GUILFORD TEAM HAS EYE ON GAME WITH CHRISTIANS GREENSBORO, NOV. TENTH

Elon Has Won Three Games By Margin of One Touchdown

A glance at Elon's football machine is enough to see that Guilford will have her hands full on November 10th. Elon has a good average team. Altho not possessing any outstanding stars, yet each man is fair, and all of them work together in an organized manner. This bunch has won three games by a one touchdown margin, and have lost two by the score of 55 to 6, and 19 to 0, respectively. And what interests a Guilfordian most is that they are casting longing glances on that game of Nov. 10.

However their glances, if they are directed towards the athletic field, will reveal to them a group of husky football men who are determined to crush Elon's chances. They are not expecting an easy job. Every man on the squad knows its up to him to put out his best, and every man is doing his utmost to be in condition to meet that demand. If grinding drills, miles of running, tackling, scrimaging, and tireless coaching count for anything, Guilford's team should be in shape to put up a battle royal when she meets Elon on Nov. 10th.

Student Body Eats In Woods While C. E.'s Banquet

The student body was sent to the back yard for supper while the company was entertained in the dining room. Or more literally speaking, the regular boarders at Founders and New Garden compromised on a position half way between Professor Anscombe's house and Mr. Pancoast's chicken yard for a wienie roast while the State Christian Endeavor banquet was being held.

The hot dog devourers left the central part of the campus at about five o'clock and returned in time for the movie which was staged in Memorial hall starting at about eight o'clock.

Miss Nellie Morris spent Sunday at her home in Kernersville.

Miss Neelo Steed spent the week-end at her home in High Point.

ANNUAL CONTRACT HAS BEEN SIGNED; CALLS FOR $1800

Camera Man Will Probably Appear on Campus This Week

William Blair, business manager of the Quaker, the college annual which is to be published this year, announces that the contract has been signed with Hammersmith and company of Milwaukee. Mr. Blair says that the contract provides for the best annual in point of quality that the company puts out. And confidently added that there were certainly some beautiful annuals in the agent's repertoire.

The cost outside of having the pictures made will be something in the neighborhood of $1800 according to the manager. Marvin Shore is in charge of the committee which will sign up with a photographer. This committee also is to make arrangements with all organizations and classes on the hill and get them in a harmonious mood in regard to submitting their faces to the camera man.

Mr. Shore hints that this week will witness the advent of the kodak artist. Of course, this announcement of a wholesale record in the way of pictures is causing some looks of anticipation on the faces scattered over Guilford's campus.

It also leaked out of senior class meeting that Virginia Osborne becomes art editor of the Quaker, while Hazel Richardson, Elizabeth Brooks, and Marie Beaman take the part as associate editors. To assist business manager William Blair the class elected Earl Cummings, J. G. Frazier and Addison Smith.

Miss Ethel Chadwick spent Sunday at her home in Jamestown.

Miss Edith Swing spent the week-end in High Point.

ANNUAL HALLOWEEN SOCIAL IS STAGED IN GYNASIUM; MANY AND VARIED KINDS COSTUMES

The annual Halloween festival of Guilford's student body took place in the gymnasium last Wednesday night under the colored lighting effects so well carried out by the social committee.

The majority of the Guilfordians were masked and costumed. From the galleries above, the scene below was one large stage with color effects as the one purpose.

The senior class was present in a financial way at this fete. They thought it a good opportunity to help out the annual fund. Booths were arranged in one end of the gymnasium where several commodities such as ice cream, peanuts and sandwiches could be obtained. This did not end the selling activities of this class. News butchers were dispatched throughout the motly crowd with the wares.

Then at one end of the room a fortune teller dispensed her black arts. It is gently hinted that the side show of "The drifting match" which was a phosphorous match floating on a pan of water was turned into a room for couples but at a late date last night the Guilfordian was unable to ascertain the truth of this rumor.

John Gurney Frazier Jr. won the prize for the best costume among the boys while Margaret Levering took this honor among the girls.

Miss Edith Hedgecock, Alvin Stone, Gertrude Atkins, Deborah Mendenhall Mildred Townsend, and Katherine Shields spent the day in High Point last Thursday, taking in the Pageant of Progress and the Guilford Lenoir foot ball game.

Mr. Broughton Hodgin a cousin of Deborah Mendenhall spent the week-end on the campus.

"HEAVEN OR HELL" PRESENTED BY JUNIORS AT CHAPEL

"Was It Heaven or Hell" might aptly have been the title of the pre-modern Morality Play given by the Junior class, on last Thursday morning during chapel hour. For some fifteen minutes the curtains were drawn back, and the students permitted a glimpse into "the things that will be"

For Hell ..... everything looked quite peaceful. Even Fred Winn as the newest arrival seemed contented, and also rather perplexed as which place he was in. However he soon found out. Every thing came his way, but even Louis 14 tapestry's, halos, and eternity itself began to pall after a while. Glimpses of the earthworld were unsuccessful. Even professors were bluffs, not to count college students and "sweet young things," therefore, the moral was .....he soon woke up to find that he was in Hell after all.

