ALL GAMES ON EASTERN TRIP LOST. ELON DEFEATED IN EASTER MONDY GAME

Team Unable to Hit Trinity, State and Wake Forest Pitchers—Capt. Shore Beats Elon.

With their defense shattered and their moundsmen unable to stem the fusillade of hits which sent runner after runner across the rubber, the Quakers suffered a 16 to 0 defeat from Trinity on the Methodist's home ground, April 13.

The slug fest started in the first inning and kept up with unabated fury throughout the remaining eight frames. Although Guilford sent three twirlers to the box in an effort to stem the tide, the Trinity sluggers ran wild, batting the ball to all parts of the field, securing sixteen hits and as many runs, three of which were circuit smashes.

Ferrell who began the game for the Quakers was removed in the fourth and Shore substituted but the big right hander was not equal to the job and Cummings was shifted from first base to the mound, pitching the remainder of the game.

Deal, pitching for Trinity, held the Guilford lads to two hits and showed good control throughout the game. He was given striking support, and Guilford never threatened. The Quakers swatted the ball terrifically several times during the game but perfect catches by the outfielders killed their hopes.

Guilford lost to State College on the latter's home ground, April 14 when the Quakers' defense crumbled behind big Shore about midway of the game allowing the State men to pile up an 8 to 3 score.

Each team scored the same number of earned runs but the Tech's gave their moundsmen, "Spes", Cline, the best of support; while Shore was given ragged support by his team and in a large measure had to work out his own game.

The catching and hitting of Hayworth who smashed out a double and triple, and the consistent work of Winn, featured the game for Guilford. The Quakers hit the agate hard. In addition to Hayworth's heavy clouts, Cummings slapped out a two sack bingle, J. W. Frazier picked out a couple of good singles and the two Shores swatted one each.

The eight hits were not sufficiently bunched to be effective in earning runs and this, together with the loose brand of fielding displayed, proved the undoing of the Quakers.

The Techs, on the other hand, played in great style. Their hitting was timely and they made full use of every bobble made by the opposition. Every one of the Techs players poled out a hit while Cline and Holland bagged a couple each. Floyd, State's right fielder, hit the apple for a circuit drive.

Hayworth's triple and Cummings' double gave Guilford an earned run in the second inning and two more of the same variety were pushed over in the fifth on singles by M. Shore and J. W. Frazier, a couple of stolen bases and a double by Winn.

Redfearn's two base hit, J. G. Frazier's error and Holland's single accounted for the first run for the Tech's, while hits by Blue, Holland and Lassiter added two more markers in the fourth. Five more runs were picked by State in the remaining innings by timely hitting after the Quaker defense had crushed.

Guilford took the annual Easter Monday game from Elon by a score of 3 to 2, making the Quakers' third consecutive victory in the holiday contest.

Backed by his team mates playing errorless ball, "Babe" Shore on the mound for Guilford pitched in great style, holding his opponents scoreless until the ninth frame when Elon sent two runs across the rubber and tied the score. With two laid on the shelf and on her last chance at the plate, Elon started a rally which progressed from a forlorn hope to within an ace of victory. Johnson started the trouble when he hit one square on the nose for a triple. Clark was given a free pass by Shore and the clean up swatter, Marlette, who had been unable to touch Shore's twisters up to this point in the game, smashed out a double sending home two of his mates and evening up with the two runs which the Quakers had sent over in the fourth and sixth innings.

The Quaker lads were not willing to see the game, which they had apparently sewed up in the early frames, snatched from them, however, by a ninth inning rush. Com-

DUNBAR BELL RINGERS DELIGHT LARGE AUDIENCE

Bell Ringing Feature of Varied Program.

The Dunbar Male Quartet and Bell Ringers, of the Redpath Chautauqua, delighted a large audience with a widely varied program of song, reading and instrumental music, on Wednesday evening, April 18,

The feature of the evening's entertainment was the bell ringing. The peal of bells, sixty-five in number and ranging in sizes up to 25 pounds, gave forth really delightful musical effects under the skillful manipulations of the bell ringers. MacDowell's "To a Wild Rose" was played with exquisite effect, but even more impressive was the rendition of "A Sunday Morning in London" representing the various chimes to be heard in London on such an occasion.

