We are glad to welcome Mr. Luby Casey into our midst as a member of the editorial board of this publication. Mr. Casey takes the place left vacant by Mr. Charles Shelton, this vacancy being caused by the latter's withdrawal from college. We feel that Mr. Casey is fitted for the position and will faithfully discharge its duties.

Students! We wish to call your attention again to the box on the outside of the Guilfordian door. We want your help in giving readers of the paper all the news. Any contributions which are of general interest will be gladly received.

Now every student should begin at the outset to feel that the college paper is his paper as much as any one's. It is supposed to be representative of the college and no one should shirk his responsibility and put the entire obligation on the editors. We may not know of important items of which you may have knowledge. Each individual probably knows some incident of general interest which we have no means of knowing. Worthy contributions are always gladly welcomed. We want each student to feel that the Guilfordian is a door of opportunity for the expression of worth-while ideas. Who knows what hidden genius may lie concealed among us and perhaps this is the opportunity which you have been unconsciously awaiting. We want the paper to express the sentiment of the student body so long as that sentiment is at all worth while. Of course any foolish personal jokes will not be permitted to enter the columns and lower the standard which has ever been upheld in the publication. This paper should be the expression of the many and not of the few. The old saying that "two heads are better than one" might well find an application here. With so many brains in daily operation around us surely great ideas should come to light. If you have any grievances tell us about them—if they are real grievances. Take advantage of your opportunities—get into the spirit of the times! Every time you see that box ask yourself if you have any contribution. Appoint yourself a committee of one and ferret out the news. We only ask that you do not use the English language too carelessly and that you have something to say before you try to say it. Then go ahead and give us the news and we'll do the rest and thank you besides!

THE POWER OF MUSIC.

In the Greensboro, North Carolina, Public Library is a charming book entitled "The Carolina Mountains" by Margaret Morley.

In the first chapter the author says:

"In this gentle land where even the cocks crow in a southern accent, all the world seems to be singing. It makes one want to sing too. And that is the magic and charm of the south; cares fly away and one wants to sing."

It is my belief that everywhere, from now on, music will have a more prominent place in people's lives than ever before.

The soldier sings not only to keep up his courage but to give vent, as through a safety valve, to the tense condition of his feelings.

People have sacrificed to the utmost these days. Many plans, pleasures, and interests have had to be given up, but we still have the consolation and mental uplift that music can give.

I would urge that it is precisely at this time that we must bend every effort to maintain the cultural side of our life. We all know the power of music. J. B.

TENNIS PROSPERING

AMONG THE GIRLS

Hard Practice Now in Order for Tournament.

The tennis prospects this year have been very brilliant. This has been in evidence from several different facts. One is the number of girls on the campus this year who enjoy tennis and use it as their chief recreation; second, the tennis courts have been in good playing condition from the very first of the term. Other years there have been conditions present that have hindered the fixing up of the courts till the season was almost over. The girls couldn't use them much then and the work would all have to be done over the next spring before any tennis could be played. The third cause has been the weather bureau. It has indeed been kind to us—we have been having the most perfect calm and bright days this whole fall that any one could desire.

How can we most profit by all this good luck? We can get out and play, play more and harder than we've ever played before, limber up our arm, our eyes, and our mind on things pertaining to tennis. Get your partner and go to work.

What for you ask. Why a girl's tennis tournament of course. A schedule is being made out and it will be posted soon; then you can see who you are up against, and if you are not very careful you may wish you had practiced more. The players who win out will decide the championship.

Great interest has already been evidenced from the fact that the courts have been full of players nearly every afternoon, also a good many girls have been playing before breakfast. But even more should come out in order that the college and the different classes can have the best representatives possible.

The tennis tournament. Don't forget it and try to work up so you may have a place in it.

MISS NOLES GIVES TEA
