GUILFORD NINE TAKES ONE OUT OF THREE IN PAST WEEK'S BATTLES

Falls.. Before ..Trinity ..Slugging Hands One to Lynchburg Rumps Oo Elon

One victory and two defeats is the way the Quaker baseball score card looks after last week's battles. She won from Elon 6-5 and lost to Trinity 11-1 and to Lynchburg 5-1.

Guilford's sole victory of the past week looked for the first three innings like the Christians' game. Carboy's men started the work by sending three men across the rubber in the first inning and two more in the next two. The tide of fortune shifted in the sixth, when the Doak bunch covered Barker in a shower of hits, two of them for three sacks and one for two. This sally gave the Crimson and Gray nine, four markers. In the seventh frame they tied the score and in the ninth, with some artful base stealing by Hayworth and a bunt by Winn Guilford took the second game of the year from Elon and won the series.

On Tuesday, the day before Elon's fall, the lads of Guilford fell a victim to the Trinity twirler, Sanderson, who held the Quakers to two hits. On the other hand the Methodists seemed to have no trouble in pounding the two Quaker moundmen for 11 hits, which netted them the same number of runs. Guilford's only marker came when Burge lined out a circuit drive.

The Lynchburg game in which the Guilfordians took the unity end of a 5-1 score was featured by the hitting of the Quaker boys, the pitching of Ferrell and the excellent infield work of the Virginians. In the second inning three Lynchburgers filled the bags by a series of hits and errors. Hayworth attempting trick play made a wild throw to second and the three men on bases rubbered. Guilford's score came in the ninth when Block Smith tagged on a fly.

Frances Garner, ex-'25, from N. C. C. W., spent the week end with Lucile Moore.

PROGRESS WATCHWORD OF COLLEGE PRESS MEETING

Problem of College Papers and Magazines Are Discussed

"A bigger, better, progressive collegiate press," was the theme of the sixth semi-annual convention of the North Carolina Collegiate Press association, April 19-21, at Queen's College, Charlotte.

Dan Grant, of the University of North Carolina, the originator of the association, placed its origin and purpose before the convention at its first meeting, to which the delegates were welcomed by Dr. W. H. Frazer, president of the college. Mr. Grant's idea was two-fold: to establish friendly co-operative relations between the colleges of the state, and to better the collegiate press. The college owes to North Carolina all it can do in encouraging free thinking and expression by the people, through its newspapers and magazines.

Advertising as related to the college magazine was the subject of an address by T. C. Neal, the advertising manager of the Charlotte Observer. In illustrating the tremendous power of advertising, Mr. Neal insisted that good advertising must have character. The college press is assuming proportions which make it valuable to the advertiser, both local and national, and should refuse all so-called "charity" advertisements.

"The future of the college magazine depends on its appeal to the

LEAGUE OF NATIONS IS ENDORSED BY DR. HOBBS

Dr. Hobbs, in his chapel talk of last Friday, discussed the recent visit of Lord Robert Cecil of England to the United States.

"No visitor in recent years has attracted so much attention," said Dr. Hobbs, "As Lord Robert Cecil who came to America on the invitation of the Foreign Policy association. Further, he is perhaps the best qualified man to speak about the league of Nations, since he helped frame the covenant, and has been a member of the League assembly since its beginning."

"According to this distinguished English visitor, no country will be safe should there be another war," the speaker continued, "For war destroyed all the civilizations of the past, and there can be no security or permanent peace while the nations remain armed and aggressive."

"The purpose of the League" said Dr. Hobbs, "Is to bring about this moral and material disarmament."

"According to Lord Cecil," said Dr. Hobbs in conclusion, "The central idea of the League of Nations is a system of international conferences and co-operation, not depending on coercing but without coercion, without force, without any interference with the sovereignty of full independence and freedom of action of any of its members; working not for any selfish interests, but for the establishment of better and more brotherly relations between the nations and for the establishment of peace upon the earth."

DR. ROBERT MAC GOWAN NOTED SCOTCH LECTURER ENDS LYCEUM COURSE

Religion, Mist and Porridge Supply Elements of Scotch Nature

Religion, Mist and Porridge, these are the three ingredients which make up Scotch manhood and womanhood, according to Dr. Robert MacGowan, who in speaking on "The Canny Scot—His Life and Literature, in Memorial hall, April 18, proved himself a delightful humorist and lecturer.

"The Scot's religion," he said, "is part of the Scot himself. Many people are guilty of three big mistakes. First, they mistake their bodies for their souls; second, they mistake time for eternity; third, they mistake themselves for God. "Out of these three mistakes grow wrong ideas, and some people are not agreed how all things come about. The Scotch man on the other hand does not care where man came from, nor what the process of his being may be so long as he knows God is behind it all. This constitutes his religious belief.

Concerning the second ingredient "Mist," Dr. MacGowan said, "The Scotchman is at home among his mists. He does not shut his doors and windows against it as do other people." Just as he is with temporal mists so is he toward mortal mists, spiritual and intellectual. Instead of trying to avoid them he takes them as they come, knowing they cannot be blown away.

"The Scotchman," he pointed out, "has never been a professional fighter. He has always fought with his head instead of his feet. One of our mistakes today is the failure to put our brains through the gymnastics of the college class room."

The Scotchman works with hand, feet, teeth and brains at the same time. He would rather end with a bang than start with one.

