EDITORIAL COMMENT

The Football Season

The first and last games of our recently closed football schedule were lost. In fact, five games out of the eight were lost but yet this cloud still has a silver lining.

When we stop to consider our schedule within itself, we are rather disappointed, but when we compare it with other schedules it really is not so bad after all.

In reviewing the work that we have done this year in football the outstanding figures are Coach Doak, Mr. L. L. White and Mr. Newlin of the Athletic committee.

Outside of this committee, the team has failed to receive but little support from the College faculty as well as from the student body as a whole.

At the beginning of the season, several of our letter men failed to report for practice, for various reasons. This very fact, in a large degree, hurt the morale of the team. Finally after practice was well under way two or three of these men were induced to join the squad.

Another unfortunate condition during the season was that the cheer leader was on the team and had very little time to devote to stirring up enthusiasm among the students. Consequently the support from the student body practically ceased.

This lack of support from the college as a whole, was in nowise encouraging. It is all too true that the team lost, game after game, but if a team doesn't need and get support when it is losing it does not need such support when winning due to the fact that a victory is support within itself.

The team very early in the season sustained its severest loss when captain McBane, was injured, (the mainstay in the line). He didn't get back in the line until the last game. Elton Warwick held pivotal position in a creditable manner, playing his best against Wake Forest. Pringle and "Block" Smith deserve worthy mention at the end positions. Each playing his best game, at Haverford and Lynchburg respectively.

All of our backfield were holding their first varsity position and none played outstanding ball. In the Wake Forest game the fielders put up their best fight.

"Babe" Shore, who was on the team only part of the season, played stellar ball. Jack Harrell and other new men deserve worthy mention.

Fellows, you have fought a good fight, you have kept up faith, and although your crown is not studded with encouraging scores, yet those marks of true sportsmanship are engraved thereon, without which no score is victory.

Spot Taylor is the only man on the entire squad who graduates this year. The prospects for a team next fall are fine and we are now looking forward to your playing next year.

More Pep, Boys

The basketball season will soon be here. The question of support still confronts us. There is but one answer—we are going to give it.

The cheer leader is appealing to the entire college group to give its undivided support to the pep meetings and to the cheering at games. He has planned to call some pep meetings in the near future and we hope that each person of our groups will feel it a personal privilege and duty to be present and give any aid that he can.

Try Outs

The attention of all society members is called to the section in the constitution of the Guilfordian Board concerning the selection of its reporters:

"Art VI. Sec. 3. Three student reporters shall be elected by popular vote from each society in January, to take office at the opening of the second semester. Candidates for these positions shall be nominated by committees from each society.

Eligibility shall be judged on a basis of competitive work covering at least three weeks of definite assignments made by the managing editor."

Assignments will be made for the next issue of this paper to those who wish to try out for positions as reporters. All of you who wish to try out see the managing editor at your earliest convenience.

H. Grady McBane, class of '22, spent the week end at the college.

Misses M. Aline Polk, Katherine Ricks, Kate Smith, Mary Henley and Nelle Chilton went to Winston-Salem Thursday afternoon to see Fritz Leiber in "the Merchant of Venice."

Margaret Armfield and Gertrude Bundy spent the week end at their homes at Jamestown.

Guilfordians Attend Teachers' Assembly

Among the old Guilfordians at the teachers' assembly at Raleigh were: Hobart Patterson, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Coltrane, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Hinshaw, Mr. and Mrs. Lyndon Stewart, George Bradshaw, Robert Brown, Mary and Ruth Coble, Louise Winchester, Mrs. Flora Harding Eaton, Laura Davis, George Short, Earl Pearson, Fletcher Bulla, Ernest Dixon, Alfred Zachary, Alfred Dixon, and Grant Otwell.

Miss Lasley Added to Office Force

Miss Era Lasley has been assisting in the president's office with preliminaries for the campaign to raise the endowment fund. Definite announcements concerning the campaign will probably be made in January.

Class to Visit High Point

The class in house planning have handed in plans for their individual houses, which they will now begin to furnish, theoretically. They have just finished studying period furniture, and are taking up Oriental rugs. Most of the year's work will be based on furnishing these dream houses. A trip to High Point will probably be made before Christmas to visit the furniture factories there.

Chemistry Department Receives Apparatus

The department of chemistry has just received a two hundred dollar order of new apparatus, most of which is consigned to the organic classes. A new combustion furnace, valued at seventy dollars is the largest addition to the organic chemistry equipment and will be very useful in determining the carbon and hydrogen contents of organic compounds.

Both the Physics and Chemistry departments have recently received portable storage batteries of twelve and six volt capacities. These batteries are to be used in the latter department in electro-chemical analysis.

The gas analysis apparatus has also been materially increased and work in this particular field begins in Chemistry V at the start of the spring semester.

THANKSGIVING DAY

 riedly by some while others lingered around certain very attractive rooms. But within an hour all the girls had left for their own rooms, to be hostesses to the boys who visited New Garden and Founders until 5 o'clock.

The feature of Thanksgiving evening was the two socials held, each of them quite different; one in New Garden, and the other in Founders. At New Garden a throng of students gathered at 9 o'clock for some merriment in old fashioned games. They began with "echo" and finally ended up with "fruit basket" and "going to California." It was the most enjoyable general social of the year, due to the fact that everybody participated in the games.

But at Founders' all the serious-minded couples had a tete-a-tete party, uninterrupted by all noise of games and laughter, And when Miss Louise announced 10 o'clock the day ended.
