect round."

In this stanza Browning seems to express the negative idea of evil, as if it were a necessary condition of the incompleteness of things.

In the tenth stanza hope rises still higher, even to the belief that everything worthy will survive to eternity, though attended on earth by defeat:

"All we have willed or hoped or dreamed of good, shall exist;
Not its semblance, but itself; no beauty,
nor good, nor power,
Whose voice has gone forth, but each
survives for the melodist
When eternity affirms the conception of an hour."

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

It might be truthfully said that our midweek prayer meeting of Thursday evening was unusual. To be sure the attendance was small, owing to the fact that it seemed expedient on this particular evening to change the time of meeting from the usual hour of 6:30 to 5:30 and many girls did not know of this arrangement.

The leader, Ellen Raiford, read in our hearing the 12th chapter of Ecclesiastes. Her subject was: "Your Picture." In the daily acts of our lives, she said, we are painting our pictures and it is within our power to decide whether that picture shall reflect smiles or frowns. A face that reflects pure thoughts and a capacity for doing kindly deeds is one that no one will be ashamed of. If in old age we wish to be beautiful, now is the time to ask ourselves the question: "Am I living up to my best self?" Sometimes we think that we cannot reach the goal and it is only by persevering to the end, that we can expect reward.

"There are thousands to tell you it can't be done,
There are thousands to prophesy failure,
There are thousands to point out to
you one by one
The daggers that wait to assail you,
But just buckle in with a bit of a grin,
Then take off your coat and go to it,
Just start in to sing as you tackle the thing
That cannot be done and you'll do it."

Unlike the old custom of allowing one member to bear the whole responsibility of the service a goodly number of girls supplemented the leader's remarks by various quotations bearing on the subject.

I am sure that all who attended the meeting will agree with me when I say that it was an unusually inspiring one.

Y. M. C. A. NOTES.

Our last weekly meeting was unlike our usual meetings in that we did not have a specially selected leader. At this meeting Mr. F. H. Morris read some verses from the Bible, and asked for a season of prayer in which several took part. After this the meeting was thrown open to all. Many took advantage of this opportunity to say a few words. A general meeting like this one is always good, and this meeting was much enjoyed.
