Before the issue of another Guilfordian, Christmas will be over and a New Year will have dawned upon us. So in this, the last edition of our college journal this year, the members of the board extend to its readers a hearty wish for a joyous Christmas and prosperous New Year, remembering "that each day, each month, each year is a new chance given you by God. A new chance, a new leaf, a new life—this is the golden, the unspeakable gift which each new day offers to you."

It seems fitting at this writing to also express our gratitude for the liberal support of our paper that we have received at the hands of the students, our subscribers in general and our advertisers. Since the beginning of the present collegiate year we have put forth an effort to make The Guilfordian first class in every respect and worthy to be classed among the papers of the leading colleges. If our efforts have been in the least successful, we attribute our success in a large measure to those who have so loyally supported our paper.

Now, since the new year is so near at hand, our thoughts and hopes are naturally turned to it. With just reasons we believe that prospects for the next term are flattering. We believe also that at no time in the history of the institution have there been better opportunities for the accomplishment of great ends than are at the present time. And as we muse over the past four months we can but think they have been months of both profit and pleasure. Those who have realized the expectations of their hopes this term should strive to surpass them next term. No one should feel that each succeeding year in college should be less laborious and freer from tasks, for as we advance step by step, our responsibility increases.

We hope to greet all the old students and many new ones at the beginning of next term. And let each one of us return to our college after the holiday festivities with renewed vigor and enthusiasm.

WEBSTERIANS DEBATE STUDENT GOVERNMENT.

The Websterian Literary Society held its regular meeting last Friday night. In the absence of President White Vice President Rudd presided. A splendid program was rendered consisting of a debate on the query, "Resolved, that the male students of Guilford College should have a system of student government." The affirmative was upheld by John Dorsett and Fred Sumners, who produced some good argument by showing how student government worked in other colleges and that it developed a spirit of self government for the individual. However, their argument was not strong enough to overthrow that produced by William Fishel and Paul Rayle, who exposed the defects of student government. They would have discipline in colleges rather than student government.

The next number was a debate between Clyde Fitch and Calvin Plonk, which proved to be very amusing.

The critic for the evening, Clefus Stanfield, gave a very instructive report, after which the society adjourned.

The society was very glad to have as a visitor Mr. F. S. Blair. He spoke of the peace contest, urging all who could, to enter.
