FRESHMEN WIN INDOOR MEET

Annual Event Rouses Much Enthusiasm and Class Spirit.

The third annual indoor track meet was held last Saturday night in the Gym. and proved to be an unqualified success. For the first time this year the classes met each other in friendly but fervent rivalry and class spirit was developed to a degree hitherto unknown. The feats of the performers were worthy of the vociferous adulation received. Never was there seen such hopping, wobbling, chewing, pushing, pulling and throwing. The events permitted any one who had any kind of a talent whatever to put it on view before the applauding audience. Lip work, arm work, leg work, feet work, all received an equal share of attention.

The first event was a throwing contest for girls. The boys were astonished at the speed and accuracy of the throws and the baseball training of the participants was much in evidence. Every contestant scored at least one bull's-eye. Lulu Raiford '21, mound artist for the Crimson base ball team, came first with a score of 65, while Nell Carroll, '22, star twirler of the Greys, was second with 55.

In the human wheel barrow race which followed there were a good many breakdowns due to tire and engine trouble, while some of the difficulties could be plainly traced to the inexperience of the chauffeurs. Non-skid noses will be used next year. In this event, Raiford, '21, and B. L. White, '21, won by a nose while Macon, '19, and J. White, '19, came in second.

In the three-legged race the value of cooperation was demonstrated. It may be true that "united we stand" but the proverb doesn't apply to running for "united" a good many fell. The three-legged race for girls was won by Harmon, '22, and E. Raiford, '22, with D. McBane, '20, and V. McBane, '20, second. In a three-legged race for boys G. McBane, '22, and Hodgkin, '22, came first, and H. Raiford, '21, and B. L. White, '21, second.

If the girls showed ability at the masculine sport of foot racing the boys showed equal skill in the feminine art of threading a needle. The girl held the needle while the boys put the thread through or at least attempted to do so. Here the Seniors proved to have the steadiest hands. K. Smith, '19, and J. White, '19, coming in first, while D. White, '20, and D. McBane, '20, held second place.

In the girls' nail driving contest the feminine ability at knocking was amply demonstrated. Esther White '22, succeeded in sinking her three nails into the board first. Ruth Coltrane, '19, a former champion in this event, would probably have won had not she mistaken her thumb nail for the other nail. As it was she came in a close second.

DR. FEW DELIVERS INSPIRING ADDRESS

President of Trinity Creates in Students a Desire to Sacrifice.

Dr. W. P. Few, president of Trinity College, spoke at Guilford on Thursday evening, November 14, in the interest of the United War Work campaign now being waged.

Dr. Few said that there are many important considerations in connection with the gifts we are going to make. These funds are to be used to keep up the morale of the army and to make soldiers by first making men. It is the morality back of force that makes force victorious. The United States went into the war in defense of those things that make life worth while. It will be necessary to keep a million or two of men in France for some time yet and the work henceforth will be more trying on their morality and more than ever are they going to need the help that we can give.

The amount of reconstruction needed is beyond our comprehension and no one can face the question of reconstruction in any spirit other than one of aggressive co-operation. Soldiers have had no such care in other wars as in this. The ministry of helpfulness has been carried on right behind the front lines. This has been of the utmost importance both in the interest of war and in the interest of morality. We should consider the opportunity to contribute an opportunity to express our gratitude to all the forces that have brought the war to an end. Contributions should be made as a sort of Thanksgiving offering. We here have done little and have made very few sacrifices. Now is our chance to deny ourselves some genuine and legitimate pleasure. The heroic self-sacrifice and self immolation of the youth of America deserve our gratitude and thanksgiving. They have given their lives for causes which they justly counted more precious than their lives. They have died that we might live. Belgium's was the first of the great sacrifices that saved humanity. This kind of sacrifice as well as that of our youth should make every one not steeped in selfishness eager to show his grat-

FOOTBALL SEASON CLOSSES.

As the new outbreak of influenza and the re-establishment of the quarantine has made it highly improbable that any more football games can be played, Captain Stafford has discontinued practice and is collecting all suits and paraphernalia. Manager Taylor has canceled the Thanksgiving game with Virginia Christian College. It is a great disappointment to the men that the epidemic has so seriously interfered with the schedule but the practice this fall will be of much use next season. Basket ball practice has begun in earnest and prospects for a good team are excellent.

PHILOMATHEANS ENTERTAIN THE CLAYS

"The Southland" Presented in Unique and Artistic Manner.

