

ALUMNI.

Robert C. Root, '89, has been appointed Acting Professor of Economics for the ensuing year at Occidental College, Los Angeles, California, where he began work on September 30th.

The following notice appeared recently in the American Friend: "William T. Boyce, of Fullerton, California, formerly professor of History and Political Science at Whittier College, and for the past three years connected with the Fullerton Junior College, has been made Dean of the latter college." Mr. Mr. Boyce was a member of the class of '09, and Guilfordians will be glad to know of his success in his profession.

Robert C. Willis, '01, who has for a number of years been working in the Department of the Interior at Washington, D. C., died a few days ago of pneumonia following influenza.

G. Raymond Allen, '95, is living at Hashbrook Heights, New Jersey.

Maud Lassiter, '1, is principal of the graded school at High Falls, N. C.

Jesse P. Garner, '17, is second lieutenant in the 44th Artillery and is now stationed at Camp Stanley, Texas.

Sallie McGehee will teach this winter in Washington, N. C. Her work has not yet begun because of the influenza epidemic.

Dr. C. O. Meredith, '90, has recently accepted a professorship in the Department of French in Oglethorpe University, Atlanta, Ga.

We guess the quarantine has prevented the girls from getting hair-pins since "little" girls and curls have come into startling prominence here of late. It is to be hoped the quarantine is lifted soon so the pins can once more be secured!

DR. FEW DELIVERS
INSPIRING ADDRESS

itude and thankfulness in some fitting way. We as a people need to acquire more power to sacrifice for some thing outside and above ourselves. The present call is similar in some respects to that made by the Son of Man. It is a call to heal the broken-hearted, free the captive and bind up and console all that are wounded. We have achieved the results for which we entered the war. Now we have two million men exposed to risks, hazards and temptations of all kinds. Can we abandon them without doing everything possible to help?

Dr. Few said in closing: "We should gladly share in the opportunity to put ourselves into active alliance and cooperation in the greatest movement in human history. Not to share in this great movement argues inability to respond to the highest impulses of life."

In this splendid address Dr. Few maintained his reputation as a speaker of the first rank. His words made a profound impression on the student body.

FRESHMEN WIN INDOOR MEET.

The shoe race was won by Macon, '19, the invincible champion of former years. The pile of shoes in the middle of the floor could not completely hid those No. 12 ferry boats which used to slide over the hills of Climax. Barrett, '20, was a close second.

In the two lip race, D. White, '20, and V. McBane, '20, maintained their undisputed supremacy as rag chews which they won last year and succeeded in winning again this year by a big margin. B. L. White, '21, and F. Bulla, '21, took second place. The defeated contestants for some reason insisted on continuing this race even to the "bitter" end.

The potato race called for more real athletic ability than any other. Eurie Teague, '22, proved to be the fastest potato picker, while Eula Hockett, '19, was second. The Founders representatives could do little in this race as running after potatoes had no charms for them.

The sack race was closely contested. Raiford, '21, striking the tape first, with Macon, '19, a close second. The girls then claimed the privilege of a sack race probably on account of the fact that they knew better how to manage this form of apparel. In this Harmon, '22, came first and Stewart, '21, second.

In the cracker race Guilford again maintained her reputation for producing some of the ablest and most artistic eaters in existence.

Hugh White, last year's champion, again demonstrated his unparalleled ability as a masticator, his faint whistle, indicating that his mouth was cleared for action, rousing his supporters to a frenzied burst of cheering. Macon, '19, was second.

In the tug of war the Seniors defeated the Juniors, the Freshmen defeated first the Preps, then the Sophomores and finally the Seniors, thus giving 1922 the victory. The Seniors had never before been defeated in this event.

In the clothes' pin race all the contests were exceedingly close; the Seniors defeated the Juniors, the Freshmen defeated the Preps. and Sophomores and in the final round the Seniors defeated the Freshman and so won the event.

Five points were awarded for first place and 2 for second. On this basis the Seniors scored 25, the Juniors 11, the Sophomores 23 and the Freshmen 39.

Prizes were awarded all the winners and a "Handsome" cup was presented to the Freshman class in token of victory.

The following officiated: General managers, D. White and G. Bird; floor manager, Brinton; judges, Ansoncombe and Carroll; recorder, Binford.