Robert Marshall as Clarkson made a delightful angel (?) excepting the fact that his halo was on a bit crooked. Evidently from his demeanor he had served in the capacity of a butler in his preangelic days. Fred Winn caused considerable interest by stubbornly refusing to don heavenly apparel .....or to play even the conventional harp.

Madam Hoffmann Tells Of French Girls Life

Madame Hoffmann in her very interesting manner told the student body, on Wednesday morning of some of the French customs concerning the girls of the wealthy class. The young women of France have no liberty, they can not read a book unless the parents select it; they cannot go out alone or be seen on the streets with men; nor must they be so bold as to greet a

PHILOMATHEANS AT HOME TO WEBSTERIAN SOCIETY IN SUCCESSFUL RECEPTION

Halloween Program Presented; Gorgeous Costumes Worn By Hostesses

The Philomathean Literary Society reached a high peak in the literary and social activities of the college last Friday evening when they delighted the Websterians with the first inter-society reception of the year. The program was given in Memorial Hall at 7:30 p. m.

The programs for the evening, which were handed to the guests just before they entered the hall, carried a gentle reminder of the approach of Hallowe'en. The gorgeous costumes worn by the girls and the tasteful interior decorations of the room were in keeping with the program, which was dominated by the spirit of Hallowe'en.

The program read as follows: March of the Dwarfs, Grieg, by Vida McCombs. Parody on Macbeth, Witches' Scene, by Clara Coble, Elizabeth Brooks, Anna Finch. Stringed Sextet, Selected, by Louise Frazier, Chandos Kimry, Deborah Mendenhall, Virginia Galloway, Hattie Burgess, and Marie Beaman.

After the fitting introduction furnished by Miss McCombs, the curtain raised presenting a dark and weird background of brush and foliage creating the effect of a secluded and dense forest.

The three witches soon came on the stage, and while uttering various incantations and stirring the contents of the magic Caldron, succeeded in bewitching the faculty into complete truthfulness in their remarks about the students.

The second part of this number represented a faculty meeting held while the members were under the magic spell. The faculty were present as follows: Dr. Binford, Katie Cooper; Miss Louise, Mary Lou Wilkins; Madame Hoffmann, Ethel Watkins; Miss Byrd, Edna Coble; Miss Lasley, Edith Hollowell; Prof. J. F. Davis, Lalah Cox; Prof. L. L. White, Bertha Zachory; Prof. J. D. White, Leora Sherrill; Prof. Tnscombe, Lucile Purdie; Prof. Pancoast, Maude Simpson; Prof. Dann, Cordia Thompson.

The program ended with some snappy and enjoyable selections from the sextet.

There was an artistic touch and finish throughout the exercises which is seldom reached at occasions of this type. Evidences of careful training, originality, and humor were brought out strikingly in the second number. The interpretation.

GUILFORD FOOTBALL MACHINE WINS OVER LUTHERANS 24-0, IN BATTLE STAGED ON GRIDIRON AT HIGH POINT, PAGEANT DAY

Just three minutes and 15 seconds after Guilford entered the field against Lenoir at High Point yesterday she scored her first touchdown of the season, which with two more and a safety added later gave her the victory over the Lutherans 21-0.

From the minute the Quakers started the plunging against Lenoir's line it was apparent that the latter would not hold. When Lenoir got possession of the oval it also became known that the Guilford line was not invincible, the Lutherans puncturing it for a total of nine first downs. The Quakers on the other hand made the ten yards 11 times.

Thomas and Harrell of the Guilford backfield did most of the offensive running. Either seemed able to make from three to seven yards on each line buck. Harrell seemed to tunnel under the Lenoir line for gains every time the pigskin came his way, while Thomas made beautiful runs through holes that looked like he had an uncanny way of picking.

When the Lutherans threatened the Guilford Goal Lassiter sent the ball back up the field, his punts running from 40 to 50 yards. His toe work was one of the features of the Guilford defense.

One of the touchdowns were made by Block Smith, who caught a forward pass from Thomas, McBane fell on a blocked kick for one. Harrell pushed his way through the line for the other on a long run. The safety with its score of two points came when Lassiter blocked a kick and Phillips of Lenoir recovered behind his own goal line.

Phillips and Gresham of the Lenoir backfield did the most outstanding work for the Hickory college. "Babe" Shore made his debut in this years football by playing a tight game at right tackle, who with the other tackle, captain McBane were cornerstones of the Guilford defense.

"Block" Smith, and English received three forward passes successfully from the hands of quarterback Thomas, who tried this method of advancing 7 times. Lenoir successfully completed 7 passes out of 19 trails. Two of these 19 were intercepted by a Quaker while one of Guilford's was grabbed.

Guilford received three penalties against the four taken her opponents.