Last Friday night, Nov. 15, recorded a most memorable occasion for the Henry Clay Literary Society. They had the delightful pleasure of being the guests of their sister Philomatheans.

At 7:30 o'clock the Clays were escorted into the auditorium of Memorial Hall, which was beautifully decorated with luxuriant cedars, where they were most royally entertained by a unique yet exquisite program of "The Southland" and assuredly, the heart of every Clay was transported into a realm of fantasy and joy. It was a program rendered by the talented Philomatheans whose untiring perseverance makes everything they undertake, a success. It was full of mirth, joy, loyalty, patriotism and love and every Clay wishes to express his grateful appreciation for such splendid entertainment. The program was as follows:

1. The Old South.
 2. An Evening on the Old Plantation.
- Scene 1.—Neighborhood gossip.
Scene 2.—Mammy's Chil'ens.
Song—Sweet Miss Mary—Neidlinger.
Scene 3.—Memories.
Song—Mammy's Song—Ware.
Scene 4.—By the moonlight.

Every number was so thoroughly appreciated that it would be hard to decide which was the best. Every Clay was the proud possessor of a beautiful little program representing a log cabin, on the inside of which was written the program and menu and on the back was written the possessor's name and also the name of some popular old Southern home as "Grey Place," "Collingswood," "Redwood," "Drelincourt," etc. Each name represented a family to which each Clay belonged. After the program was rendered each group assembled and journeyed to the parlors at Founders, which were beautifully decorated in purple and white and with ferns. There they entered into hearty merry making. The following menu afforded much curiosity and questioning:

Ole Plantation Favorite
Aunt Chloe's Delight
Log Cabin Dainties
Missus Relish
Rastus Reliable
Pickaninny Joy

On receiving the dainties, curiosity fled and contentment and appreciation reigned for "Ole Plantation Favorite" was transformed into chicken salad, "Aunt Chloe's Delight" into hot rolls, "Log Cabin Dainties" into delicious sandwiches, "Missus Relish" into stuffed olives, "Rastus Reliable" into coffee, and "Pickaninny Joy" into mints.

Of all happy times this reception was the happiest. When at 11 o'clock the guests departed, every Clay knew that his love for the Philomatheans had increased a hundred fold.

GUILFORD MORE THAN DOUBLES QUOTA

United War Work Campaign Inspires Much Sacrificial Giving.

Following Dr. Few's address last Thursday night a thorough canvas of the student body and faculty was made for funds. The committee consisted of Kate Smith, Anne Shamburger, Ruth Coltrane, Georgiana Bird, Alma Chilton, Nell Carroll, Hugh Moore, Leslie Barrett, Jim Barnard, Tom Anderson, David White and Clarence Macon. Prof. Brinton acted as faculty manager. The quota assigned Guilford by the state committee was $300. After a canvas lasting only a little more than an hour the committee reported pledges amounting to $705.00. A good many $10.00 gifts were received. The contributions on the whole represented a very real sacrifice on the part of the givers. All those who have not yet paid over their gifts are urged to give the amount to Miss Gainey as soon as possible. No payments later than Dec. 10th can be received.

SCIENCE CLUB TAKES A TRIP THRU HYPER-SPACE

At the meeting of the Science Club held last Wednesday night, Prof. Brinton discussed the conception of space and the means by which other spaces than the one we know by experience can be mathematically constructed. He first showed that different interpretations of Euclid's parallel postulate led to a variety of geometries and thus introduced the notion of space as curved and not of infinite extent. By comparing a two dimensional and three dimensional geometry he was able by analogy to show what was possible in a fourth dimensional geometry. Thus any one could get out of an enclosure in two dimensions by using a third, so a three dimensional enclosure such as a closed room could be gotten "over" in the fourth dimension.

He then showed some of the scientific results secured by a four dimensional geometry in which time was the fourth dimension. This, together with the demonstrated invariant velocity of light led to a revision in our ideas regarding mass. Mass could no longer be considered a constant as it was by Newton but as dependent on relative velocity. The results deduced entirely by mathematics had been verified by experiments on the velocities of electrons in vacuum tubes.

Among the first evidences to us that the war is over, has been the appearance of several of Guilford's service men, on the campus the past week-end. Sgt. H. N. Williard from Camp Sevier; Paul V. Fitzgerald of the Naval Hospital at Norfolk, and Nigal Marlette of the Aviation corps, now in training in Michigan, have all been present. Guilford gladly welcomes these men back and hopes to have them on her campus as students at an early date.
