Y. M. C. A. LED BY MR. MOORE

A SHORT TALK BY RUFUS KING.

The Y. M. C. A. on last Thursday evening was led by E. A. Moore. He took "Perseverance" for his subject and dealt with it in a very clear, concise way. He defined perseverance in the following terms:

"To persevere is to continue in a given course in spite of discouragement in order to attain an end."

The leader pointed out the fact that in order to be successful in the business world a man must be persevering. "Decide on your own way; then be persistent because there is no one but yourself who can give you success." Besides bringing success it will also bring joy. When you have done your work well, when your lessons have been thoroughly prepared and recited then you can look the world in the face and feel that you have done your best.

In closing Mr. Moore said: "First be sure you are doing the right thing and then persevere."

After the leader had finished his talk "Uncle Rufus King" gave some very interesting remarks beseeching his hearers "to stick to the bush," that is, he urged them to keep their minds on their work. He also gave a brief account of his trip out West and related a few incidents that took place during his journey.

JOSEPH MOORE SCIENCE CLUB.

The first meeting of Science Club was held in Memorial Hall Wednesday evening, October 4th, at 7 o'clock. The officers elected for the ensuing year were as follows: President, Professor Balderston; vice-president, Jessie Garner; secretary, Hazel Armstrong; treasurer, E. A. Moore; ausseher, Professor Brinton.

The following members were elected: Professors George and Edwards, David Jackson, Ethel Speas, Maude Lassiter and Joe White.

Professor George gave a very instructive lecture on capillary circulation. With the aid of a projecting lantern and a frog which had been anaesthetized he was able to show the blood circulation even in its transitions from arteries to veins. The focus was made so perfect that the red and white corpuscles could be seen.

The topic for the year's discussion was put in the hands of a committee consisting of the president, vice-president and ausseher.

PEELE COTTAGE OCCUPIED.

Professors George and Edwards have recently given up dormitory life and have moved to the cottage vacated by Prof. Peele. The rooms are being repapered and put in order and to their envious friends there is every indication that they have settled down to a cozy life of domestic felicity.

Don't forget the Y. W. C. A. picnic next Saturday.

GUILFORD LOSES TO THE BAPTISTS

Quakers Unable to Stop Wake Forest Attack During First Half But Find Themselves During the Last Two Periods.

In the first inter-collegiate football game in which a Guilford team has participated since 1904, the strong Wake Forest eleven defeated the Crimson and Gray pigskin devotees by the score of 33 to 0. The game was staged at Wake Forest and played under the disadvantage of a hot October day which was much more conducive to a world's series baseball game than to a football tug of war. Despite the unusual heat the game was splendidly contested after the Quaker eleven once got under way.

The first half opened with Jones for Guilford kicking off to Wake Forest and the ball was advanced fifty yards. No score was made, however, for some five minutes when Guilford lost the ball on downs on her twenty-five yard line. Fullback Parker for Wake Forest then went through left guard for ten yards and Champion carried the ball over on his second successful plunge through the line. The second score came as a result of an intercepted forward pass and a brace of end runs by Pace and Parker which netted the Baptists twenty yards and the second touchdown. The third touchdown was made by Croom who carried the ball seventy-five yards through the Guilford team, eluding several line men and shaking off the back-field which attempted to tackle him. It was easily the prettiest run of the game. The first quarter ended with the score 20 to 0.

In the second quarter, Guilford showed more fighting spirit but the heavy Wake Forest backfield which outweighed the light Quaker backs at least 20 pounds to the man, secured two more touchdowns, totaling the score to 33 to 0. In this quarter, the Guilford eleven was slowly but surely beginning to find itself; the heavy Baptists no longer waded through the Crimson and Gray without a fight and the Quakers secured their initial first down of the game which was result of a forward pass, Semans to Jones.

