GUILFORD NINE DEFEATS WAKE FOREST; LOSES TO TECHMEN AND PATRIOTS

Baptists Claim Small End 8-4
Score; State Shuts Out Quakers 210

PATRIOTS WIN 7-4

The Guilford nine slugged their way to victory over Wake Forest but lost two well played games to State College and Greensboro Patriots last week. The game with the Techmen was chiefly a pitchers duel between Shore and Allen, with both teams played high class baseball behind the two hurlers. Guilford took the lead early in the contest with Wake Forest Forest, and maintained a comfortable margin throughout the game. The Patriots captured the Quakers' first home tilt of the season chiefly by timely hitting. "Babe Shore's wallop that sent the agate into territory unattended, was the feature of the game

Scores: State-Guilford 2-0;
Guilford-Wake Forest 8-4,
Greensboro-Guilford 7-4.

State-Guilford April 4

The game with the techmen was featured by the steady pitching duel between Shore and Allen. Each hurler pitched a creditable game. The brilliant pitching of Shore turned back the techmen with only five safeties, while Coack Doak's cohorts piled up a half dozen bingles to their credit. The Quakers threw a score in State's ranks by loading the bases in the fifth frame after one man had been retired, but Gladstone shattered their hopes by gathering in Winn's drive and beating Smithdeal back to first. C. Frazier did a good day with the stick, landing three safeties out of four times at the bat.

Guilford-Wake Forest April 5

By heavy hitting and brilliant playing the Quakers trounced the Baptists to the tune of 8-4. Guilford started her slugging early in the fray. After two men were down in the first inning, C. Frazier reached first on Arnette's error. Winn and Cummings followed with three baggers, Winn scoring Frazier and Smith, Guilford's hefty outfielder, smacked the apple for a homer in the fourth frame of the affair. Wake Forest also scored in the first inning; Armstrong singled, Arnette and Pool were out and Edwards drove Armstrong in with a three bagger. Again in the third Edwards scored Arnette with a two bagger.

Greensboro-Guilford April 8

Guilford was defeated by the Greensboro Patriots in the initial home game of the season by a 7-4 score. "Babe" Shore's smashing circuit clout in the last inning of the seven frame affair with one Quaker resting on the second sack accounted for two

J. W. BAILEY DELIVERS ADDRESS TO STUDENTS

Candidate for Democratic Nomination for Governor Assists in Jefferson Memorial Service

J. W. Bailey, a prominent attorney of Raleigh, and a candidate for the democratic nomination for Governor, delivered an inspiring address on "The difficulties and resources of Jeffersonian democracy in the present day," appropriate to the Jefferson memorial week services.

After defining democracy as the rule of the people, the conduct of government by the people, Mr. Bailey contrasted the widely differing ideas of Thomas Jefferson and Alexander Hamilton. The speaker stated that Hamilton believed in a government by a group of highly educated men who should rule in the interest of the people. Jefferson on the other hand believed that the people should govern themselves for "government is not founded on authority . . . all just governments derive their powers from the governed." Jefferson maintained that governments can be truly great only when they are based on justice to the individual. Thus in a government where the poor have equal chances with the rich the ideal of Jeffersonian democracy would be realized.

In contrasting the days of Jefferson with the present, Mr. Bailey stated that there was then unlimited room for expansion, whereas at present the United

FACULTY AND STUDENT BODY HONOR THOMAS JEFFERSON IN MEMORIAL CHAPEL SERVICES

Entire Week Devoted to Jefferson Memorial; Websterians Present Program

Beginning with Prof. Lester C. Farris's description of the life of Thomas Jefferson, the chapel exercises of the entire week were devoted to a memorial service for Jefferson.

Prof. Farris mentioned many important events in the life of this great statesman, especially stressing his work in the Virginia legislature and in the Continental Congress. Here he was famed, not as a debator, but as the "document writer," the Declaration of Independence being practically his individual work. Mr. Farris mentioned the democratic code of laws which Jefferson formulated for his native state, his resolution relating to the Northwestern territory, his introduction of decimal coinage, his work as American ambassador to France, his consummation of the Louisiana Purchase, and the foundation of the University of Virginia.

Dr. Hobbs, who gave the chapel talk on Tuesday, named the three leading achievements of Jefferson as the Declaration of Independence, the statute for religious freedom, and the foundation of the University of Virginia. He spoke of the work of the Jefferson Memorial Foundation in securing and endowing Monticello as an American shrine of democracy belonging to all Americans. The three distinguished Americans selected annually as guests at Monticello are to cooperate with the University of Virginia in promoting American ideals.

