

Guilford Sluggers Crush State Champions in Hard Fought Game

Smith Allows Only Four Hits and Strikes Out 13 Techmen

CLOSE SCORE OF 2-1

Team Plays in Mid-Season Form—No Errors Made

The Guilford Quaker nine came off the diamond victors in a clean and deserved victory over the State College team Wednesday afternoon by the score of 2-1. The State champions under the tutelage of "Chick" Doak showed splendid form and the same determination that carried them to the State championship last year. However, they were not equal to the occasion Wednesday afternoon when they met the Quaker nine. The game was exciting and thrilling throughout and never did the scrapping spirit die down until the last State man was put out.

Johnson and Holland Play

The techmen realized at the very start that they would have a real fight, so they "shipped" Red Johnson and "Dutch" Holland up from Raleigh to help defeat Guilford but the effort was all in vain for these leaguers who had been ruled out of college baseball by the Southern conference rules could do nothing with the slants of Lefty Smith and each fanned out thrice.

Smith Pitches

It was due largely to the masterful pitching of "Shirt" Smith that the Quakers came out victorious. While allowing but four hits, he made 13 of State's heavy hitters whiff the breeze. State threatened to score twice, but was successful only once, for Smith kept a cool head and used his reserve strength.

This clean-cut victory over last year's State champions and the high light among the so-called "big five" was not due entirely to the mound work of Smith, for every member of the team gave their all, and played errorless ball behind Smith. In short Guilford would have been hard to beat that day even by big leaguers.

Techmen Threaten to Score

The Techmen had the first chance to score, this being in the fourth inning, when C. Shuford got a two-bagger. Up to this time neither team had even threatened to score. Shuford died on third base. After that the visitors did not get an opportunity to score until the eighth when they made their lone tally.

English Scores in Fifth

Guilford scored first in the fifth. English was the first man up and sent the ball for a ride into the wheat field which lies in deep centerfield, and easily made a triple out of it. Griffin was next up and fanned. R. Smith was the next to bat and hit out a short grounder and English scored, as the runner was being thrown out at first.

The Quakers' next score was made in the sixth. Frazier got a hit over shortstop, and Ferrell advanced the runner to second. C. Smith came to bat and scored Frazier on a sharp single to centerfield. Lindley singled and Smith went to second, but English ended the inning with an out.

State Scores in Eighth

The Techmen made their single run in the eighth. Correll hit

DOCTOR BINFORD TELLS IN SERIES OF TALKS, HOW TO BUILD COLLEGES

Stresses Spiritual Life,
Character and Good
Hill as Foundation

Dr. Binford talked during the chapel periods Tuesday and Wednesday mornings on "The Building of a College." "Good will is one of the very important things in building a college," said Dr. Binford.

Most colleges start with small propositions and build gradually. The speaker enumerated the many things to be considered in building a college.

First, there must be buildings. Some of the other essentials are endowment, equipment, faculty, student body, curriculum, good will, spiritual life, character, citizenship, and an atmosphere of culture and refinement.

"We are short in class rooms and equipment," said Dr. Binford. "We also need a new gymnasium. We are planning to make additional classrooms and to build a new gymnasium soon. We are planning to have offices and rooms for social and recreational needs of the college in the front part of the new gym. Back of this there will be

Collection of Plays Added to the Library

Twenty or more plays, ranging from heaviest of tragedy, to the most farcical of farces, were recently turned over to the Library to begin a Drama shelf, by the Dramatic Council. These plays, which have been accumulated by the Council during its four or more years of constant buying, reading and choosing of possible plays for production, will make an interesting shelf, because of its variety, and not altogether classical nature.

Noted Rosarian Makes Liberal Gift of Plants

J. Gurney Hill, of Richmond, Ind., who visited Guilford some time ago and gave an interesting talk on roses, recently sent President Binford an assorted collection of sixty rose bushes as a gift. President Binford with the assistance of several men has converted one side of his yard into a rose garden, and is looking forward to the time when the roses bloom, to get the full effect of such a large number and such a varied assortment of roses.

Mr. Hill is internationally known as a rosarian and has had first prize entries in the London and Paris flower shows. His "Madam Butterfly" rose, is especially well known, having won first prize in several consecutive displays.

PLAY, "SMILIN' THROUGH," AND WAKE FOREST BASE- BALL GAME ON APRIL 25

Features of the Annual Home-coming Day

The annual spring homecoming day, scheduled for April 25, offers Guilfordians a double attraction, when the Quaker ball club clashes bats with Wake Forest in the afternoon, and the Dramatic Council presents its spring production, "Smilin' Through;" three act comedy success, as the evening feature of the program.

If advance dope means anything ball fans will witness a great game in the contest with the Baptists. With both clubs playing in mid-season form, and with teams holding a record of victories which makes them strong contenders for championship honors in the state, the game will have particular significance in college baseball circles, and a brand of ball will be displayed calculated to interest the most critical followers of the sport.

