QUAKERS BEAT ELON BUT LOSE TO WAKE FOREST AND WILD CAT SLUGGERS

Smithdeal, Smith and McBane Hit Hard for Guilford Team

Guilford broke its losing streak by winning over Elon on their home ground by the score of 14 to 11. However, the quakers were defeated by Davidson 16 to 11 and on Hobbs field Saturday the quakers were vanquished 7 to 3 by the Wake Forest nine.

Guilford Defeats Elon

"Hit and run" was the feature of the Elon-Guilford game that was played on the Elon diamond Monday. A total of 29 safe hits were made during the game and when the results were calculated Guilford had the big end of a 14 to 11 score. Elon trailed by not less than four runs during the entire game and never did they threaten to overtake the big lead that the quakers had piled up.

Guilford took the lead in the first frame, when four successive safeties were made off the delivering of Fowler; the christians could never overcome their lead though they made a desperate effort in the last inning when they scored three runs. Elon collected 14 hits from the offerings of Gray. A high wind sweeping across a dusty field in the faces of the players interfered seriously with the fielding of both teams, a total of 17 errors being made during the game, seven being chalked up by Guilford and ten by Elon.

Despite the many errors and big score the game had many thrills. C. Smith made a sensational running catch in left field which was the fielding feature of the game. Frazier lead

CLASS IN EDUCATION TO WRITE TERM THESES

During the past week Prof. D. Riley Haworth made an announcement to the effect that a thesis would be required in his class in Education IV, High School methods.

In presenting the matter Mr. Haworth submitted a list of fifty-four subjects from which the thesis may be chosen. These subjects relate to matters pertaining to the high school—its formation equipment, curricula, etc.

One recitation period will be devoted to a demonstration lesson in history. The Seniors who are classified for Education IV will serve as pupils for the recitation and the other students will act as critics.

During another period an intelligence test will be conducted and the "I. Q." of the Education IV class will be laid bare.

YOUNG RUSSIAN ENDURED UNUSUAL EXPERIENCES

Meets Many Difficulties In Coming From Moscow To United States.

To the average American reader the words Bolshevist and Communism have only a vague meaning. But to Alexander Pavlov, the young Russian, who came to Guilford College sometime ago to start life anew, the words stand for things which have been a vivid reality in his life. Those who are familiar with life as it found under the peaceful folds of the Stars and Stripes, can hardly appreciate what it means to live in a country of revolutions and counter revolutions. However, could they hear the story this young Russian might tell, they would at least appreciate Old Glory a little more.

It was by a strange chance that he came to Guilford. When he left Russia he was headed for the states,—anywhere to get out of Russia. Once

PROF. HAWORTH SPEAKS ON CHRIST'S EARLY LIFE

Prof. Samuel Haworth spoke during the chapel period Wednesday morning about Christ in the temple at the age of twelve. "Those who heard the things Christ said marveled at his wisdom," Prof. Haworth began. The child spoke like an educated man. In fact he was educated—not by the study of books, but by daily walks and talks with the Master.

"Some people consider themselves educated when, in reality, they only know how to do things in a regular routine. The definition I would give for an educated man is one who knows what to do in the pinches," said Prof. Haworth. In that time things were done by routine, but Jesus knew what to do in the pinches. He knew how to organize the discordant elements. He had spent many hours alone on the mountain side conversing with God. "That was, I think, his great source of wisdom," Prof. Haworth concluded.

RACQUET WIELDERS BREAK EVEN IN ONE, LOSE TWO

Taking one doubles and one singles Guilford broke even with Oak Ridge in a tennis match played last Friday afternoon. The match could not be completed on account of darkness. Joyce of Guilford easily defeated Hackney, of Oak Ridge; 6-2; 6-4, and Joyce and Burke won doubles match in straight sets from Hackney and Cummings. Brown and Trotter lost to King and Spaug in a hotly contested affair. In this match the visitors took the first set, 6-2, but lost the second 5-7; they came through in the third with a score of 6-4. Burke lost to King, 6-2, 6-0.

