QUAKERS DEFEATED BY STRONG ROANOKE TEAM

Local Line Unable to Hold; Shore and McBane Out; Score 68-0

The Roanoke College football eleven outplaying Guilford's grid warriors at every turn, repeatedly sweeping aside the latter's weak line and penetrating far into her secondary defense, succeeded in piling up a score of 68 to 0 against the Quakers at Salem, Va., Nov. 18.

The local team was very severely handicapped, due to the fact that her two big tacklers, Shore and Capt. McBane, were out of the game together with Purvis, the best ground gainer for the backfield.

At no time during the game did the Guilford squad threaten to score. They were not able to register a single first down, and only once did they succeed in holding their opponents for downs.

Daring attempts at passing on the part of Guilford, while under her own goal, resulted in three touchdowns for Roanoke.

The score at the end of the first quarter was 7 to 0, with Roanoke in possession of the ball on the Quakers' 5-yard line. At the end of the first half the score stood 27 to 0 for Roanoke. In the last half the Salemites added 41 points to their end of the score.

Roanoke's entire line played a great game and the visiting backs had but one or two chances to reach the line of scrimmage.

Pringle played the best game for the Quakers, at defensive end. Hurt, Potter, Yost and Woods played a stellar game for Roanoke.

TENNIS TOURNAMENT APPROACHES COMPLETION

The girls' tennis tournaments will soon be brought to a close. The juniors and seniors have already finished, while the freshmen have only the final yet to play.

In the final for the seniors, Clementine Raiford won from Nellie Allen; for the juniors, Marie Beaman won from Virginia Osborne. Katie Cooper will play Geneva Highfill in the final game for the freshmen.

The sophomore tournament is not yet completed. Mary Henley will play in the final. Much class spirit is expected to be manifested when the inter-class tournament begins.

ELABORATE SETTING AND COSTUMES WILL CHARACTERIZE PLAY

New Scenery Being Built

The scenery for the play "Daddy Long-Legs" to be presented by the Dramatic Council of Guilford College on Nov. 25 is a revelation in tone color and lavishness. Under the able supervision of Prof. J. Wilmer Pancoast, careful attention has been given to this important part of a play.

Sets have been constructed that equal those of many dramatic stock companies. Special attention has been given to the panelled walls of Act III and the tapestries of Act IV.

A noteworthy feature of this year's stage craft will be the perfecting of devices for scenery hanging that will hasten the changes and add to the effectiveness.

The costumes are also carefully worked out. The purple pan-velvet gown worn by the heroine has arrived. It is not one of Lady Duff Gordon's creations, but it only needs the label to distinguish it. Special sport clothes have also been secured for the college girls. The Princeton and Yale pennants have also arrived and Oh! Boy! Don't forget that the Guilford College Dramatic Council knows how to stage a play.

FRIENDS OF J. C. PENNY ENJOY THEATRE PARTY

In honor of her son's seventeenth birthday, Mrs. James Cicero Penny, of Greensboro, entertained a large number of friends, both of Guilford and Greensboro, with a theatre party last Tuesday night.

Following the arrival of the guests at Mrs. Penny's residence, the boys of Guilford were introduced to their co-partners in the celebration of James' auspicious birthday.

After Rodolph Valentino had entertained the guests by his interpretation of "The Young Rajah," the party returned to the Penny home where birthday festivities and enjoyment ran high.

Those attending from Guilford were: Prof. R. L. Newlin, Spot Taylor, Benbow Merriman, Ernest Maccon, John W. Frazier, Marvin Shore, Dewey Crews, James Barbee, Robert Marshall, James Joyce, Jack Ragsdale, Gray Shore, James Diffe, Ben Biela, Hal Rich, Early Sykes and Sam Harris.

Miss Lucy A. Winston of Philadelphia; Mrs. Wysong and Mrs. Causey of Greensboro, were visitors at the college Sunday.

GUILFORD LENDS STATE PART-TIME SERVICE OF EDUCATION DEPARTMENT

Professor Tells of Work Among High Schools

"I consider the most optimistic thing in the educational outlook of the counties of Yadkin, Surry, and Stokes, to be the general tendency of the people toward a desire for consolidated schools," was a statement made by L. L. White, who is assistant state inspector of the schools of these counties.

Mr. White, who is head of the education department at Guilford College, was specially requested last year along with members of the same department from other North Carolina colleges to make tours of inspection through allotted groups of high schools. Mr. White is quite an authority on secondary schools. Besides having made a special study of this phase of education, he collected quite extensive data on the high school pupil, during his ten years as head of the Winston-Salem school.

"Consolidation," Mr. White said, "is entirely practicable in these counties, due to their excellent roads. And," he further added, "it is a thing of the near future. An instance of the proximity of this type of school," he maintained, "is the rapid growth of plans which have matured since his tour last January in Yadkin county. One school there has been made a standard state school with one truck for collection of students from a distance, and plans have already been approved by the state for two more modern buildings in this county, one at Yadkinville and one at East Bend.