"I thank God," said Dr. Mac-

GRADUATE SCHOLARSHIPS AWARDED TO 2 SENIORS

Ruth Reynolds, Randleman, N. C., and J. Spot Taylor, of Danbury, N. C., of the class of '23, have been recommended by the authorities of Guilford college as the winners of the Bryn Mawr and Haverford college scholarship respectively.

These scholarships are awarded annually to graduates of the senior class. The winners are chosen on their merits of character, originality, student qualifications and future possibilities.

In the case of the Bryn Mawr a scholarship amounts to $400.00 while that of Haverford amounts to $300.00.

The winners of the present year bid fair to stand high in the list of those who have so ably represented Guilford in the past in these higher institutions of learning.

ORA LOWE FARLOW DIES

Ora Lowe Farlow, an old Guilfordian and sister to Ione Lowe, '25, died Friday at her home in Oak Hill, near High Point, N. C.

Charlotte, Winston, Siler City and Leaksville Carry Off Honors

Fifty-one Contestants Enter Declamation Contest; Interest High

WINSTON AND SILER CITY WINNERS

"To the victor belongs the spoils."

So it was that Miss Juanita Gragg of Siler City, winner of the girls' declamation contest on high school day, carried off five volumes of O. Henry, presented by the two women's literary societies of the college. While the Ezra Grossman of Winston-Salem high won the medal awarded by the men.

The two contests far outstripped any such events of previous years. Twenty-two girls registered for the preliminary contests and 29 boys. The winners of the morning who appeared again in the finals were: Mary Elizabeth Hunt of Pleasant Garden who recited "Ole Mistis;" Juanita Gragg, Siler City, "The Telephone Romance;" Virginia McClamroch, Greensboro, "The Perfect Tribute;" Anna Finch, Guilford College, "The Soul of the Violin;" Wayne McDaniels, Thomasville Orphanage, "Be A Man;" Allen Boren, Pomona, "Abraham Lincoln as Seen by Theodore Roosevelt;" Ezra Crossman, Winston-Salem, "President Harding's Speech at the Burial of the Unknown Soldier;" W. W. White, Chapel Hill, "An Address by Woodrow Wilson."

FOREST CONSERVATION DISCUSSED AT CHAPEL

"Annually the American Forest association sends fifteen to eighteen thousand pounds of forest seed to France and Belgium, not counting the amount which England receives," said Dr. Perisho in his chapel talk of last Monday.

"Thus we are helping to repair the devastations of war in the Argonne forest where many a brave American lies in his last resting place; thus we are attempting to close up the wounds of war, the shell torn and barbed wire disfigured ground near Verdun and Chateau Thierry," continued Dr. Perisho.

"Americans also, might learn a valuable lesson in forest conservation from France and Germany," asserted the speaker, "for in these countries no man can cut down or sell a tree without a government permit. While Americans plant one tree for every four they cut, no tree is cut in England unless another is planted in its stead."

In a graphic way Dr. Perisho then showed the economical use of forest products by the French and Germans as compared with the heedless, reckless waste of the great American asset—her forests.

"Let us continue our work of helping to repair the horrid scars of war and likewise let us preserve what is left of our magnificent patrimony of the giants of the green forest," concluded the speaker.

Charlotte Highs Win Cup In Interscholastic Track Events

McIVER OF CHAPEL HILL STARS

Charlotte high school captured the honors with a total of 31 points over Winston-Salem's and Chapel Hill's 20 points in the annual High School Day track meet held at Guilford college Saturday, April 21. Unofficially two state high school records and a tie for another marked the high spots in the results of the day. Eighteen schools registered for entries in the track and field events and a total of 232 entrants in the various events of the day.

Guilford college put across one of the most successful track meets in the state this year and the greatest in her history. Friday night, contestants began to arrive in large numbers and over 60 were signed up before the opening of registration on Saturday. Every available resource of the entertainment committee was taxed to its utmost to take care of the visiting students and coaches, who before the day was over, numbered 232 with many visitors not registered.

The athletics were unusually successful from every point. Several state high school sport records were broken. S. McIver of Chapel Hill broke the state record for discus, throwing the discus 110 feet 7 inches. He also tied with the established record for high jumping by going over the rod in a high jump at a height of 5 ft. 8 in. Thomas of Charlotte made a record of 20 ft. 5 in. in a broad jump, thus smashing the record previously established of 20 ft. 2 in.

The girls' basket ball team of Leaksville won over Pomona by a score of 30 to 4, and in turn defeated South Buffalo by a score of 22 to 6. This won for them the cup

DR. PERISHO HAS FULL SCHEDULE NEXT WEEK

Dr. Perisho spent the past week in the interest of the North Carolina association of college presidents, giving addresses to the students of Guilford county high schools. This educational work will continue during the latter part of April. On Tuesday, April 24, he gives the commencement address at Farmer high school and on Wednesday, an address to the Guilford college club of Raleigh. Thursday and Friday will find him in Wayne county, speaking in Goldsboro Thursday night, and attending the Rosewood and Oakland school commencement on Friday. He will close the week at the Contentnea quarterly meeting, at Oakland, and will speak at the Nahunta Friends church and at a meeting of the Wayne county club on Sunday.

"The work of the endowment campaign is progressing quietly but surely to the goal, set," he reports.
