

FOUNDERS GIRLS DRINK MUCH CHOCOLATE

Miss Louise and Miss Edwards Successfully Entertain.

On Friday evening the monotony of the quarantine at Founders Hall was disturbed when the news got abroad that Miss Osborne and Miss Edwards would entertain the girls. The bulletin board contained the announcement that all the girls of Founders were to come to Miss Osborne's room at 9 o'clock. All were anxious for the time to arrive and when it did come all went in knowing that they would have a good old time. The girls were met at the door by Misses Osborne, Edwards and Gaiñel. The first impression on seeing the receiving line was that it was to be a formal affair, but on closer observation it was seen to be the opposite. The first thing to be noticed was a large table on which was placed crackers, hot chocolate, cups and saucers. Misses Edwards and Gaiñey served while Miss Osborne poured. Some of the girls received more than their share for not speaking up when they were asked if they had been served the second time. The serving of the refreshments kept the servers real busy for no one refused however many times she was asked to have more. After every one had been served so many times that what was left of their manners forced them to finally refuse, they were then entertained by the telling of stories.

When ten o'clock drew near it was hard indeed for the guests to express their feelings in words, but from the face of each girl the hostesses knew that all had had a good time.
