Y. W. BEGIN SERIES OF MEETINGS

At the Thursday evening Y. W. C. A., a new series of meetings was begun, namely, "The Road Series." Frances Garner as leader, read some appropriate verse from the book of Psalms after which the speaker, Isabel Pancoast gave a talk on the first topic of the series, "The Road to Day-after-Tomorrow." The speaker began by telling the association of a land that is not yet made—a land that we, as citizens of tomorrow will have to make. As students we take it for granted the "day-after-tomorrow" will take care of itself. We only wish for the world-as-we-want-it instead of making plans to see that in so far as we are responsible it shall be the Kingdom-of-things-as-they-should-be. If the land of day-after-tomorrow has to be built by hand, what is the first thing to do? It is probably to investigate and find out what is wrong with the Kingdom-of-things-as-they-are. If we only take time to look around us, we find that there are many existing conditions of which we were not aware. Factory girls in our city live in the worst conditions, girls who wait on us in restaurants do not get a living wage, health laws are not enforced in our town, the public schools are not efficient, and there are jealousies between churches in our town.

In spite of these existing facts, we as mere individuals can help in improving these conditions. We go back to our home communities with a broader view of life and with the spirit of co-operation make the different factions pull together. We can take the younger generation off the street and out of the picture show and become leader of a Girls' Scout or Camp Fire movement. Working through our home church and Sunday school we can show to the people of our community that our aim in coming to college was not to "live on Easy Street" but to be of service and to help mold this new land into a Kingdom-of-things-as-they-should-be.

Y. M. C. A.

At Y. M. C. A. Thursday evening Prof. Balderston, the leader, read a poem by Francis Thompson. He used this as a starting point for discussing the way of salvation.

Men have always been trying to stake out the road to heaven. The adherents of most creeds believe that theirs is the one and only right road to follow. The leader's opinion was that there is "no expeditious road to pack and label men for God and save them by the barrel-load." There is a thoughtless tendency among men to insist, when they have found the way that saves them, that all others follow in this way. There is too much criticism of the way different people attempt to serve and follow God.

"What does each man here think is the essential thing to being a Christian?" was asked by the leader, and a general discussion followed, in which many essentials to leading this life were brought out by different members. Some of the suggestions were reading and studying the Scriptures, following the lead of one's conscience, believing in Christ, a new spiritual birth, expressing our beliefs by works,

NOTICE TO PROSPECTIVE STUDENTS

A few weeks ago the Guilfordian gave out a notice concerning entrance examinations for high schools which are not on the accredited list. The statement was to the effect that such students as should desire to enter college from these non-accredited schools might enter the freshmen class provided they could pass a satisfactory examination at the beginning of the school year.

Recently, however, a number of Colleges have gotten together and colleges of the Southern Association have made it possible for quite a number of schools to be added to the accredited list. According to this new list, many more students may enter college without an examination.

Those who read the article previously published may find that their school is on the new list. Anyone desiring further information concerning entrance requirement may write to President Binford.

DEPARTMENT NOTES

The Sophomore cooking class served a breakfast on Friday morning, April 7. This was a practice meal and only students were guests. The menu consisted of three courses. Kathleen Riley acted as host and Bessie Phipps as hostess. The class is now working on luncheon menu and will serve a luncheon immediately after Easter with the faculty as guests.

Another of a series of piano recitals by the pupils of Missess Byrd and Dann will be given on Wednesday, April 26 at eight o'clock.

Take our Campus to those who may not have opportunity to come to it! Guilfordians may easily do this now by our new postal cards which contain views of Memorial Hall, Archdale, Founders, Library, Y. M. C. A., Cox and the Tennis Courts. A number of cards of New Garden Hall will also be available soon.

One of the most enjoyable chapel services of the year was that conducted last Wednesday morning by Miss Beatrice Lynn Byrd and Mrs. Robert H. Dann, of the music department, when they played a number of selections from Greig's Peter Gyant suite. Mrs. Dann preceded the music with a brief account of the story of Peer Gynt, explaining the episodes about which the music centered.

The increase in attendance at Sunday School is a source of pleasure to all those interested in the work of the Y. M. C. A. and Y. W. C. A. Until the last Sunday in March the average attendance was 75. The next Sunday, the goal was set for 110, as there were 103 present, including 7 visitors. Last Sunday, April 9th, there were 115 at Sunday School, an increase of 19 students. This is a fine record, but the Sunday School does not yet reach all college students as it is intended. All members are urged to bring at least one new student next Sunday.

Classes No. 3 and 4, Freshmen and preparatory girls, are organized into two bands, each, headed by a captain. A certain number of credits are given to each girl who studies the lesson, brings collection and reads the daily Bible readings. These credits count for the band to which the girl belongs. The object of each band is to get more points than the other band in the same class. The loser entertains the winner, in this case. The competition has not yet come to an end and it is proving quite a factor in increasing the attendance of the classes.

ALUMNI NEWS

Mr. T. Gilbert Pearson, '97, president of the Associated Audubon Societies, returned last week from South Carolina where he has organized a school campaign to arouse sentiment against killing birds. Mr. Pearson plans to have lectures on the usefulness of song-birds to the farmer, held in all the schools of North Carolina. Under his direction organizations have been formed in several cities to promote bird clubs, especially among children.

Mr. Pearson will go to Georgia and Florida next week to start similar campaigns there. A general crusade for the protection of song birds will later be organized throughout the South.

As a result of a suggestion of Mr. Pearson admirers of Colonel Roosevelt have already subscribed more than $14,000 for the erection of a bird fountain in the public park adjoining Young's Cemetery at Oyster Bay, which is to be maintained in memory of Roosevelt.

Eugene Coltrane, '07, has recently been appointed permanent secretary of the State Teachers' Association of North Carolina. This comes as recognition of the state prominence which Mr. Coltrane has won in educational circles, through the progressive work he has done, first in the Jamestown high school, and more recently in the high school at Roanoke Rapids where he has been superintendent for the past year.