Asked what the function of these high school inspectors is, he replied that they were to act as a sort of antennae or intelligence department for the state high school inspector.

The state has thus far made no appropriation for this work excepting the salary for one state inspector. Who, realizing the futility of trying to look after the needs of some 500 secondary schools, made an appeal to those colleges that had a department of education to furnish him with men to look after the high schools in an assigned district. It was just a year ago that this request was made, and since then Guilford has loaned to North Carolina the part-time service of the head of this department. Mr. White suggests that probably in the next few years the state will be divided into districts, each district having a full time inspector.

DR. ELWOOD C. PERISHO RETURNS TO GUILFORD RESUMES EXTENSION WORK

Optomistic Over Future
Dr. Perisho is here! He arrived Saturday to resume his work as extension lecturer and no one knows better than he, the dimensions of his job. But he is very enthusiastic over the prospects of Guilford's future. "I am very much pleased," he said, "over getting back and having the privilege of associating with the faculty and students of the college. I am gratified to find such a lot of fine men and women here."

Dr. Perisho thinks that the future of Guilford is very bright, but believes that a sudden change cannot be brought about.

"However," he stated, "I am here to do anything I can for Guilford College, on the campus or in the state."

Since leaving Guilford last spring Dr. Perisho has been very busy. During the last two months he has delivered over one hundred lectures, both in educational institutions and on the lyceum platform.

TENNIS TEAM DEFEATED BY GREENSBORO CLUB

Guilford's tennis team was defeated Saturday, Nov. 18, by the Greensboro Country Club, on the latter's courts.

Considering the fact that Winn and English, two of the regular players, were out, the college boys played a good brand of tennis.

In the singles Merriman lost to McConloy, 6-2, 6-3; Joyce to Cobb, 6-2, 6-2; Harris to Waynick, 6-0, 6-0; Reynolds to Cone, 6-3, 6-1.

In the doubles Merriman and Joyce lost to Cobb and Waynick, 6-1, 6-8, 7-5.

Harris and Reynolds lost to Cone and McConloy, 6-1, 6-0.

PROFESSOR ENTERTAINS FACULTY BACHELORS

Professor and Mrs. F. C. Ancombe entertained the men of the faculty at a supper on Friday evening, Nov. 16. The supper which was served at the Ancombe cottage consisted of delicious fried chicken, candied sweet potatoes, pickles, apple pie, ice cream and coffee. The guests present were: Messrs. Joseph D. White, J. W. Pancoast, Rhesa L. Newlin, Herbert Baker, and Robert Dann.

GUILFORD'S SECOND TEAM DEFEATED BY OAK RIDGE

Line Plunges and Forward Passes Used to Good Advantage By Cadets

The Guilford second team met defeat at the hands of the Oak Ridge eleven on the Oak Ridge field last Wednesday. Although the game was one sided, as indicated by the score, 47-0, it was not without thrills. The struggle was fought in a drizzling rain and on a wet gridiron, which was responsible for considerable fumbling on the part of both elevens.

Soon after the initial kick-off, the Oak Ridge team registered a touchdown on a series of line plunges. This was followed by four others in the first half, the whistle sounding on a 33-0 score.

In the second half the Quakers showed more pluck and fighting spirit, allowing but one touchdown during the third quarter. In the final period by a series of line plunges, a number of forward passes and end-runs two more touchdowns were scored for Oak Ridge.

Johnson played the best football for Guilford, while Hollingsworth was the Oak Ridge star.

SENIOR CLASS HOLDS MANLESS MEETING

The woman's class of '23 was called to order on Nov. 14 by vice-president Mock. In the absence of the secretary, Helen Bostick was asked to serve. The roll was called and the minutes of the last meeting were read and adopted.

Under new business a heated discussion ensued, resulting in a motion that a strong armed committee be appointed to investigate the whereabouts of the men of the class on the evening of the fourteenth, and the nature of their conduct. The motion was unanimously carried and the committee was appointed, consisting of Nellie Allen, chairman; Vera Farlow and Nelle Carroll.

After a lengthy program consisting of a reading by Nellie Allen, vocal duet by Vera Farlow and Jo Mock, current events by Nelle Carroll and songs by the whole class, the class gathered around the open fire.

The room was artistically decorated with ferns and crepe paper lilies. The janitor frequently replenished the fire and ventilated the room. Later in the evening delicious refreshments were served by the host and hostess.

Finally, the faculty across the hall, realizing that only the significant and prominent members of the senior class were present, joined the fireside circle in order to discuss the immediate problems of the college. The '23's offered such sage opinions that realizing the business capabilities of the class, a committee was appointed by the faculty to act in conjunction with the college authorities.

The members disbanded to meet again at the chapel the following morning.
