GUILFORD'S SECOND TEAM DEFEATED BY HIGH POINT

Outweighed man for man, but fighting gamely to the last whistle the scrubs lost to High Point by the narrow margin of 6 of 0 last Saturday afternoon.

Another strong argument in favor of the opposing team was the long football experience of many of their players. Chief among these was Groome, the all star end for N. C. State during the past three years.

During the first two quarters the ball see-sawed up and down the field with honors even. However, in the first few minutes of the third quarter, High Point took advantage of a poor kick off, made by Guilford, and scored their only marker. This touchdown was the result of several end runs, a couple of off-tackle plays, and three line bucks. After the ball crossed the goal line, High Point chose to carry the ball over but failed.

The remainder of the game was an even battle, during which neither team's goal line was threatened.

The individual honors of the game go to Groome of High Point and Pringle of Guilford. Groome was a death dealer to all end runs that came his way. Pringle managed to get into almost every play and nipped many well planned plays in the bud.

Journalism Class Visits Greensboro Newspaper

The Greensboro Daily News recently acted as host to present and former members of the class of journalism, throwing wide its plant from editorial room to mailing department, as an object lesson in running a city daily newspaper.

Amid the racket of the dozen or so linotypes, the managing editor, A. L. Stockton, took the Guilford delegation in hand, and guided it through the maze of hurrying men, noisy machines and molten metal pots in the composing room, carefully explaining the function of each.

The news room was visited, where reporters were turning raw news into finished copy, the telegraph room, the copy desk, the stereotyping room and finally the press room, where a huge machine with uncanny ability was eating rolls of paper and turning out printed, counted, folded copies of the Daily News at the rate of 3200 an hour.

Those enjoying the hospitality of the News were: Miss M. Aline Polk; Miss Mary Henley; Miss Elizabeth Brooks; R. K. Marshall; H. L. Macon; Dewey Crews; and J. W. Cannon. The visit is one of a series of actual contacts with the newspaper world planned for the class in journalism this year. It was made possible through the kindness of Mr. Stockton, managing editor of the News.

Olive Jinette, Vera and Wray Farrow spent Sunday in High Point.

Sallie Wilkins spent the week-end in Greensboro as the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Williams.

Miss Madge Coble, class of '21, was the week-end guest of Miss Josephine Mock.

TENNIS MEN GET DOWN TO HARD WORK

With a trip to Lenoir, a match with Oak Ridge, and a visit from the Trinity club staring them in the face, Guilford's tennis team is making every day's practice count.

During last week the old varsity men were pitted against each other in both singles and doubles. This gave the coach a chance to locate the weak points and plan remedies. Just who will represent Guilford in the scheduled games will be definitely known next week.

Starting Monday, a tournament will be run off in which the best varsity player will receive one dozen tennis balls, the best scrub player will receive one half dozen balls, and the best new man will receive one half dozen balls. The best bets at present are Merriman for first varsity, Reynolds for first place among last year's scrubs and Barbee for first place among the new men.

Historical Film Shown In College Movies

The Saturday night's program at Memorial Hall was a picture of the first English settlement in America, the colonization of Roanoke Island. The scenes were not of the romantic type—Rodolph Valentino was not in the cast—nor were there any western thrills. Still the picture had a strong appeal to the interests of at least one group of students, the class in History III, which is subject to an exam Monday morning.

The quaint dress of Sir Walter Raleigh and his company, and of the native Indians, added much to the artistic effect of the picture.

The complete history of the settlement was given, from the first exploration by Amadas and Barlowe to the final desertion of the island by John White.

The film was made at Albemarle under the direction of E. C. Crosby, of Raleigh. Local talent was used exclusively in the cast.