The players, four in number, were an unusually talented group, each man having one or more specialties in addition to his skill with the bells. Mural Poor, reader, divided honors with Maurice Yetes, the French pianist, for first place in popularity with the audience. Mr. Poor has a real gift for impersonation which makes him a successful comic reader, while his sympathetic interpretation of such a poem as Guest's "It takes a heap o' liven' in a house to make it home" proved his ability to handle a more serious type of reading.

Mr. Yete's enthusiastic reception was due to the splendid technique and artistic feeling displayed in his piano numbers. His rendition of Rachmaninoff's "Prelude in G Sharp Minor" was appreciatively received and heartily encored. His encores included numbers from Liszt, Schubert and Paderewski.

The other two members of the quartet, Jack Wood, cellist, and Frank Goodwin, baritone soloist, were also warmly received, although their special numbers fell somewhat short of the excellence attained by their two colleagues. The entire program however, judging from the spirited applause, was probably the most thoroughly enjoyed, if not the most artistic one presented by the program course this year.

DR. PERISHO DELIVERS SERIES OF ADDRESSES.

Dr. Perisho spent the first of last week, April 17, 18 and 19, in Madison as guest of John O'Neil Ragsdale. From there Dr. Perisho went to Wenworth where he gave the commencement address at the high school. During the last of the week he visited the high schools of Leaksville, Spray and Draper, speaking at each of these schools.

This week Dr. Perisho begins his work among the high schools at Urika, where he is to speak at a group center commencement. April 25, Dr. Perisho speaks at Woodland where a meeting of former Guilfordians which now compose the Guilford Club, are to meet with him. At noon on Wednesday he speaks at Salstown, from which he goes to Graham where he spends Thursday, Friday and Saturday visiting the schools in that vicinity.

On Saturday, April 23, Dr. Perisho attended the quarterly meeting at Contentnea. On next Sunday, April 30, he will speak at the South Fork Meeting. Monday, May 1, he will deliver the commencement address at Sylvan Academy, Snow Camp, and on the following day he will give a similar address at Trinity high school in Randolph county.

Miss Lucile Brown, of Burlington, N. C., was the guest of Miss Carrie Edmund during the past week.

BRANSON WINS CLAY ORATOR'S MEDAL

Six Men Compete In Annual Society Contest

The thirty-sixth Annual Oratorical Contest of the Henry Clay Literary Society was held in Memorial Hall last Saturday evening at 8 o'clock with Everette L. Hollady presiding. This contest was one of the best that the Society has staged. The six men who participated in the contest showed wisdom in the selection of their subjects, and delivered their orations in a manner that is an honor to them and a credit to their society.

The first oration of the evening, "The Factors of America's Greatness," was delivered by C. Benbow Merrimon. The speaker said that the present greatness of the American Nation is due to the foresight of our business-men, the character of our labor, and to our matchless womanhood. And that these three factors may do much toward bringing about international peace, by asserting their opposition to war.

"Our Great Commonwealth," a noble tribute to The Old North State, was delivered by C. A. Denney Clems. Mr. Clems showed how North Carolina has been, and still is, one of the foremost states of the Union. Some of the purest Anglo-Saxon blood in America is to be found within her borders, and she has always been one of the first to rush to the call of her country. But not from a standpoint of war alone is N. C. great. For she ranks fourth from the top in the production of agricultural products, and she has always entered with a hearty spirit into the struggle for the promotion of beneficial State and national policies.

The winning oration, entitled "Internationalism" was given by B. Russell Branson of the class of '25. Mr. Branson's oration showed how the spirit of America and the broad principles upon which our nation is founded are favorable to the establishing of an International spirit among nations. "Internationalism is inevitable," the speaker said. "Influences are at work which will hasten its arrival, and the responsibility lies with the American people to direct these influences into the proper channels."

