EDITORIAL COMMENT

WHERE HONOR IS DUE

In the course of events, things and conditions are continually changing. With a mere glance into the chemical world we find complex compounds gradually breaking down into simpler compounds and even into their elements.

With a study of the business and social worlds we find the crest of emphasis gradually moving from one condition to another.

In the realm of politics we see the old issues through passing to the background and the issues of rising importance superseding them.

A review of college life also reveals many changes in affairs which should be of more or less interest to each person within college walls.

With the graduating of the class of '22 Guilford's student body loses several of its leaders. But before this class can make its departure the load of college activities which it has been carrying must be shifted to other shoulders.

One of the most complete shifts that have been made is the change in the change of the personnel of the Guilfordian Board.

The excellent work which the retiring board has done has not only been realized by the student body but by the alumni as well. Under the leadership of our retiring Editor-in-chief the Guilfordian has made advanced along several lines. The news space has been increased fifty per cent, the articles published have been written in better newspaper style and finally the organization of a more efficient working board has been effected.

The editorial work has been divided, a managing editor being added to the staff. Due to the fact that the editorial and business staffs are elected from society membership at large we have three additional reporters.

The business manager has an assistant and also a circulation manager has been added. With the addition of the circulation manager we feel that a much wider distribution of the paper will be brought about. The credit for bringing about this desirable reorganization belongs largely to the out-going editor-in-chief who urged the necessity of the change until it was finally effected.

There is yet much to be done and the new board takes office well aware of the responsibility which rests upon it and with a purpose to continue the work which has been thus far so nobly advanced.

Cooperation

We often hear of the growing tendency towards the centralization of power in order to acquire efficiency. This, of course, depends on the way we define efficiency. But if we consider efficiency as the ability to get things accomplished, a careful study of the facts will emphasize the above statement.

Assuming that this definition is correct, we too often find people who apply principle to work involved in organizations or committees of which they are members.

In applying this principle to our bodies we find that we have the greatest efficiency in the use of our centralized directory, the brain, but we also find our accomplishments brought about by the several members of our bodies working in perfect coordination.

This condition applies equally to all administrative bodies, whether they be cabinet members of highest rank or committee members of the lowest order.

Usually in the student organizations of Guilford and even to the committees we find one or two persons doing the work. Such a condition makes the work harder for the few and in most cases detracts from its efficiency.

Realizing the task that is before the new Guilfordian Board we make an earnest plea for the hearty support of all its members that the college paper can be made it's best.

—The Lord's Day alliance is to renew its campaign against all Sunday sports and amusements carried on for money-making purposes. The organization is planning a blue Sunday for the entire United States. The Alliance is extending its activities to all parts of the country and will endeavor to secure action by the legislature of every state in the Union for stricter Sunday laws.

—David Cooper, a pickpocket known in two hemispheres, was sent to Sing Sing prison for five years by Judge Briggs recently. Cooper had many times been convicted by the crimes in this country, Canada and England.

—Teachers who wear bobbed hair have been ruled out of the public schools of Poughkeepsie, Kingston, Newburgh, Beacon, Mechanicville, Middletown, Ossining, Goshen and Peekskill, N. Y., by the school superintendents of those cities.

—It has just been announced officially that the American Woolen Company, which is called the trust, increased its profits from $4,626,855 in 1920 to $9,192,621 in 1921. This is an increase of 99 per cent over the big profits of the previous bloom year. And it explains in a measure why the price of clothing did not come down with the price of wool after the close of the World War.

Future students notice: Since we have taken a history course under Mr. Anscombe, the whole field of human knowledge has been laid bare to us.

English is a comprehensive course. It always includes peas for Sunday dinner, probably to enable students to distinguish the meal from week-day dinners.