Wake Forest won all matches from the Guilford racquet wilders in a match played at Wake Forest on Monday, April 20. The Quakers put up a hard fight and played the Baptists a skillful game. Their positions on the court were at most times superior to the Wake Foresters but were unable to use this advantage.

N. C. State also turned the Quakers away with a defeat. Joyce was the only man of the Guilford delegation who defeated a Techman. The whole match went off slowly and was not an exhibition of first class tennis. The Techmen proved superior at the net.

Beautiful Stage Setting

Annie Wagoner, S. Keen and Chandos Kimrey Play Minor Roles Well

By Catherine Shields

The Dramatic Council of Guilford College scored perhaps its biggest success in all its years of existence with the production of Allan Langdon Martin's play "Smilin' Through," when on Saturday night, April 25th, this romantic comedy was staged with an able cast before a highly appreciative audience which completely filled the auditorium and who were unending in their expressions of approval and commendation.

This was by far one of the most difficult plays given here, and much praise is due S. Gladstone Hodgkin, who coached and rounded the material into shape for the splendid performance given last Saturday night. The critics have agreed that the setting and atmosphere fully eclipsed anything used in former plays—the delightfully walled-in English garden with its wisteria covered cottage in the background seemed an idyllic setting for the quaint costumes of the fifties, and gave just the right touch of wistful enchantment needed for the story.

Clara Coble Stars

The main honors of the night go to Clara Coble for her charming and realistic portrayal of the dual roles of Kathleen and Mooneyen, both of which required delicate and sympathetic treatment.

As Kathleen, the piquant ward of John Carteret, she gave a charming picture of youth. Her Irish brogue aided in creating the desired effect, and captivated everyone, even to her uncle, whom needless to say, she could wheedle around her little finger.

Second Act Appealing

But it was as the bride of fifty years ago, that the audience loved her best, and in the scene where Mooneyen died, there were many tear-wet faces in the audience that attested to the splendid emotional acting of that scene. In the moonlit scenes where a ghost—and quite a charming one at that—she revisited her sweetheart, she was quite appealing. The motif music, "Smilin' Through," was played softly throughout this part, while the moonlight lighting effects helped to heighten the emotional appeal of the scene.

She "got" her audience the instant she jumped from the wall to the stage, and from that moment to the end of the play the audience was hers. She wore lovely costumes and by way of variety changed them in every scene.

Reynolds and Reece Score

John Reynolds and Cary Reece as the two old friends who alternately quarreled and fought and loved each other dearly, both brought excellent knowledge and understanding to their respective roles. John Reynolds ably portrayed the part of John Carteret, a hot-tempered, broken-hearted old bachelor, who still brooded over a past hate with the indomitable will of the aged.

He gave a sympathetic and forceful character study. This was not an easy part to play, making great and frequent demands on the varied mimic and character effects.

Cary Reece made a realistic Doctor Owen and gave just the right note of dignity and steadiness needed to counterbalance the humor of the other parts. He was an able companion of Mr. Reynolds.

QUAKERS DIVIDE HONORS WITH THE LUTHERANS IN INTERCOLLEGIATE DEBATE

Uniform Marriage and Divorce Law Under Discussion

Guilford and Lenoir-Rhyne College divided honors in the intercollegiate debate which took place between the two institutions last Friday evening, April 24. The affirmative team, composed of Russell Branson and Byron Haworth, won the unanimous decision of the judges at home over their opponent Miles Aderholdt and James Walker who composed the Lenoir-Rhyne Negative team. James Howell and Gilmer Spargar, who upheld the Negative at Lenoir, last the debate to the Affirmative team composed of Frank Cauble and Dillon Sheppard, by a 2-1 decision of the judges.