The fourth oration of the evening, "Ministers of Mercy" was delivered by William A. Wolff. He gave a brief history of the Red Cross work of America, including the necessity for such an organization, the many difficulties encountered, and the wonderful accomplishments that the Red Cross has made.

Edward M. Hatcher gave the fifth oration entitled, "Co-operative Marketing of Farm Products." Mr. Hatcher emphasized the necessity for co-operation among farmers in the buying and selling of farm products, if they are to hold their own in the business world. Farming has ceased to be a one-man profession. If farmers get the desired compensation for their labor in the future they must organize to assert their demands, and must take advantage of the opportunities offered them by existing organizations.

The final oration "The Economics of War," was delivered by John O. Reynolds. Mr. Reynolds showed the enormous amount of money, property and life that is destroyed by war, and the great good that could be accomplished if these factors were used in promoting education and general good-will between the nations. And finally that another great war would mean the ruin of the world economically, and the probable destruction of entire races of men.

PROCEEDS OF BOX SOCIAL TO REDECORATE PARLOR

Student Gathering Place to Be Redecorated.

A box social, at which $73.00 was raised for the renovation of the students' parlor at Founders, was held on the campus last Friday afternoon from 4:00 to 7:00.

Some unappreciative person criticised the art-gallery, the walls, floor and furniture in the parlor and the sentiment spread. With Mrs. Perisho as the power behind the committees, plans were made for raising money, among others, the social.

Thursday the entire student body of girls raided the college stores for boxes suitable for the purpose. Miles of crepe paper of myriad tints were brought from town, and at the expense of lessons in many cases, articles of wondrous shape and hues were brought forth under the name of boxes.

Friday morning and early afternoon were occupied with frenzied scurrying and searching for the wherewithal to fill the boxes. A few supplies were furnished in the kitchen, and these formed the basis and most substantial part of most of them.

Promptly at 4:30—the schedule said 4:00—the students assembled on the campus for suitcase races. In the first of these, Shelly Clodfelter was winner, in the second, Vivian White.

The bidding began at 5:00, with Hugh White for auctioneer. Box after box was taken from the table near-by and sold to the highest bidder. Bidding was highest when it was suspected that certain people were determined to get certain other people's boxes. When the last box was sold, and the auctioneer had practically lost the use of his voice, couples scattered on the campus to eat the contents of their purchase. They were soon driven in by a rain and cluttered up the porch and the student's parlor until 7:00.

Less fortunate ones, those without someone to buy a box and unable to buy one for themselves, crowded into the dining room and kitchen and devoured all eatables which were in sight.

Ice cream was for sale at the corner of the porch, but almost everyone had either spent all he had or had eaten too much to buy any, so there were few sales.

At 7:00 the bell rang, and Miss Roberts in the role of Miss Louise dispersed the couples to their respective society halls.

Beside the $73 gained by the social, which was very successful, $23 have come from alumni and friends interested in Guilford. With this beginning, it is expected to begin work on the parlor very soon.

GUILFORD LOSES TO OAK RIDGE IN TENNIS

On Saturday, April 22, the Guilford tennis team engaged in a game with Oak Ridge on the home courts. Merrimon, Tatum and Brown represented Guilford in a game of singles with Whitaker, Fountain and Norton of Oak Ridge. As this was our first meet of the season the men failed to return the ball in an effective way which experience alone can only improve, resulting in the loss of all three of the matches. The final score is as follows.

Whitaker vs Merrimon . . . 3:6; 6:3; 8:6
 Fountain vs Tatum 6:6; 6:0
 Norton vs Brown 6:2; 6:3

The Guilford Tennis team will engage in a tennis meet with Trinity at Durham, April the 28th and on the 4th and 6th of May will participate in the N. C. Intercollegiate tournament also to be held at Durham. With a week of vigorous practice Guilford should show up well
