

ALUMNI NOTES.

Robert Brown, '15, has resigned his position as principal of the school at Louisburg, N. C., and has been inducted into service in a government manufacturing plant in Philadelphia.

Alice Woody Lindley, '09, came down from Baltimore last week and will spend some time with her parents here. She has been engaged in W. C. A. work in the city of Baltimore this winter.

Ezra Moore, '17, was married on April thirtieth to Miss Mallie Edwards, formerly a student of the college. Mr. Moore expects to join a reconstruction unit and sail for France very soon.

Walter F. Grabbs, '91, is doing very successful work as pastor at Bethania, North Carolina.

Wiley R. Pritchett, '07, has resigned his pastorate at Ridgeway, South Carolina, to accept a new one at Hemingway, South Carolina.

G. E. Petty, ex-Guilford, has recently accepted a position as government inspector of cotton mills. He works at the direction of the Atlanta office of the ordnance department.

R. William McCulloch has gone from Brownwood, Texas, to Pittsburg, Pa., to engage in clerical work for the government.

James Anderson, '09, who received a commission as second lieutenant from Ft. Oglethorpe last summer and later was commissioned first lieutenant, has now been promoted to the rank of captain and is at present stationed at Fort Fremont, California.

LITERARY CLUB DISCUSSES MAETERLINCK.

At the last meeting of the Literary Society the study of Maeterlinck, which was begun several weeks ago, was concluded in a most brilliant manner.

Miss Papworth read a very intermodern drama drawing her illustrating paper on symbolism in the titles from Ibsen, Maeterlinck and others.

Miss Carolyn Yates then discussed "The Blue Bird," dwelling in an instructive manner on both its symbolic and dramatic qualities.

Professor Rogers concluded the meeting with a graphic account of one of Maeterlinck's plays (Monna Vanna).

The club will proceed with a study of Rostand and Bernard Shaw.

Leaving Maeterlinck and his mysticism the Literary Club at their last meeting on April 10 took up the study of Rostand, his revival of romanticism and his satire on modern society in the symbolical play, "Chantecler." Mr. Balderston gave a very interesting talk on Rostand's life and place in literature, while Miss Edwards read a paper giving the plot and a clever interpretation of "Chantecler."

"TOUCH-ME-NOTS" vs. "FORGET-M-NOTS"

Last Saturday afternoon a very exciting basketball game was played in the gym. As there were a number of the visiting high school contestants present, the teams were chosen from both the high school and college girls.

Both teams displayed much vim. Some team work was displayed, though both sides were handicapped as they had not practiced together.

As Josie McVey was again back at the basket with Helen Boren, of Pomona High School, assisting her, they lost no time in keeping the score ahead for the "Forget-me-nots."

With close guarding by D. McBane and the faithful work of Martha Caudle, the "Touch-me-nots" were not able to withstand the attack. Elma McVey, Guilford's star center, kept up her reputation.

The "Touch-me-nots" kept the score close as Addie Morris was at the basket with her usual skill as forward and Maud Lassiter from Bethany High School was there to assist her.

Jack and A. Wolf were constantly chasing the ball and gave the opposing team a hard role to play.

Zola McCracken from G. C. High School played a good game at center.

At the end of a hard-fought contest the score was 8-11 in favor of the "Forget-me-nots."

Line-up: "Forget-me-nots"—J. McVey, rf.; H. Boren, lf.; E. McVey, c; D. McBane, rg; M. Caudle, lg.

"Touch-me-nots"—A. Morris, rf; M. Lassiter, lf; Z. McCracken, c; A. Wolf, lg; L. Raiford, rg.

The meeting made the girls present begin to wonder if they were not finding fault with perfect conditions in comparison with what the boys in the trenches endure.

RAIN INTERFERES WITH BASEBALL SCHEDULE

Zachary and Murray, who will oppose each other on the mound, are considered the two best college pitchers in the State, but no Guilfordian doubts that Zachary will demonstrate that he is in a class by himself.

Manager Jones has arranged a splendid trip South. Beginning on the 27th at Hickory the team will play Lenoir, and from there they will go to Columbia and meet the University of South Carolina in two games. They will then cross bats with Wofford at Spartanburg and then Clemson will be met at Clemson. They will then come back to Greenville and play one of the camp teams. The remaining date of that week will probably be filled by either Newberry, Furman or Belmont College. Guilford expected to play Davidson on this trip, but owing to cancelation by Davidson the two teams will not meet this year.

FOOD CONSERVATION LECTURES

Miss Noles is beginning this week a series of lectures on food conservation. This course of lectures will extend over a period of four weeks and will be open to all who are interested in the subject. The class will be divided into two sections. Any one attending will be amply repaid.

An interesting exhibit may be seen at the present time in the Domestic Science Laboratory. The classes have weighed out carefully the amount of bread, cereal, sugar, etc., permitted per capita by each of the European governments. The exhibit is open to the public.