The Query under consideration was: "Resolve that Congress should be given power through Constitutional Amendment to enact uniform marriage and divorce Laws for the United States." Messrs Branson and Haworth based their argument on four main contentions: First, the Protection of future generations; second, the present laxity in age limits for marriage among the several states; third, the lack of uniformity among the state laws; fourth, the possibility of enacting a law that will make the desired end possible.

Messrs Walker and Aderholdt forcefully attacked the argument of the Affirmative by charging the proposed law, that might be enacted, as im-

CAROLINA YOUNG FRIENDS INTERESTED IN MISSIONS

Young Women to the number of forty, representing 14 Meetings gathered on the campus at Guilford College Sunday afternoon, April 26, to consider together whether or not missionary effort among Friends might be strengthened by a national organization binding together the several groups of young women interested in the missionary enterprise. Miss Margaret Levering called the meeting to order and Miss Mary Petty was elected chairman. An interesting discussion followed in which representatives of each of the fourteen meetings participated. It was the opinion of this group that such a national organization, being a department of the Women's Missionary Union, should be promoted.

On Saturday morning, May 16, at Greensboro, a group representing Quaker young women from all over the United States will meet, and that afternoon at 4 o'clock, at New Garden Meeting House, a second session will be held.

TRIENNIAL CONFERENCE GREENSBORO, MAY 14-18

In May from 14th to the 18th the North Carolina Friends, through the missionary union are to be hosts to probably the largest delegation of friends which has ever come to North Carolina at one time.

This triennial conference of the Quaker missionary union will be held in Greensboro, N. C.

The program promises to be very interesting. Mary Ninde Gamewell, the author of "Nuing Kivoong," this year's study book is to be with us. Among the other speakers will be Alice Jones of Ram Allah, Palestine; Anna Hadley, Young Women's Secretary of Roxboro, Massachusetts; Philip Frazier, a Sioux Indian from South Dakota, a talented young man who is to help us with the pageant and speak at different times. There will be splendid addresses and discussions at every session.

MR. MCFARLAND SPEAKS AT CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR

"Go ye therefore and make disciples of all nations," did not apply to missionaries alone, declared Rev. Lewis McFarland Superintendent of church extension for Friends of North Carolina, in a forceful address Sunday evening.

"What if none of the disciples had heeded the command of Christ?" Mr. McFarland asked. We can just catch a faint vision of the awful condition the world would be in at the present time.

Mr. McFarland hurled a challenge to the students of the college to make a missionary contribution to the cause of Christ. "Are you planning some Christian service for your home community when you go home this vacation?" he asked.

Mr. McFarland is not unknown to the student body and is noted for his sincere inspiring, addresses. He is always welcomed to the campus whenever he finds it possible to visit the college.

"FREEDOM" SERMON TOPIC BY PRESIDENT BINFORD

"Freedom" was the main idea of Dr. Binford's sermon at meeting Sunday morning, April 26.

For the scripture lesson Dr. Binford read portions from the fourth chapter of Luke and the eighth chapter of John, taking as his text John 8:32. "And ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free."

Dr. Binford in presenting his topic, showed how we are held in complete bondage by the very things which seem to us a means of escape from bondage—"Truth," said Dr. Binford, "is only means of freedom. We are not free when we are in mental bondage to sordid and narrow thoughts and prejudices, or anything that will bar us from the beautiful things in life."

CLASS IN SUNDAY SCHOOL TO PRACTICE TEACHING

Professor Samuel Haworth's class the Teaching of Sunday School is undertaking to do practical work in observation. The various members of the class will attend Sunday School in the many churches of this and other counties, and study the different phases of the Sunday Schools, putting special interest on the equipment and methods of instruction used.

The purpose of this survey is to enable the class as a whole to get a conception of the best methods and equipment for practical Sunday School Teaching.

It is the plan of Prof. Haworth to bring experienced Sunday School teachers to his classroom and have them present an advanced Sunday School lesson as a model one—Prof. D. Riley Haworth and Dr. Elwood Persho have been secured to begin the series of demonstrations.

DR. BINFORD TO SPEAK AT WESTTOWN SCHOOL
