VOLUME VI.

GUILFORD COLLEGE, N. C., APRIL 14, 1920

NUMBER 24

FREDERICKS COMPANY MUCH ENJOYED

On the evening of April the 6th the fourth number of the Lyceum Course was given in Memorial Hall. The Fredericks Company Trio, composed of Misses Corinne Schroeder, pianiste and Grace Kohn, soprano, and Mr. Fredericks, violinist, presented the evening's entertainment. The program, which was artistically arranged, consisted almost entirely of musical numbers.

Miss Schroeder gave the first number, which consisted of two instrumental selections, "Romanza," by Sibelius and "Egyptian Dance" by Friml. Miss Schroeder was at her best in the presentation of the first selection.

The second number was two selections from Cadman, "From the Land of the Sky Blue Water," and "When the Moon Drops Low," given in costume by Miss Kohn. She possesses a soprano voice remarkable for its powerful resonance and this number was a good demonstration of this particular quality.

"Air Russe," by Wienawski, was a violin solo rendered in a skillful manner by Mr. Fredericks, accompanied by Miss Schroeder.

The fourth number followed. Miss Schroeder impersonated a bride marketing. Next, she successfully impersonated a modern woman addressing a Woman's Club. Then she gave a conversation over the telephone of a fiancée to her suitor followed by a later conversation between the same couple three years after marriage.

Mr. Fredericks rendered the fifth number which consisted of "Ava Maria," by Schubert-Wilhelmi, and "Jota Navarra," by Saracate. In the presentation of "Ava Maria," Mr. Fredericks demonstrated a complete mastery of his instrument.

In the sixth number Miss Kohn delighted the audience with the following selections: "An Open Secret," by Woodman; "La Serenata," by Tosti, and "Daddy's Sweetheart," by Lehman. The third selection was very pleasing and Miss Kohn's articulation was especially good.

Mr. Fredericks then gave "The Rosary," by Nevin-Kreister; "Annie Laurie," by Kriens and "Tango," by Rehfeld, all three of which were very much enjoyed.

The audience was again favored with Miss Schroeder's impersonation of Harry Lauder in "I Love a Lassie," and "I Love to Be a Sailor."

The last number was as follows: "Angel's Serenade," by Braga; "Swanee River—Humoresque" and "Les Pre Aux Clere," by Herod, were given by the trio.

The encores were especially good and also very carefully selected.

HAMPTON PRICE WINS WEBSTERIAN

THIRTY-FOURTH ANNUAL CONTEST WELL CONTESTED

The 34th annual oratorical contest of the Websterian Literary Society which was held in Memorial Hall Saturday night, brought forth quite an unusual variety of subjects both interesting and unusual. Some recent writer has said that the interest in oratory which once was so great throughout the South was fast dying out, but we must somewhat disagree with the writer, as far as Guilford is concerned, because of the fact that the interest in the oratorical contests at Guilford is still keen.

Saturday night's contest exhibited speeches augmentative, political, elegant and descriptive. J. Hampton Price's speech entitled "Service First," which was a portrayal of the spirit of service in America during the past few years and the present time, however, won for him the much coveted Websterian orator's medal.

A logical, clear argument against militarism in the United States entitled "The Nemesis of Docility," was delivered by Samuel P. Harris. "The Romance of Alaska," by Dabney White, painted a very pretty picture of that far northland, its roughness, its grandeur, which made men out of the scum sent to it, and its almost unlimited wealth of forest and mine.

Charles Rolinson's oration, "The New Era," was a resume of the part labor has played in bringing the United States up to its present world position. He touched briefly on the present needs of labor in the economical world.

The last oration, by John Dorsett, was somewhat anti-labor. "The One Big Union," which was its subject, meant the United States. A strong plea for Americanism to down Bolshevism was contained in this oration. Dorsett closed his speech by presenting Governor Allen, of Kansas, plan as a possible solution of the present labor situation.

While the judges were retired for the decision, J. Gurney Briggs, a former Websterian, sang "The Roses of Picardy." He was heartily applauded and encored. Miss Katharine Harmon played the accompaniment for him.