Places Alloted In Girls Tournament

Places in the girls' tennis tournament, which starts next week, have been drawn by lot and the schedule for the first rounds in the preliminaries are as follows:

Freshmen, G. Smithdeal, S. Pearson; A. Thompson, G. Highfill; O. Nicholson, M. W. Nicholson; E. Brookshire, G. Moore; K. Cooper, M. Mitchell; J. M. Butler, L. Moore; sophomores: S. Wilkins, D. Dobson; A. Thompson, M. Henley; E. Macon, I. White; C. Norman, S. Hodges; M. Ward, R. Hodges; R. Levering, L. Merriman; juniors: H. Richardson, G. Bundy; E. Holder, V. Osborne; seniors: L. Rabey, C. Rairford; H. Bostick, H. Lassiter, H. Motley, A. Johnson; R. Reynolds, J. Mock.

Mable McBane was the week-end guest of Lena Meacham.

Rosa Elliot spent the week-end at Pleasant Garden.

Viola Tuttle, Edith Spencer, Geneva Fryar, Golda and Lalah Farrow spent the week-end at their respective homes.

Nellie Chilton spent the week-end in Greensboro.

DRAMATIC COUNCIL TO STAGE DADDY-LONG-LEGS

FAMOUS BROADWAY SUCCESS

Daddy-Long-Legs, the Y. W. C. A. play, will be presented by the Dramatic Council November 25, with a cast headed by Hope Motley and Fred Winn. Tryouts held Thursday night proved that there is no flagging of interest in dramatics at Guilford.

For the casting committee, Thursday night proved an arduous one. The nineteen parts in Daddy-Long-Legs had at least sixty applicants, and it taxed the ability of the judges to decide which would prove the best actor for the parts.

Hope Motley succeeded in winning the part of Judy Abbott, the feminine lead while Fred Winn won the part of Jervis Pendleton, the hero.

The complete cast is as follows: Jervis Pendleton, Fred Winn; James McBride, French Smith; Cyrus Wycoff, Dewey Crews; Abner Parsons, John Reynolds; Griggs, Robert Marshall; Walter, Uereus English; Judy, Hope Motley; Miss Prichard, Ruth Reynolds; Mrs. Pendleton, Edith Macon; Julia Pendleton, Ruth Levering; Sallie McBride, Hattie Burgess; Mrs. Semple, Nell Carroll; Mrs. Lippett, Hazel Richardson; Sadie Kate, Mary Henley; Gladiola, Lalah Hassell; Loretta, Clementine Rairford; Mamie, Henrietta Lassiter; Freddie Perkins, William Blair; Carrie, Margaret Armfield.

As a great many know, "Daddy-Long-Legs" is a play taken from the book by the same name by Jean Webster, and made more famous by the screen version starring Mary Pickford. It was produced in New York City several years ago with Ruth Chatterton as "Judy." It scored a phenomenal hit on account of its brisk humor and touching story.

Y. W. Girls Picnic

Cloudy skies and threatening rain did not dampen the spirits of the Y. W. C. A. girls Saturday afternoon as they gathered in front of Founders' Hall ready for their annual picnic.

Even though the usual trip to the Battleground was put aside, and the trip was a mere hike to Mrs. White's "Thirteen Acre Piece," yet it was greatly enjoyed by all. The crowd arrived at the picnic grounds about four o'clock, and soon it had dispersed to the woods for firewood and weiner sticks. A huge fire was built and the coffee pot put on to boil. When all had seated themselves in a circle, a large variety of sandwiches and pickles were served. Soon after the hot dogs were being roasted over the coals.

When everybody had finished, Miss Louise gathered them around the camp fire for a few familiar songs, and then started them home by way of the station road. At the end of the trip the picnickers found big dishes of ice cream waiting for them at New Garden.

Ruth and Sarah Hodges spent the week-end with Mary Mitchell at her home in Reidsville.

GUILFORD REPRESENTED AT CABINET TRAINING COUNCIL AT QUEENS

The Y. W. C. A. Cabinet Training Council for a group of small colleges in North Carolina and Virginia was held at Queen's College, Charlotte, on October 8-9.

The meetings were held under the leadership of Miss Stella Scurlock, secretary for the Southern Region, and Miss Lois McDonald, secretary for the association at North Carolina College for Women.

Twenty-three delegates from the associations at Davenport, Guilford, Mitchell, Atlantic Christian College, Brevard, Carolina, and the Averitt College, Danville, Va., were present.