Following the game all Guilfordians will be guests of the college at dinner in Founders dining hall.

A large crowd should remain for the annual spring production of the Dramatic Council, "Smilin' Through," the proceeds of which will go to the Athletic association.

The play was made famous on stage and screen by Jane Cowl and Norma Talmadge, running for two seasons on Broadway and playing return engagements in all the large "movie" houses of the country. It promises to be one of the most popular productions ever presented by the Council. Those who know the story of the play, with all its human appeal, its quaintness costume and beauty of setting, and who are acquainted with the quality of work done by the college dramatic organization are confident of a successful evening's entertainment. While for those who are strangers on the campus there awaits a delightful surprise.

Y.M.C.A. REPRESENTED IN CONFERENCE AT DUKE

Joe Welborn and Raymond Ebert attended the Student Y. M. C. A. Officers' Training Conference of North Carolina at Duke University last Friday and Saturday, April 3-4. They report that they had an inspirational and helpful conference with representatives of the other colleges of the state. Carolina, Duke, Mt. Pleasant, Guilford and N. C. State were represented. Mr. Underwood, of Carolina, was chairman of the meeting and Mr. Hicks, of State, was elected secretary.

The purpose of the meeting was to train leaders for Y. M. C. A. and to let each member know what his duty in the Association is.

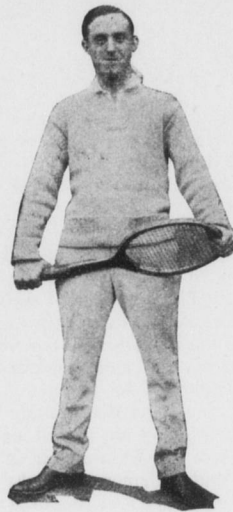

The first important address and probably the best was delivered by E. S. King of N. C. State. Mr. King stated the Association objectives as these: to lead men through faith to Christ; to help ourselves to deal with the hard things in life; to lead men into membership of the church; to develop Christian character through Bible study and prayer; to right students in the will of God to make it more effective.

The representatives attended various discussion groups where they exchanged ideas and information concerning specific problems and different kinds of work of their own organization. These discussions were helpful and interesting.

Mr. Bergthold, of Atlanta, Ga., was at the conference. He gave an address on the relations of the Y. M. C. A. to the college churches, State Y. M. C. A., Student Volunteer Movement and many other organizations of the college.

Near the close of the conference it was voted that there shall be an annual

According to the Association's constitution, the two chief officers are chosen from nominations made from the incoming senior class. The three girls receiving the highest number of votes at the nomination are voted upon by the Association. The one receiving the highest number of votes becomes president, while the one receiving second largest number, becomes vice-president.

Miss Coletrane, and Miss Mixon entered Guilford in the fall of 1922. Miss Coletrane has been on the Y. W. C. A. cabinet during part of her time here. Miss Mixon served the Student Government Association as house representative in her freshman year.

GENERAL CALL SOCIAL THE WEEK END FEATURE

The campus presented a spectacle Saturday night that has been characteristic only of the night of opening reception and stunt social. Immediately after supper the quadrangle became dotted with straggling couples who were availing themselves of the opportunity of walking in the twilight that has absorbed so much of the attention of poets and nature-lovers—and other lovers. Some of the couples of a less peregrinative nature perched themselves against the trunks of trees to talk and calmly await the bell that was to call the "wandering" home.

Early in the evening the party gathered into the halls, some at Founders and some at New Garden. Here games were played varying in the degree of skill required from the very simple

ZAY SOCIETY PRESENT AT REGULAR MEETING OF THE HENRY CLAY SOCIETY

Clays Go Thru Regular Order of Installation of Officers

The Henry Clay Literary Society celebrated its fortieth anniversary as an organization by having as their guests on last Friday night, April 3, the members of the Zatasian Society, at one of their regular meetings, which was really rather special.

On their arrival the guests were presented with small, white booklets which proved to be the history of the Henry Clay Society, printed in attractive form. This served to prepare them for the program of the evening, which was a well presented and dignified representation of the regular routine of the society, carried out in full. The new officers for the next term were installed with a simple and yet effective ceremony. Edwin P. Brown, in the absence of the retiring president, addressed the meeting and set forth some of the ideals of the society. He referred to the first installation of officers of the United States and of its importance in history, and showed how, with reference to the society, the first installation of officers in the society forty years ago had meant the same in this organization.

Edward Holder, the incoming president, addressed the members concerning the heritage that has come down through the forty years. He spoke at length concerning the things that a literary society should do for an individual and pledged himself to the task of helping in making this aim of the society a reality during his administration.

Walter Beck, the secretary-elect, gave an interesting resume of the life of Henry Clay, after whom the organization was named. He spoke of the record that Henry Clay left and relating it to his office, stated his intentions of