The judges for the contest were Professor J. B. Woosley, Dr. C. O. Meredith and Ira Hinshaw. Dr. Meredith delivered the medal in his own humorous style.

SENIORS VICTIMS TO APRIL FOOL

FOOL'S CAP, EASTER EGGS AND RABBITS PLAY A PROMINENT PART

Seldom has it been the lot of the class of '20 to enjoy a more surprising or pleasant April Fool than on Tuesday evening, March 30, when the Senior Table of Founders Hall, entertained their classmates. The entire class was summoned to the Student's parlor at 8 o'clock. At first it seemed as if nothing out of the ordinary were going to happen, but soon Miss Louise made her appearance and bade all follow her. A jolly band directed their steps straight toward Col. Hale; but just at the psychological moment, when every girl was sure she was going to be permitted to pay a visit to the colonel, Miss Louise suddenly turned the procession back and led them to the east parlor, where the room was beautifully decorated with candles and plants.

Each person was adorned with a fool's cap, and told to prepare for a pie-eating contest. Oh, how eagerly each one, at the given signal, entered into the contest! But hopes perhaps did not run quite so high when it was discovered that for the usual ingredients of pie, cotton had been substituted. Strange to say no one won the prize. The Seniors were next told that they were to take a make-up exam. on Logic and were given lists of syllogisms to arrange in their proper order. And such syllogisms! Some there were that even Dr. Hobbs would have been puzzled over arranging. Prof. Brinton won the prize, a dainty basket of Easter eggs, in this contest.

Delicious refreshments consisting of sandwiches and iced tea, were served, after which Prof. Brinton entertained the assemblage with accounts of some of his experiences. A very interesting feature of the evening was an account of a dream by Leslie Barrett. Leslie had dreamed of seeing all his classmates in 1950, and although some were found in rather surprising places, all seemed to be very well contented.

With a rabbit as a souvenir the guests departed at 10:30 thanking their hosts and hostesses for the happy evening.

SHORE BLANKS ELON'S BALL TEAM

GUILFORD SHUTS OUT ELON BY SCORE OF 2-0 EASTER MONDAY

In a snappy game of baseball at Conè Park Easter Monday Captain Marlette's team of Quakers shut out the Elonites by a 2-0 score. This somewhat avenged the drubbing Elon had given them Saturday before. Shore was easily the star of the game for Guilford. He having 12 strike outs, one two bagger and a run to his credit. Fogleman starred for the Elonites. Two hits out of three times up, three stolen bases and several good catches being credited to him.

Guilford's runs came in the second and third frames in the following manner: H. Shore hit a two bagger into left field, Jim Newlin followed him with a single that scored Shore. Newlin died on third.

In the third M. Shore walked, Stanfield singled, Shore scored on Marlette's timely two bagger. Then he Guilford end of the grandstand went wild.

THE EASTERN TRIP

The team had hard luck on the eastern trip. They lost four games and were rained out of the fifth. The Wake Forest game, 3-2, was the best one of the lot. Wake Forest's trio of runs came in the first frame on a series of errors. Guilford's two scores came later on in the game. One of ours was earned. Five hits are credited for that game. Shore and Stanfield, batteries.

Lost to State College 5-1. The Quakers counted three hits to State's 3. Elon and Trinity both overwhelmed the team. They piled up a high score in both contests. Both games were played on muddy fields.

WAKE FOREST TO BE HERE
THURSDAY, APRIL THE 15TH,
DAVIDSON, APRIL 20TH

The Quaker nine is scheduled for two hard contests on the home grounds now. The first this week with Wake Forest on Thursday. The second next week with Davidson on Tuesday. Both these colleges have strong teams and the nine will need every bit of support we can give them to win. Wake Forest beat us on their home grounds three to two. Lets see if ye can't help the team to double the score on them here.

At both games played at home this year the team has received very ragged support. They're going to do their best. Let us at least be there and YELL! !