At the opening meeting, which was held on Saturday night, a cordial welcome to Queen's was made by Dr. Fraser, the president of the college. A hearty speech of response was made by Miss Frances Johnson of Davenport College. Miss Marguerite Wilson was appointed to act as student executive during the conference. A steering committee was appointed to plan the details of the work.

The whole devotional service of the conference centered around the thought, "Ye are the light of the world." Sunday morning at 9:00 o'clock Miss Scurlock led an informal discussion about the place of the Y. W. C. A. on the campus. It was the conclusion that the purpose is four-fold, evangelistical, social and missionary, for the development of Christian character, and the promotion of membership and service in the church.

In the afternoon Miss McDonald talked on "Religious Education." She emphasized the fact that people are now asking what there is in religion, and leaders are expecting the solution of world problems to come through Jesus Christ. Students everywhere are thinking about religion and needing religious experiences, and if the Y. W. C. A. is to meet them it must begin with the individual.

The most interesting meeting of all, which was led by Miss McDonald, was held in the college chapel at vesper hour Sunday evening. Miss McDonald was able to make her subject, "Women in Industry" very real because of her intimate knowledge of conditions. Last summer, she and eleven other college women tried an experiment in industrial life by getting jobs in factories in Atlanta, Ga. She was a cotton mill worker on a night shift from 6:00 p. m. to 6:00 a. m. The group found in a large measure the life of the woman in industry is robbed of all happiness because of long hours, low wages, bad health, and lack of social life. They concluded that there is a very little of the spirit of Jesus in our industrial system and that legislation is necessary in the southern states.

The Queen's College girls gave a very enjoyable social in the form of a "boy and girl" party in Burwell Hall on Saturday night. The visitors were entertained with a picnic breakfast on the college campus

INTERNAT'L RELATIONS CLUB REORGANIZES

The International Relations club of Guilford College met in Founders' Hall for a brief called session on October 13. The purpose of the meeting was the reorganization of the club and the establishment of a working basis for the year.

Election of officers and the appointment of committees were postponed until the first regular meeting. It was decided to present the purpose of the club to the entire student body at chapel sometime in the near future. An opportunity will then be given for all who are interested in the public discussion of great questions of current interest, to have a voice in the selection of the question to be studied by the club this year.

The League of Nations and the Washington conference were the two bases of the discussions for the last two years, during which time the meetings of the club created a wide spread interest on the campus.

Mixed Doubles Played On Boys' Courts

Saturday, Oct. 14, marked the opening of the mixed tennis season. Miss Louise opened the gate across the main driveway, and the girls, clad in sweaters, and equipped with racquets and pillows, crossed the sacred ground to the Cox tennis courts. Although the wind was cold and the sky leaden, several preferred the sideline to the court, and the pillow to the racquet.

Beamon and Joyce won from Butler and Merriman 6-4, 6-8, 6-4. Merriman and Holder won from Shields and Reynolds 1-6, 6-3, 6-4. Robinson and Robertson won from Macon and Barbee in an unrecorded score. Robinson and Robertson also won one set from Merriman and Holder with a score of 6-1, but did not finish the match.

The dinner bell called the players in before any team could win a final victory.

The Divine and Human Nature of Christ, Subject of Sermon at College

Prof. F. C. Anscombe preached at the New Garden meeting on Sunday, October 15.

He spoke at some length upon the divine and the human nature of Christ, dwelling upon the greatness of his love, his passion for righteousness, his wonderful power, his humility, and his forgiveness.

Professor Anscombe in speaking of these various characteristics said that Jesus saw all people in spite of their sinfulness. He described the gracious love of Jesus and mentioned him as the ideal gentleman.

In speaking of the power of Jesus, he said that Jesus spoke with authority, that he let nothing interfere with the presence of God in him, that he placed all reliance upon God.

In speaking of the humanity and forgiveness of Christ, he said that Jesus did not despise toil, laboring as a carpenter himself, and in humbling himself in washing his disciples feet.

Mrs. Paul W. Wager of Troy, N. Y., visited her sister, Henrietta Lassiter this week-end.
