

Julia S. White

The Guilfordian

VOLUME III

GUILFORD COLLEGE, N. C., MARCH 7, 1917.

NUMBER 21

C. E. Tebberts Lectures

Students Hear a Strong Plea for Missions.

Charles E. Tebberts, General Secretary of the American Friends Board of Foreign Missions, lectured most interestingly here Saturday evening, March 3rd. He chose as his subject: "Some Problems in the Present World Crisis," discussing it under three main heads, viz: Antagonism between forces in our own country, antagonism between nations, and racial antagonism.

Every thinking person realizes that the world is just now in the midst of great changes. Men everywhere are reaching out for new bearings, and it is inevitable that the world must be reorganized in every channel of life. Old ideas are swiftly changing, and strife and clashing interests result. These conditions have come to pass in a perfectly natural way; they are inherent in complex modern life. The strife between capital and labor, the problems of

(Continued on page four)

Y. M. C. A. HEARS

ABOUT OPPORTUNITY

Charles E. Tebberts spoke to the Y. M. C. A. Thursday evening on the subject, "Opportunities of Young Men." His talk was an excellent one. He showed where men could find a place to work and how they could use their influence for the advancement of the Kingdom of Christ if they would only seize the opportunities before them. Strength is the pride of any man. It may be moral, physical, or spiritual strength that he possesses, but while young, when he is forming habits which will remain with him thru life, it should be his purpose to use his strength so that he may have power over it in later life. Habits grow, and it is hard to break away from them, so it is best to start right and stay right. In order to start right, men must accept the teachings of Christ and live them in their daily work.

The average layman thinks that he is under no obligation to serve God as the minister is. But as a matter of fact every Christian is under obligations to serve God to the greatest possible extent. The layman can push the work in many avenues of the church which the minister cannot hardly touch, such as getting the community interested in the Sunday school, mission work, and finances of the church. There is a place for the business man in the church and he should be there.

In every community, either rural, or village there is an opportunity for a college man to do something. He should rid his community of any evil that may exist and inspire the young people to get busy. Every man in whatever occupation he may be, should use his influence for the advancement of Christ's Kingdom, and in performing this work he will save himself.

Quakers Lose Last Game

Carolina Trim Guilford in the Final Basket Ball Game of Season—Crimson and Gray Play Indifferent Ball.

In the final basket ball engagement of the season, the Guilford Quint went down in defeat by the score of 55 to 28, the University of North Carolina handing us the rather large-sized lemon. The game was played on the Carolina court and the rules were somewhat different from those under which the Crimson and Gray had been working, the "not out of bounds rule" being the law of the contest. While this fact was a considerable disadvantage to the Quakers, Carolina clearly outclassed the Guilford five which was lacking in spirit and played listlessly.

The first half ended with the score of 27 to 9 in favor of Carolina, the Quakers failing to show any real strength in this period. In the second half, however, more geist was injected in the game and 19 points were added to Guilford's total while Carolina also was engaged in the process of accumulating tallies.

The chief features of the game were the playing of Shepherd and Grandin for Carolina and the free goal shooting of McDuffie. Grandin basketed nine field goals while Shepherd secured seven. For Guilford, Smith and Massey played the best ball but only indifferent playing characterized the last game of the most spirited season which the Quakers have had in a number of years. In no sense was the final game typical of the real strength and spirit of the team during the rest of the season.

Zachary was out of the game on account of sickness, the big center being laid up with a severe cold.

The score and lineup was as follows:

Guilford.	Carolina
Semans . . . . . R. F. . . . .	Shepherd
Massey . . . . . L. F. . . . .	McDuffie
Smith . . . . . C. . . . .	Grandin
Walser . . . . . L. G. . . . .	Tennant
Jones . . . . . R. G. . . . .	Cuthbertson

Substitution: Smith for Jones; Walser, D., for Smith.

Field goals, Massey, 3; Semans, 1; Smith, 4; Walser, Z., 1; McDuffie, 5; Shepherd, 7; Grandin, 9; and Cuthbertson 1.

Foul goals, McDuffie, 7; Grandin, 2, and Massey, 8.

Miss Highfill's Birthday Celebrated.