Prof. J. F. Davis Wednesday morning mentioned the interesting fact that Jefferson, although a believer in strict construction of the constitution, was enabled by "stretching his authority" to acquire for the United States the vast territory west of the Mississippi in the Louisiana Purchase.

Prof. Davis stressed the fact that Jefferson was a believer in freedom of thought and religious belief as well as a leader and one of the earliest exponents of the great democratic movement in America.

On Friday morning the Websterian literary society presented a Jefferson program.

"Strife for mastery—Jefferson vs. Hamilton" by Hershall Macion was a discussion of the great political struggle between the aristocracy of Hamilton and the advocates of democracy led by Thomas Jefferson.

The second number "Life on a Virginia plantation" was given by Wendell Cude. Mr. Cude presented in an interesting way the life in an early day, with particular emphasis on the conditions at Monticello.

The work of Jefferson in the educational realm was discussed by James Howel in "Jefferson, the educator."

KENNETH NEESE WINS IN ORATORS CONTEST

Dr. Perisho Awards Websterian Oratorical Medal To Neese '27

Kenneth Neese was the winner of the medal in the thirtieth annual oratorical contest of the Websterian literary society, held on April 12. The subject of his oration was "The Progress of Patriotism."

In a brief way he traced this patriotism from its most primitive and simple form, when it was only the instinct of self preservation, up through its stages where it came to be a desire to protect not only self but offspring and neighbor. He continued the line of thought until he visualized the ideal patriotism to which the world should aspire, a worldwide brotherhood.

Joe Welborne was the first speaker, taking as his subject, "The Christ Spirit in International Relations." He offered as a solution for some of the existing problems, a more general application of the spirit of Christ in international affairs.

Gilmer Sapperger, the second speaker, speaking upon the subject, "Americanism," pointed out some of the dangers that attend the country because of its having to play the role of "Melting Pot" for the world. His oration centered

GUILFORD PLAYERS ATTEND N. C. DRAMATIC CONFERENCE

Dramatic Council Represented In First Meeting of Carolina Dramatic Association

Guilford was represented with seven delegates in the first annual meeting of the Carolina Dramatic Association, the statewide organization of societies and schools engaged in the writing or production of plays, held at Chapel Hill, April 4 and 5.

This association is a division of the department of the University. Fifty-one delegates representing various schools and dramatic clubs of the state were present at the first meeting.

The delegates received the greetings of President Harry W. Chase of the University and Prof. Frederick H. Koch, director of Carolina Playmakers and professor of dramatic literature in the University. At the Friday afternoon session lectures were given on various phases of dramatic work; and slides showing scenes from successful Carolina folk plays were shown. At five-thirty the delegates gathered in the Chapel Hill high school for an informal banquet.

Friday evening the Carolina Playmakers presented three one-act comedies: "The Flapper," a comedy of the younger generation, "The Wheel," a story of the evolution of the college boy, presented in five short tableaux; and "Gaius and Gaius, Jr.," a page from the history of a fine

GUILFORD ENDOWMENT DRIVES NEARING FINISH

Old Students Who Did Not Graduate Have Subscribed Over $90,000

1890 CLASS GIVES MOST

Subscriptions to the endowment have reached $335,000 up to the present issue, leaving $40,000 to be subscribed before the close of the campaign at commencement 1924. This amount is being solicited from the alumni, old students and present students.

The old students of Guilford College who did not graduate have up to the present subscribed over $90,000 to the endowment campaign. The campaign which was launched sometime over a year ago to increase the endowment to one-half million dollars is gradually reaching the goal and it is predicted to be a matter of almost certainty that by commencement or before the end will have been attained. At any rate the alumni in charge are preceeded with the plans for the biggest commencement ever staged at Guilford to celebrate the successful completion of the campaign.

The alumni are also pushing their end of the drive at the present time. The class of 1890 has made the largest subscription with an average for each member of the class of over $1,500. The class of 1891 has the largest average gift per subscriber, running over $4,500. The class of 1902 was the first class to get subscriptions from 100 per cent of its members and the class of 1895 was the second class to succeed in getting an every member gift.

Of the old students who did not graduate there are 2,000 yet to be solicited. Dr. Binford, in discussing the financial outlook of Guilford was in a very optimistic mood and he feels sure that the alumni and old students who will return at commencement are going to have some events over which to rejoice.

Committees have already been appointed and arrangements are being made to take care of hundreds of the old Guilfordians who are expected to return June 2. for the homecoming events. Edward B. Moore, of the graduating class, 1899, says he will
