GUILFORD LOSES TO DAVIDSON

Presbyterians Defeat Quakers 37 to 24 in Hotly Contested Game.

On the night of February 1, the Guilford basket ball team was defeated by the Davidson quint on the Davidson's floor by a score of 37 to 24. The Davidson team took the lead early in the game and kept it until the last whistle blew, although at times the Guilford team showed a real fighting spirit and threatened to push ahead of the Presbyterians.

The playing of Jones, for Guilford, was one of the most noticeable features of the game. He, though well guarded by his opponents, succeeded in sending three field goals into the basket from long range. Jones, as in all former games, clearly outclassed his opponents in shooting foul goals. Out of nine trials he made six good, while Davidson pocketed only three out of ten free trials.

For Davidson, King and Hengewald played the best game. They together scored 31 of the 37 points made by Davidson.

The Guilford team at times did some real team work, showed excellent fighting spirit, and did some good passing, but this was not done consistently. There were times during the game when the players allowed their pep to subside, and to this the loss of the game may be greatly attributed.

The second meeting for the year of the Piedmont Home Economics Association was held at Guilford College on Saturday afternoon with Miss Noles, of the Home Economics Department, as hostess.

Altho the weather interfered somewhat with the attendance, there of schools and colleges in this section were representatives from a number of them. An interested discussion on "The Place of Home Economics in the Schools" was led by Miss Gilman of the Greensboro Normal. The next meeting of this association will be held in March at Salem College.

BIOLOGY LABORATORY INCORPORATED WITH THE MUSEUM

Domestic Science Department to Occupy New Quarters.

A plan has been worked out in detail to incorporate the Biology Laboratory with the Museum, in the belief that such an incorporation will be for the best interests of not only both the Museum and Biology Department but will be of advantage to other departments of Guilford College. This plan has been indorsed by the faculty and by the executive committee of the trustees. The reasons for the change are as follows:

1. It will make for the better care and usefulness of the Museum without in any way interfering with the usefulness and its original purpose.
2. It will make possible much better facilities and better work in the Biology Department, and make possible the growth and larger usefulness of this department, now limited and hindered by its present situation.
3. It will make available for the use of another department the space now occupied by the Biological Laboratory.
4. That the incorporation of the Museum and Biology Laboratory can be accommodated without asking either the college or the Board of Trustees for any money or making them liable to any expenditures.

To take these points up in order, the proposed change can be only of benefit to the Museum because it will result in much better care for all of

LECTURE ON NATIONAL PROHIBITION

Dr. Madison Swadener, of Indianapolis, representing the Anti-Saloon League of America in its campaign for National prohibition, spoke at the church here Sunday afternoon, Feb. 3rd.

He sketched most graphically the methods employed in the modern crusade against the legalized liquor system, a traffic which has become an American institution.

Mr. Swadener did not discuss the question of temperance in the old-fashioned way, but he spoke more particularly of the various temperance organizations which have existed since the Civil War, and of the very effective work which they have done in the matter of arousing sentiment against the liquor traffic.

"The time has now come," said Dr. Swadener, "to crystalize this sentiment into action, and to mobilize the forces of the anti-saloon movement."

The speaker showed very concisely, by definite examples, how the liquor interests have exerted a most powerful influence in political manipulations in various parts of our country. In many cases, elections are absolutely under the control of the liquor trust. He spoke particularly of the liquor lobbying which has recently taken place in the city of Washington.

Mr. Swadener told his hearers of the present status of the amendment in its ratification by States; showing that this is the crucial time in the warfare against alcoholism, and pointing out the necessity for immediate action on the question.

The speaker impressed his audience as much by his earnestness, as by the content of his message, and one was certainly fortunate to have been among his hearers.

PROF. BALDERSTON TALKS TO Y. M. C. A.

The last meeting of the Y. M. C. A. was addressed by Prof. Balderston on the subject of "making excuses." He began by declaring that the best part of the meeting, that devoted to prayer, had already taken place. In the prayer service where many take part and where the responsibility is not thrown on a single person, true worship is expressed. The speaker showed the futility of making excuses when asked to lead a meeting.

ALMA CHILTON LEADS Y. W. C. A.

On Thursday evening the Y. W. C. A. was in charge of the Mission Study Committee Alma Chilton talked to the Association on "Our Life's Purpose." She chose as her Scripture reading John 3:13-22.

Miss Chilton commenced her talk by saying that God's purpose in the world was Christianity and that He must work thru individuals in order to attain that purpose. His plan must fail if we fail to help; He is depending on us.

ALBERT PEELE DIES AT HIS HOME

Minister Long Known and Well Beloved by Guilford Students Passes Away.

On Thursday morning, January 31st, Albert Peele passed away quietly in his home after a brief illness. He was in his eightieth year.

The death of Albert Peele brought real sorrow to Guilford College. His long connection with the Friends' religious meeting, at this place, where most of his life as a minister of the Gospel was spent, brought him into sympathy with all Guilford students; and his cheerful, happy spirit and his genuineness and nobility of character made him a valued part of Guilford. He was one time a teacher in the school before it became a college; and in him Guilford ever had a faithful and valiant friend.

Many students attended his funeral, held February 1st; and but for the extremely unfavorable weather, many more from near by towns and from the country around would have shown by their presence their warm appreciation of the life and character of so excellent a man.

His funeral was held on Tuesday afternoon in the Yearly Meeting House owned partly by the Yearly Meeting and partly by New Garden Monthly Meeting in both of which Meetings Albert Peele had been a leader for nearly half a century.

A brief account of his life, prepared by Professor J. F. Davis, was read by the pastor, J. Edgar Williams, who made the principal address. Dr. Sylvester Newlin, of High Point, read a very appropriate selection from the Bible and offered a prayer. A representative from Kernersville Monthly Meeting, of which Albert Peele had been pastor for the past two years, gave an appreciative testimony of his service among Friends in that Meeting. Lewis W. McFarland, of High Point, bore witness to the encouragement and help he had received from his association with Albert Peele. Roxie Dixon White and L. L. Hobbs, both members of New Garden Monthly Meeting, spoke; Roxie D. White reading a poem written by her on the event of Albert Peele's seventy-eighth birthday, and completed upon his death.

L. L. Hobbs stated that he had long been an intimate friend of the deceased, and that he regarded his life as a great sermon, which in no possible way could be contradicted. Altho we might misinterpret and misunderstand words, there was no way of being deceived and misled by the upright, genuine, and devoted life which Albert Peele has lived before all the people among whom his lot had been cast. In all the exercises there was manifested a profound respect and esteem for the distinguished friend who in a long and useful life won the admiration and love of all who knew him.
