

ALUMNI NOTES

Roger C. Kiser, '09, spent the week end at the college being one of the judges in the Henry Clay Oratorical contest held in Memorial Hall, Saturday evening, March 5.

We notice from the papers that there was recently organized an amateur base ball league of Piedmont Carolina, towns, including Spencer, Elanger, Reidsville, Burlington and Thomasville. A. H. Ragan, '02 was elected president of the Thomasville group and Brown Finch '14 was elected manager.

Richard J. M. Hobbs, '09 and Miss Hobbs attended the Henry Clay Contest on Saturday evening. The former serving in the capacity of judge.

Walter S. Nicholson, '09 is now head of the department of History in the city High School at Augusta, Ga., and at the same time is pursuing private work for the M. A. degree in Emory University.

Waldo Woody '01 is now living at Guilford College in order to be with his mother whose health has not been at all good for some little while. Generations of Guilford students know and love Mary Woody and all of us wish for her a speedy recovery.

Dr. William V. Coffin of Whittier, California in a week-end visitor at the college. Though neither an Alumni nor an old student of Guilford both his father and mother taught in New Garden Boarding School before the war. Dr. Coffin tells us he was born at the site now the residence of Dr. Fox and left here when three years of age.

Charley T. Lambeth, '16 is prominently connected with one of the leading insurance firms of Greensboro. As Superintendent of the New Garden Friends Bible School he has demonstrated the fact that a man who succeeds in the insurance world can likewise succeed in other fields of endeavor. Charles is succeeding in both of these undertakings. Friends Bible School here is growing.

Paul Nunn '14 of Winston-Salem, N. C. spent Sunday with his father-in-law, H. M. Crutchfield, who lives near here.

SUNDAY SCHOOL

The Sunday School work among the young men in Cox Hall has been completely reorganized during the past few weeks. Each section of the dormitory has its class, organized with student leaders. The boys are showing more interest in Sunday School work than has been shown during the past few school terms.

HIGH POINT MINISTERS' CONFERENCE

Guilford College had several representatives at the Conference of Ministers of North Carolina, held in High Point during the past week. Dr. Binford, President of the college, Professor Anscombe, head of the history Department, Professor Dann, director of religious education, and Miss Julia White, librarian, were present.

Professor Dann addressed the conference on the subject of Religious Education.

"WOMEN'S RIGHTS"

The feminine athletes at Guilford are frequently heard expressing their disappointment or displeasure at not being able to take part in intercollegiate contests. In high school they were accustomed to meet other high schools in the basket ball court, but now they are deprived of the privilege of meeting girls from other colleges on any court unless it is the local floor.

Very few colleges have permitted the girls to take part in intercollegiate athletics, and this has kept the girls comparatively quiet on this subject. The turn of events in the past few months should be of interest to every college girl. A number of colleges are now permitting their girls' basket ball teams to arrange schedules including games away from home. Just recently the Girl's Athletic Association of Transylvania University, Kentucky, arranged a schedule of six games to be played in foreign territory. Less than two weeks ago the "co-ed" basket ball team of the University of North Carolina, made a three days trip through North Carolina, playing games on the trip.

CLARENCE PICKETT

Clarence Pickett made himself a part of the student body of Guilford. Few young men have been spoken of so favorably by a whole group of college students as he was during his week at Guilford and since he left to continue his work elsewhere.

YEARLY MEETING PROVIDES A SUSTAINING FUND

The North Carolina Yearly Meeting of Friends has, through its Forward movement program, come to the assistance of Guilford College by providing a five thousand dollar sustaining fund for this year. This is the first time in the history of the institution that the yearly meeting has taken such a step. It is another indication that the yearly meeting and the college are becoming more and more closely connected together in a cooperative spirit.

The sustaining fund is to be used for any current expenses connected with the year's work.

GENERAL DISCUSSION IN Y. W. C. A. PRAYER MEETING

The Young Women's Christian Association held its regular meeting last Thursday evening. The meeting was one of the most interesting that has been held this year. An unusual number of girls took part in the meeting.

The general discussion centered around the subject of "Following Christ on the campus." Each girl who took part gave some very helpful remarks on various phases of a girl's life on the campus.

Ophelia Paul opened the meeting with a scripture reading. Edna Bun spoke of the importance of letting religion go hand in hand with our daily life on the campus. The following subjects were discussed by a number of girls; "Following Christ in our conversation, in the class room, in the Library, in dress; in picture shows, at socials and entertainments, in athletics, in Literary Society work, in Y. W. C. A. work, and in the dormitory life.

John he gave a clear discussion of the desirability of the Christian life. "What we are today, will determine what we are tomorrow." We all like to strive but it is the duty of each to serve in the place he or she may occupy. Just because we do not hold high positions, it is not necessary for us to think that we can be of no service. The Lord found Moses a shepherd in Horeb, Elisha behind twelve yoke of oxen, Gideon threshing wheat and the twelve apostles at various kinds of work. Let every man use the talent God has given him. Suppose all of us did what we could to save men, there would not be the need of so much preaching on the part of just a few. If each of us would hold the light for some one else and use the talent we have instead of wishing for more and greater powers we would soon notice a great difference in this world.
