

ALUMNI NOTES.

Worth, '95, was married on the 18th of January to Miss Marguerite Louise Sutherland, of Cincinnati. Mr. Worth is a prominent electrical engineer of Cincinnati.

Waldo Holt, ex-'10, graduates in June from the medical department of the University of Pennsylvania. Following his graduation he will enter a Philadelphia Hospital for training in surgery, a position for which he was chosen over a number of applicants.

Flora Harding Eaton, '03, is in the department of mathematics in Mars Hill College.

Lyndon Stuart, '17, is principal of the Wanchese School on Roanoke Island.

Kenneth L. Whittington, ex-Guilford, was recently graduated from the Theological Seminary at Richmond, and now has charge of a parish at Marshville, Union county.

Joseph H. Peele, '91, who was recently called to North Carolina by the illness and death of his father, Albert Peele, paid the college a short visit. He makes a most interesting report of his work at Hartford Seminary, where he expects to finish his course a year from June.

Henry Davis, '09, is at home from Mary Hill, Washington State. He has been in Washington for a number of years, acting as agent for Mr. Samuel Hill, who is a promoter of large industries in the West. At present Mr. Davis is at home in the interest of his registration card.

Margaret Davis Winslow, '09, and little son, Cyrus Edward, Jr., are visiting her father, Professor Davis. Anna Davis McArthur, '13, has also been at home for a few days.

N. B. Stamey, ex-Guilford, is with the Third Company Coast Artillery, Fort Caswell.

J. Earl Williams is in Company I Third North Carolina Infantry, Camp Sevier.

WEBS. HAVE RECOVERED FROM EXAMS.

The Websterian Society is taking on a new spirit, and increased interest has been shown since examinations. The meeting last Friday night showed that the men are really beginning to work.

The program for the evening was a very interesting one. The question for discussion was: "Resolved, that all alien enemies in the United States should be interned for the period of the war?" The affirmative was represented by J. D. Dorsett, E. B. Lowe and Earl W. McFarland, while the negative was defended by R. Ogburn, S. Smith and H. Raiford. Although four of the men were new men, they all showed a knowledge of the question and debated well. The judges, Taylor, Lineberry and Gilbreath decided two to one in favor of the affirmative.

The second number on the program was a report of the latest Current Events, given by W. E. Barret, which was very interesting.

We were very glad to welcome J. Hal Gilbreath into our society.

Mr. Fitzgerald, as critic, then made a brief report in which he commented on the improvement being made and the work of the society in general.

EDITORIAL OFFICE SECURES COLLEGIAN VOLUMES

Several former principals of the Boarding School contributed able articles to the first volume. Among these are S. C. Collins, Joseph Moore and Nereus Mendenhall. The following quotation from Joseph Moore's contribution shows how the standards he set in the past still remain the standards of today. "Let the general sentiment of the college," he says, "be such as is opposed to all sham and pretence. Hold up a standard that tends to popularize thoroughness and honesty in intellectual and religious work. Let it be ever counted as in the highest degree manly to have a Christian character through and through; let there be no intellectual or religious sham. Honest work in the preparation and reciting of lessons and in the debating clubs will go far towards making honest men and women in the church and in all the business relations of life."

Dr. Nereus Mendenhall contributes an interesting account of the life of Dougan Clark, first superintendent of New Garden Boarding School. A number of the other contributions contain glowing phrases and resounding periods such as could only have originated from the orator's rostrum and the habit of filling up the paper with orations delivered in contests seems to have originated early. One of the best of these is by Joseph Dixon, '89, the future Senator from Montana. Among the locals we find much of interest. It is not surprising to find in the first number that "some of the inmates of Archdale Hall are looking towards Founders with longing eyes." The College we are pleased to find "hopes soon to be able to enlarge Archdale Hall." Let us still hope.

"Football, baseball, tennis and marbles," says the scribe, "have each claimed attention here this term. We do not see why the boys do not organize an Athletic Association and carry on these exercises more systematically." Probably when the Association was formed the marbles manager was duly elected.

"Some new streets are being opened up in the village" we learn. Where are they now? We find that "a more liberal supply of gravel would improve the boys' walk." How history 30 years after does repeat itself. We find with pleasure an article by Prof. Davis on "Our Thrushes." It is most interesting to find him to be an ornithologist in addition to his other accomplishments. This article shows what a very early convert to reformed spelling Prof. Davis was. It is rather startling to see which and when spelled "hwich" and "hwen." Each number of the first volume begins with a poem. These are mostly of the moralizing kind so freely indulged in by our parents, and not the worse by any means for being such. One of the best of these is signed by the well known initials M. M. H.

At the end of the volume we find that the whole college in those days went on picnics to Pilot Mountain. The writer describes this occasion in an interesting manner. Breakfast over by four o'clock; then a ride to the Battle Ground, and then a special car to Pilot Mountain. At 1 a. m. that night the last wagon load of returning picnickers drew up at Founders. Surely an eventful day.

(Other volumes of the Collegian will be reviewed later as space permits.)

OFFICERS INSTALLED BY ZATASIANS.

The regular meeting of the Zatasian Literary Society last Friday evening was called to order by President Smith. As this was the regular evening for the installation of officers, the following were installed: Katherine Campbell, president; Fern Highfill, secretary; Julia Dixon, marshal.

Miss Seal, in an amusing manner, told us "All Kinds of News." "Some Improvements for Guilford" were suggested by Miss Farlowe, after which Miss Price rendered a very pleasing piano selection. One of Robert Service's poems was well read by Miss McBane. Miss Reece, in an amusing recitation, told us something of Kentucky Philosophy.

After the miscellaneous business had been transacted, the critic gave a strong report.

Miss Cathline Pike visited her sister, Bernice, at the college Sunday.