On Wednesday afternoon, Feb. 28, from 4.15 to 5.30, Misses Sallie McGehee and Ruth Coltrane gave a delightful tea in honor of Fern Highfill. Quite a number were present to enjoy the occasion the entertainment being in the form of a progressive rook party. Those present were Miss Dix, Fern Highfill, Totten Motton, Bernice Pike, Addie Morris, Lillie Williamson, Deborah Brown, Mary Ina Shamburger, Hazel Armstrong, Gertrude Cronk, Ethel Speas, Cathryne Campbell Beatrice Louallen, Ellen Raiford, Grace Burke, Maude Lassiter, Dorothy Hubbard, Annie Marshall and Georgiana Bird.

Y. W. C. A. Organizes For Next Year

Retiring Officers Have Rendered Good Service.

At the annual business meeting of the Young Women's Christian Association held on Thursday evening, March 1, the following officers were elected to serve the ensuing year: President, Bernice Pike; vice-president, Ellen Raiford; secretary, Deborah Brown; treasurer, Addie Morris.

MISS HAZEL ARMSTRONG
Retiring President of Y. W. C. A.

The Retiring Officers.

At some time in the history of all organizations there is a need for that spirit which does not simply add something new, but which makes old things appear in a different light. In Y. W. C. A. work the retiring president, Miss Hazel Armstrong, has answered this need.

Among other things she has introduced a course of systematic study for cabinet members and has initiated the departmental basis for the next cabinet besides planning for the president's council to be held at Guilford in April. This shows that Miss Armstrong has realized that Association work cannot reach all desired ends with the president alone

(Continued on page three)

Hot Air Supply Fails at Memorial.

Owing to repairs to the heating system of Memorial Hall due to a leaky boiler the temperature of that building has been low enough during the last few days to enable "From Greenlands Icy Mountains" to be sung at collection with considerable earnestness. Speakers have been forced to omit references to future punishment as the prospect of a hot place seems more comforting than otherwise. Students in the chemical laboratory may be seen daily closely huddled around a Bunsen burner, while the Biological Department has taken up the study of evolution during the Glacial Period. It is to be hoped that when we again have hot air at Mem. the quality will be improved.

Professor Cobb Lectures

Popular Geologist of the University Speaks Entertainingly of Sand-dunes.

On Wednesday evening Prof. Collier Cobb, of the University of North Carolina, gave a very entertaining illustrated lecture under the auspices of the Joseph Moore Science Club. His subject was sand dunes and his lecture, which he characterized himself as being anthropo-geological, ran the gamut from folk-tales to a discussion of the practical methods for rebuilding the parts of our shore line which have been slowly retreating inland under the influence of wind and wave. He told first his observations of the inhabitants of the sand dunes in various parts of the world. Everywhere he found old customs, old methods of building, old dialects and old folk stories existing on the coastal strips. Somewhere on the coast of France he had found a colony who claimed to speak the language of Adam, a claim to some extent justified by facts, for students have decided it is one of the oldest languages in Europe. Along the North Carolina reefs he found many survivals of antiquity—reed huts used for kitchens which explorers have declared cannot exist this

(Continued on page four)

CURTAIN FALLS ON BASKET BALL SEASON

Quakers Won Five Out of Eleven—Team Work Characterized the Season—Hand Coach Doak a Flower.

Since Carolina has cancelled the game scheduled for March 8th on the Guilford floor, the game at Chapel Hill on last Saturday evening closed the season of the indoor sport. From the total of eleven games played this season with the leading teams of the state the Quakers have won five and lost six of the most closely contested battles of any season in recent years. Three of the games lost during the past season have been dropped by the narrow margin of one point, the Quakers having failed to properly court the favor of that fair goddess, Luck. Davidson managed somehow to get the big end of two games in which the lone tally proved disastrous to the Crimson and Gray, the first game going to the Presbyterians by the count of 28 to 27 in one of the most heart-breaking contests staged on the local floor in years. The second game with that same genteel set of players also was captured by them by the score of 19 to 18 the exhibition being staged at Statesville. The third game which the Quakers lost by the one-point route was with Wake Forest, the count in this case being 18 to 17.

That the Crimson and Gray has played an unusual brand of ball during the past season despite the fact that a majority of the games was

(Continued on page four)