The third quarter began with Wake Forest kicking to Guilford. Beeson received the ball for Guilford and advanced it twenty yards. The next down netted the Quakers three yards and on the second plunge ten yards and first down were secured. Again the Wake Forest line was pierced for a gain, this time for six yards; only twenty yards now lay between Guilford and a touchdown and the team was fighting with a spirit which it had not yet exhibited. At this stage of the game, however, the Baptists called their heavy backfield back into play, in order to stop the rush. Parker, Croom and Pace, who had been out of the game at the time of the kick-off, were too powerful and on the fourth down Guilford was compelled to kick. During this quarter the Wake Forest was held safe and no additional score was made. In the last quarter, Guilford again threatened the Wake Forest goal. Jones recovered a Wake Forest fumble and advanced the ball to the thirty yard line. A line plunge and a penalty gave eight yards more but the Wake Forest line settled and two downs resulted in no gains. With the ball on the twenty yard line, Jones attempted a drop kick which was blocked and recovered by the Baptists. The ball then seasawed up and down the field, the game ending with the ball on the thirty yard line.

The game was not a defeat, in one sense of the word, for the Guilford team. With practically no experience and with the usual nervousness which characterized a new team, the Quakers were swept off their feet in the first half of the game. Fumbles and poor tackling proved their undoing. But as the game advanced, the Crimson and Gray eleven began to find itself and would have scored on the Wake Forest second string backfield within five minutes of the opening of the third quarter if the heavier and more experienced Baptist backs had not been sent in to ward off the score.

From the standpoint of the Quakers, the work of Captain Jones at right end was not lacking in merit; Hollowell at fullback was effective in line plunging, while Zachary, Lloyd and Garner were strong men in the Guilford line. The entire line was not as weak as the score suggests since most of the scoring was a result of end runs, 70 per cent. of the opponent's gains being made in this way. This was due to the poor work of the Quaker tacklers. Jones seemed to be the only man in the backfield who would tackle low and effectively. The supreme weakness of the eleven is their tackling, which is partially explained by the absence of a tack-

Y. W. C. A. NOTES

Last Thursday evening Miss Julia White conducted the Y. W. C. A. meeting. Miss Julia always comes to us with a message, a message that appeals to girls and one that they can't forget.

She took as a basis for her talk, Matthew 23:23. She said the tendency of the time is to allow the prayer meetings to become too much a matter of form; they lack something of reverence of spirituality which used to characterize former days. The meetings are left too much to the leader alone. "We need in our meetings," she said, "that deep spirituality which just bubbles over." People need to get so into the spirit of worship that it is impossible to refrain from saying something. She told of some prayer meetings held at Guilford years ago which had impressed her so much and she pointed out that it was the spontaneous utterances from the heart that leaves the deepest impression.

The meeting was thrown open for discussion. Several responded, making some impressive talks.

Again the attention of all the girls, the new ones especially, is called to the annual Battle Ground picnic, to be held next Saturday.

A VERY INTERESTING PROGRAM RENDERED BY CLAYS.

The political campaign was opened in earnest at Guilford Friday night, October 6th, when the Clays had for discussion the question, Resolved, "That the present prosperity of the country is due more to the present administration than to the European war." The affirmative was upheld by H. Moore and J. Stanley. They pointed out the laws which have been passed by the government which would naturally increase the prosperity of the country.

The negative, E. B. Carroll and C. Lassiter, held that for the five months of Wilson's administration before the start of the European war, the imports of the country exceeded the exports. This, they said, was contrary to the maintenance of good economic conditions. Both sides discussed the question from a political standpoint. The judges, Messrs. Zachary, Sherrill and Kiser decided in favor of the negative.

The following officers were elected: E. A. Moore, president; Zachary, vice-president; Townsend, secretary; Lloyd, assistant secretary; Casey, marshal.

Mr. D. D. Sherrill was then received into membership of the Clay Society. The critic, Newlin, then delivered his report and the Society adjourned.

The following minute was adopted by the faculty at their last regular meeting:

No permission shall be given any student for attending the Central Carolina Fair except on Friday afternoon, when the regular classes will be discontinued.
