

ALUMNI NOTES

Eilene Lewis of the class of 1914 is now engaged in teaching Home Economics at Hardin, Montana.

Mabel Raiford, a former Guilford student, is teaching at Green Bay, Va.

James Anderson, '09, who was at the college a few weeks ago, is now Captain of a Signal Corps in the United States Army.

Ellen Raiford and Deborah Brown, both of the class of 1918, were visitors at the college this week end.

Clarence Macon, '19, was on the campus Saturday. He is teaching in Hyde County this year.

Varner Neece, '20, who has been at Bryn Mawr this session, was a visitor at the college during the past week

John White, '19, was here Saturday. He is teaching this year but the writer was unable to learn the name of the school in time for this issue.

Just eight members to date have availed themselves of the opportunity of becoming life members of the Association. They are as follows: Wm. Penn Henley, Dora Clark Bradshaw, Charles D. Benbow, Henry A. White, Henry Davis, Julia S. White, Agnes King and Brown Finch. We should like very much to see this number increased this year and suggest that when you receive your ballot you decide to add your name to the list.

The following members of the Board of Trustees are graduates of Guilford College.

Charles S. Tomlinson, Dudley D. Carroll, Henry A. White, D. Ralph Parker, Walter E. Blair and David White.

"REBECCA'S TRIUMPH" GIVEN BY Y. W. C. A.

A synopsis of the play is as follows:

Act I.—In Mrs. Delaine's kitchen. "Gyp" and Mrs. Delaine are preparing for the "cooking club" which is to meet with the school teacher Rebecca, the adopted daughter of Mrs. Delaine. (Rebecca had been found 18 years before in the arms of a dead man at the foot of the hollow tree shown in Act II.) Katie Conner, the servant of Mrs. Rokeman, the wealthy lady at the top of the hill, to whom she had not spoken for 20 years, comes to borrow a wrench. "Crazy Meg" enters and is shown to an adjoining room. Soon the girls enter and begin making a cake which they call "Rebecca's Triumph." Miss Clarissa Codman reads a love letter. During the process of cooking a runaway is seen along the road and Rebecca goes to rescue Mrs. Rokeman, and brings her into the kitchen. Meanwhile Rebecca has lost her ring, which was around her neck when she was found and which has engraved on the inside, "Rebecca." This cannot be found. Mrs. Rokeman thinks she recognizes a song by Meg, but is deceived when she sees her.

Act II. A grove. The girls have a picnic and find a note in the hollow tree which Mrs. Rokeman takes—a clue to her lost sister's husband—Clarissa Codman finds a love letter which thrills her, but when she meets Theophilus Montague, this supposed lover, whom she has never seen, is only one of the club girls.

Act III. Parlor in Mrs. Rokeman's home.

Mrs. Rokeman is entertaining the club. When the cake baked in Act I. is cut, Rebecca's ring is found, which Mrs. Rokeman recognizes. Mrs. Delaine comes there for the first time in 20 years and persuades Mrs. Rokeman to look for her sister whom she drove away from home years ago because she married a man that she herself loved. Meg enters and throwing off her disguise is revealed as Clara, the sister of Mrs. Rokeman, also she is Rebecca's mother, it being Clara's husband who was found dead with Rebecca in arms 18 years before.

The club girls agree that it is truly "Rebecca's Triumph."

Characters.

Gyp, a colored girl—Edna Raiford. Mrs. Delaine, a widow—Grace Stone.

Katie Konner an Irish girl—Hazel Richardson.

Rebecca, a foundling.—Marianna White.

Meg, a vagabond,—Dovie Hayworth

Club Girls

Dora Gaines.....Hope Motley Sadie MoorellMarion Ward Nellie DunbarMarie Tyson Edna Stephens ..Lucille Cardwell. Maria Gray..Isla Willis Thompson. Gussie Green...Hattie Poindexter Jennie Woodman.....Edna Been Alice Leeds—Emma Leigh Hoover Grace Greenwood..Evelyn Henley. Clarissa Codman, a Spinster,—Neil Carrol.

Mrs. Rokeman, a wealthy lady,—Elizabeth Yates.

All the players acquitted themselves well but special mention should be made of Neil Carroll in the role of Miss Codman. She entered thoroughly into the spirit of her part and took her audience by storm. Marianna White in the title role would certainly have inspired the small boy to say "Gee, if that's the teacher I'm going back to school." The most difficult part, that of Meg the disguised sister of Mrs. Rokeman, was ably presented by Dovie Hayworth who surprised even her most ardent admirers by the skill and understanding with she interpreted her part. Elizabeth Yates as Mrs. Rokeman and Grace Stone as Mrs. Delaine played their parts well. Hazel Richardson, as Mrs. Rokeman's maid, did not provoke many laughs but she proved an excellent foil for Edna Raiford as the jovial Gyp. The latter was irresistible in makeup and action. Hope Motley should be mentioned for her part in livening up the group scenes. She could always be counted on to keep things from dragging.

The new scenery, built and painted for this play, will be a valuable addition to the Guilford stage properties. The lumber was donated by an interested friend and the work done by relays of students under the direction of Professor Balderston.

To Miss Roberts, Coach and Stage Director, most of the credit for the unusual success of the entertainment is due. With tireless energy, infinite tact, patience and cheerfulness she not only coached the players but attended to the multitudinous details of stage setting. In acknowledgement of their appreciation the cast, at the conclusion of the play, presented her with a beautiful bunch of roses.
